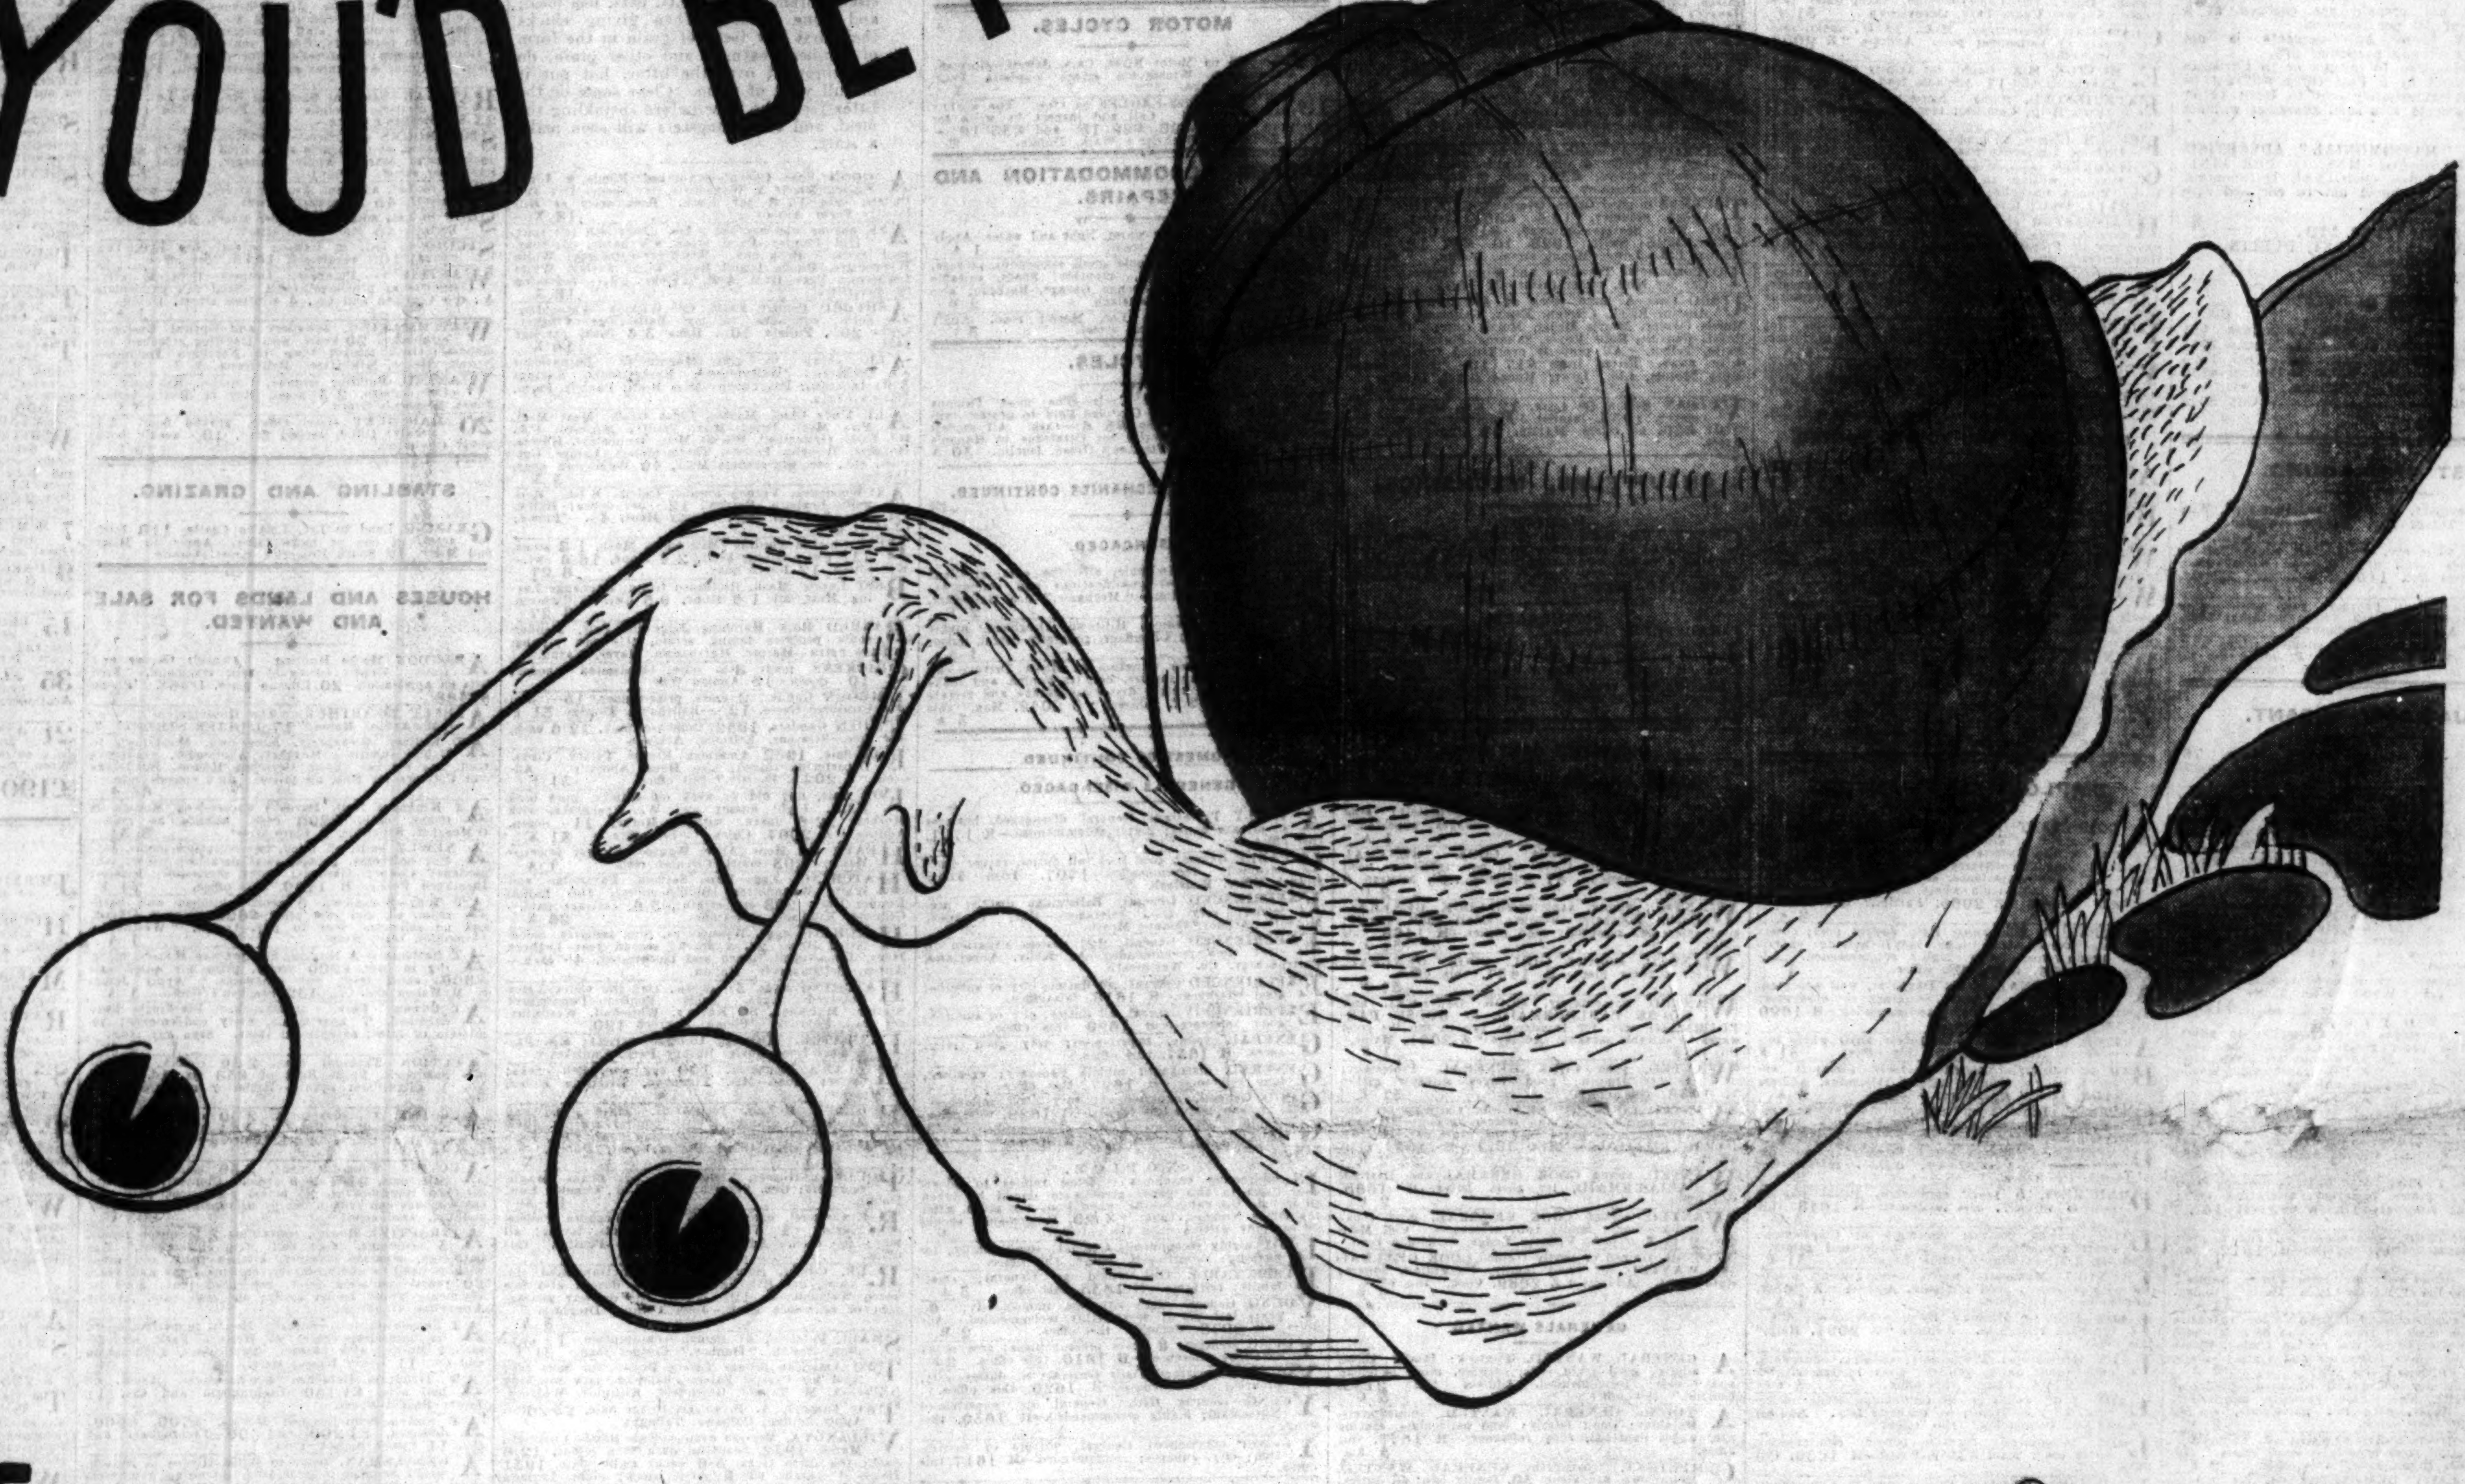
YOU'D BETTER HURRY!



THE 27TH. OF FEBRUARY IS CLOSING DATE!

A most important date. To thousands and thousands of people all over the globe, Dublin is the most important town in the world. Thousands of letters carefully addressed, sealed and packed with counterfoils and hope, are sent to you and us. Letters from friends, relatives, and people you have never seen in your life. They rely on your help and we rely on your help. Because the huge staff in the receiving depots will soon be overwhelmed with work. And you can help by leaving in your cash and counterfoils at once. Then you'll be sure of getting your acknowledgments before the Draw, and there will be no need to run the risk of your counterfoils being held over, or mistakes occurring in receipts owing to the rush. Help us, to help yourself, to help others.

HOW TO FEED.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—

Do not give bran or dry mash to chicks until towards the end of the first week, and never let it remain before them all day at the beginning. For the first week or two it must not be before them for more than half an hour at a time between the hours for grain feeding. The first mixture should be a very weak one, half of which may consist of good white bran. As the chicks grow the proportion of bran can be gradually reduced, until at three weeks or a month old they receive nothing but a stock mash, which can consist of bran, pollard, S.G. oats, fish meal, and bone meal. When giving chicks their first few feeds of grain in the form of pin-head oatmeal and other grain, do not throw it over the litter, but put it in full view of them. Clear some of the litter from the floor before sprinkling the meal, and the youngsters will soon make a start.

GARDEN, FARM, BEES, ETC.

PLANTING SWEET PEAS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says:—

The prize-winner's process of preparing a trench for peas, two feet wide and three feet deep, filling it with the good things of plant life as their rooting medium, may only appeal to the enthusiast, and we have found trenches half that width and depth, with a sprinkling of bone meal and soot and a little "ripe" manure forked in the bottom, very satisfactory. However, seeds are our immediate subject, and trouble is saved in that direction by our seedsmen in their choice collections, giving details of colour and cost. Later, if desired, seedling plants, free of soil, true to colour and name, can be had per parcels' post.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY.

Galsworthy in Ireland : The Hop Scotch Season : Newsboys' Club. "The Dublin Packet"

"The Dublin Packet."

A correspondent writes:—While passing through Chester the other day, I was surprised to see an inn bearing the name The Dublin Packet. Being curious to find out what connection there could be between Chester and Dublin, I went inside to make inquiries. The landlady was herself Irish, and she told me the history of the name. Apparently, in times gone by (the landlady herself was not sure of the date), boats used to travel direct from Dublin to Chester and dock almost beside The Dublin Packet. Nowadays, owing to the silting of the river, The Dublin Packet stands almost in the centre of the city.

The Newsboys' Club.

I was speaking to Father Ryan the other day, whose work for the Newsboys' Club is so well known, and he was enthusiastic about the band of workers who so willingly gave him their services in organising the coming ball in aid of a club which is run by the Belvedere school boys. The club, which started so simply, has grown during the past few years, and a new building is needed. There are 150 boys in the club, and 150 old boys. All are welcomed and enjoy every night the social gatherings organised for their benefit. Thirty of the Belvedere boys are attached to the club, and they know all the small chaps intimately, and visit them in their homes. Indeed, it would appear that they often do as much for the families as the boys themselves. Mr. Eugene Davy teaches the football, and I am told that, no matter where he finds himself, he returns for the matches in the Park. Mr. Leo Doyle, the recent champion of the Liffey swim, teaches the swimming, and it is no wonder that the lads carried him shoulder high on the night of his victory.

A Champion Whistler.

Father Ryan told me that he was organising a cabaret for the night of the dance, and hoped to have a newsboy artist among the contributors. This lad is a champion whistler, and has been used by Father Kennedy to illustrate his lectures on the birds. He can imitate the song of any bird, and is no small personage among his comrades. Not alone the bird calls, but airs from the operas and popular songs are in his repertoire. For the first time he will find himself among some of our distinguished artists of the concert and stage when he makes his début before what is usually one of the largest gatherings in the city.

Hop Scotch Welcome.

I thought the spring had arrived the other day when, passing through a thickly-populated part of our city, I saw the youngsters enjoying their game of Hop Scotch, or "Beds," as they call the play in Ireland. The pathway was all chalked to mark out the spaces to be "hopped," with the various "rests" for the smaller people. A sturdy girl or boy must hop without stopping to Number 12, but various pauses are allowed, and these are clearly defined, before you reach "Out." There were rival teams in the street on opposite pavements, and they seemed to get much fun out of the game.

The Tops are Out.

The tops also are in evidence, and troups of children were playing with their whips and home-made tops. A very small fellow stopped me as I passed, saying: "Would ye give it a spin?" I am ashamed to admit that I had to try a few times before I succeeded in giving that whirl which was accepted. As I went along, I wondered, now that so many schools are closed in the city owing to the influenza epidemic, why we have no recreation centre where some of these mites might be cared for. The small ones were blue with cold, and, as most of the parents are out of work and many of them down with the 'flu, the children are left to the streets. They are, of course, in the air, and seemed to be getting great fun out of their tops and "beds"; but one could not help thinking that there might be some social welfare centre where they might be provided with warm soup or cocoa in the middle of the day during these out-of-school times.

Galsworthy.

Few writers of our time have talked so little about themselves as the late John Galsworthy. It was characteristic of his reticence that in an age of publicity he did not think it worth while to mention in various books of reference such important facts as the place of his birth or that he was called to the bar in his early twenties. Yet he was, as Mr. Robert Lynd has pointed out, one of the "statesmen of British literature." His reputation as a novelist depends almost entirely on "The Forsyte Saga," that wonderful panorama of Victorian life. Soames, the prosperous solicitor, the man of property, pale, well-shaven, dark-haired, rather bald, and his beautiful wife Irene are, perhaps, two of the best-conceived and best-known characters in contemporary English literature. They live in a world unmistakably their own, and it is not possible, I think, to picture a more realistic scene, suggestive of an unhappy marriage, than the discovery of Irene "sitting on the sofa in the drawing-room, her hands crossed in her lap, manifestly waiting for her husband to go out." Mr. Galsworthy was not very successful as a dramatist; his clear style and high sense of character was particularly suited for the novel, and it is only as a novelist that he will be remembered.

In Ireland.

Mr. Galsworthy was not a frequent visitor to Ireland within recent years, but in the early part of this century he had a warm affection for the glens of Antrim and the beautiful little villages along the Antrim coast from Larne to Cushendall. Both he and Mrs. Galsworthy used to visit Cushendun with the present Poet Laureate and Mrs. Masefield, who is the youngest daughter of the late Nicholas de la Cherois Crommelin, of Rockport, Cushendun, and a cousin of Lord Dunleath. Mr. Whitford Kane, the actor, also a native of the glens, to whose book of reminiscences I referred in this column recently, tells an interesting story about a lucky meeting with Mr. Galsworthy one summer in Larne, where Mr. Kane was appearing with a repertory company. At the time one of Mr. Galsworthy's plays was about to be rehearsed before its first London production, and he was wandering through Larne, thinking that the young fellow called Kane, whom he had met some time before in London, might be a splendid man for a certain part, when he noticed the play-bills on which the name Whitford Kane was prominently displayed outside the town hall. He made inquiries, and before long Mr. Kane, who had been walking by the seashore, received one of those delightful surprises which do happen in life sometimes.

QUIDNUNC.

ANCIENT EGYPT.

ROYAL DUBLIN SOCIETY LECTURE.

"The Egyptians are a very conservative people. Frequently, when a tool or implement is recovered by the excavators, a native says: 'We use that in the village,'" so said Professor S. R. K. Glanville, M.A., at the outset of a lecture entitled "Daily Life in Ancient Egypt," which he delivered yesterday afternoon in the Members' Hall of the Royal Dublin Society, Ballsbridge.

Information as to the daily life of the ancient Egyptians, said the lecturer, was mainly derived from events portrayed in the tomb, pictures brought to light by excavation. These were naturally a little ruinous in condition, and had to be supplemented by imagination. The bulk of these pictures dated from the 14th and 15th century B.C., the period of the new Kingdom, when Egypt was at its height of power. The artist in ancient Egypt used different conventions to those employed by the modern illustrator. Perspective was never used, and the artist relied for his effects upon a system of plain and elevated surfaces.

"He did not draw things," said Professor Glanville, "as he saw them, but rather as he knew them to be. His technique was often more informative than is modern art and showed a great deal more than our methods of drawing."

The life of the native in ancient Egypt was, like that of the bulk of his modern descendants, mainly agricultural, and his methods of cultivation had been little improved upon during the passing of several thousands of years. The winnowing of wheat with a shovel was an example of an ancient practice still in vogue.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF SURGEONS' O.T.C. DANCE.

The first annual dance of the Royal College of Surgeons Officers' Training Corps will be held at the Aberdeen Hall, Gresham Hotel, Dublin, on Wednesday, February 22.

Novel features of the entertainment planned include a ballet by the Abbey School of Dancing, and demonstration of the latest ballroom dancing by Mr. Alfred Nuel Figgis, I.S.T.D., and Miss Susie Manners.

Members of the Executive Council, the President of the Royal College of Surgeons, the Army Jumping Team, and the officer commanding the Royal College of Surgeons O.T.C. (Capt. M. J. Ledwith) are all expected to be present.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE FREE STATE'S PROBLEMS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—While every decrease in the numbers of the unemployed must give satisfaction to all who have the welfare of the Saorstat at heart, at the same time care must be taken not to take too short a view of the situation. Juvenile employment in dead-end occupations, such as filling packages, running down to the Customs to clear parcels, minding automatic machines, etc., is in some ways worse than unemployment—certainly worse than emigration. Those interested in social problems in this country will be better able to judge what progress has been made when the Government publish a return analysing the number of new factories that have been started and the classified ages, salaries of the employés, and also publish an equally desirable return showing similar figures for factories closed during the same period. I cannot understand why such a return is not available.

In any case it must be realised by the population of the Saorstat that, if any real effect is to be produced on the unemployment problem by industrial development, new industries must absorb sixty or seventy thousand men and women in occupations suitable for adults: so far the Government has hardly touched the fringe of this problem. As a matter of fact, every economist knows that no Government is likely to have any better success with the unemployment problem than Mr. Thomas had as Minister of Unemployment in the Labour Government, when he accomplished precisely nothing.

People like myself who would welcome a return to a diet of oatmeal, potatoes, butter and buttermilk, and woollen homespuns for clothing, would whole-heartedly support the agricultural policy of any Government holding out such a prospect. Most unfortunately, the mass of the population, even including the "mountainy men" whose ideas so powerfully influence the ballot box, are wholeheartedly in favour of tea, white bread and fat bacon as articles of diet, silk and cotton as staple clothing fabrics, and American films, wireless sets, motor cars and gramaphones as means of amusement. I notice that even dancing as the cross-roads bears no more resemblance to old Irish dancing than the republican leanings of our ardent patriots do to the ancient kingdoms of Ireland. Just as fashion and modern ideas and slavish imitation of the foreigner have led to a cry for a republic—a form of government unknown in this country except during the brief period of Cromwell's sway—so, I fear, the same influences will defeat the wholly laudable efforts of our politicians to reform our diet, clothing and amusements.

I venture to ask every politician to consider whether it is possible to get more out of a pint pot than you put into it, except by blowing up the froth. In fact, the only possible way of increasing the wealth of this country is to increase the total value of its products. What those products are is immaterial; but they must have a steady market either within the country or outside it. The instability of industrial markets is notorious. A new invention, a change of fashion, labour troubles—away goes your market.—Yours, etc.,

"APEX."

Co. Dublin, February 3rd, 1933.

TREE-PRUNING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—"Querist" is undoubtedly right in saying that the forest tree, unhampered in its growth, is more beautiful than its city cousin, "mutilated" by pruning. The city tree, however, has neither the free root-run nor the pure air of the forest tree, and in these circumstances lack of pruning would result in weak and unbalanced growth, with a consequent susceptibility to disease.

Pruning is a scientific operation, and, if carried out expertly, assists the tree in overcoming the limitations of an artificial situation. Some city trees might be so favourably situated as to develop normally if not pruned; but I think that your correspondent would find little pleasure in the appearance of the majority after two or three years of neglect.—Yours, etc.,

"J. H. L."

TRINITY COLLEGE NOTES.

SIR WILLIAM TAYLOR.

SPORT IN COLLEGE.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

THE College has suffered a severe loss by the death of the Regius Professor of Surgery, Sir William Taylor, K.B.E. Sir William was a former President of the Royal College of Surgeons in Ireland, and had held the chair of Surgery in Dublin University since 1922. On his visit to America after the War he received the Honorary Fellowship of the American College of Surgeons, and was also honoured by the McGill University of Canada. Sir William's work in abdominal surgery had earned him a European reputation, and added lustre to the fame of the Trinity Medical School. To this School his passing is a very severe blow, and his loss will be felt, almost with a sense of personal bereavement, by the many generations of Trinity medical students who have been his pupils, and now hold posts in every corner of the globe.

The outstanding event this week in the athletic world has been the selection of Mr. R. H. Pratt as full back for the Irish team to play against England at Twickenham next Saturday. Mr. Robin Pratt is one of the most popular figures in College, and great satisfaction was felt when the news of his selection was announced on Saturday night last. His Rugby career has been short, but brilliant. Entering College from Portora Royal School in 1930, he soon found a place on the 3rd XV., and assisted that team to the semi-final of the Junior League. In the following season he was selected as captain of the 2nd XV., and had a most successful year, his team being only narrowly beaten in the final of the Junior League. Coming on to the 1st XV. only in the present season, he soon established himself as one of the soundest full backs playing, and, after a series of briliant displays in interprovincial games, was selected as full back for the Probables in the Final Trial last Saturday.

The topic of sport seems to be an absorbing one in College just now. On Wednesday night Dr. Bethel Solomons, speaking at the Historical Society debate, made an eloquent plea for more interest by College dons in College athletics, and also by College men themselves. To judge from the excellent results that are being achieved, it would certainly seem that College athletics are worthy of support. On Saturday the Hockey XI. had a brilliant win over the League champions in the Irish Cup, and the Women's Hockey XI. also gave a brilliant display on the same day by defeating the holders in the semi-final round of the Leinster Senior Cup. These victories, together with the recent achievements of the Rugby Club, show that Trinity has definitely emerged from the slight eclipse (in the sporting sense) from which she has suffered during the past few years.

THE PAVILION.

In this connection it is pleasant to record that the Board has granted £100 towards the fund which is about to be started for modernising the sports pavilion. A subcommittee has been formed by the D.U. Central Athletic Committee, and it is proposed to invite subscriptions from past and present Trinity athletes towards the cost (estimated at £250) of installing hot-water equipment in the dressing-rooms, in addition to furnishing a tea-room and club-room upstairs. It is suggested that a Women's Committee shall be formed to help in running the tea-room.

The societies have had a busy week, and their activities are now in full swing. On Thursday night the Philosophical Society listened to a brilliant address by a former member returned to the academic field—Mr. D. W. B. Good (Sch.) (Mod.), B.A.—on "The Progressing East." Mr. Good, who has spent some years in the Malayan Civil Service, was a Scholar in Classics in 1927, and graduated with a Moderatorship in 1929. He holds the Gold Medals for both Oratory and Composition in the Philosophical Society.

Next week the Historical Society will discuss the subject: "That the decay of family life is to be deplored." On Monday the Theological Society will discuss the topic of "Church Music," while on Friday night a big event is "billed" to take place. This is the annual Inter-Debate between the Neophyte Debating Society and the Elizabethan Society, under the chairmanship of Mr. J. M. Henry, F.T.C.D. The subject is: "That this House believes in Ghosts," and the speakers will be the Misses M. Gore-Grimes, B. Sayers and N. Healy for the Elizabethan, the Neophytes replying through Messrs. H. W. Oldham, E. Fahy and C. W. Grove-White. On Tuesday the Modern Languages Society will wrestle with the formidable task of revising the laws which bind together the members of what a College wit has described as the "Mutual Love Society." Incidentally, the annual dance has been fixed for Tuesday, the 21st February, at the Gresham Hotel, dancing being from 9 to 1. The Hon. Secretary is Miss Margaret McKay (Sch.), and the dance is under distinguished patronage.

STORE AND BUFFET.

The D. U. Co-operative Society held its annual meeting on Thursday last and an excellent report and balance sheet were presented by the Secretary (Miss Kelly). The turnover for the year exceeded £3,000 for the store, and out of the profits earned a dividend to shareholders of 5 per cent. on total purchases was declared. A vote of thanks to Miss Montgomery (the Lady Superintendent) and to Miss Kelly (Secretary) for their excellent management of both the cooperative store and buffet was passed with acclamation. The Committee decided, in view of the favourable financial condition of the society, to repay the shareholders who have left the College the amounts credited to them on the books, and applications were to be invited (to be sent to the Secretary, 10 T.C.D.).

Two Trinity men were called to the English Bar last week—both being students of Gray's Inn. They were Mr. Brereton Barry and Mr. H. S. Ruttle, B.A., LL.B. Mr. Brereton Barry was Auditor of the Historical Society in 1921-22. Mr. Ruttle graduated in 1929, with a Moderatorship in Legal and Political Science.

The Dublin University Players have taken the Abbey Theatre for the week beginning February 20th, and are producing a play by Robins Millar, entitled "Thunder in the Air." The producer is Mr. Cecil Monson, who is a regular member of the Gate Theatre Company; and other members of the cast include some names already very well known in the Dublin dramatic world. There will be no matinée, and the performance will begin every night at 8.15 p.m.

Our last word is a wistful one. Could not something be done to improve the appearance of Botany Bay, now that the motor cars and motor bicycles have been "driven out" to the old Parade Ground? We suggest that steps should be taken to have grass sown on the square, and proper paths provided from the corners, meeting at a central point, where a fountain might be fixed, with flower beds surrounding it. With very little effort, Botany Bay could be converted into a miniature public garden.

JANUARY'S WEATHER.

January was a month of low temperatures, ground frosts being registered in Dublin on twenty-three nights. The lowest temperature recorded was 16.2 degrees Fahrenheit, and the two coldest nights of the month were those of the 18th and 26th. The minimum screen temperature recorded was 21 degrees, and the average for the month was 37.6 degrees. The maximum temperature was 56 degrees, recorded on January 2nd. The average temperature for January, 1932, was 44.5 degrees. The past month was comparatively dry, 1.89 inches of rain falling, as compared with 3.95 inches in the previous month, December, and 2.66 inches during January, 1932.

More sunshine was enjoyed during the month, 84.1 hours being recorded against December's total of 48.9 hours. The greatest amount of sunshine for any one day in January was on the 28th, there being seven hours of bright sunshine on that day.

Winds from an easterly quarter prevailed on eight days, on two days being due east, three days north-east, and three days south-east. On five days there was calm, on four days the wind was due south, and on the remaining fourteen days from a westerly quarter. The maximum barometer reading (corrected to sea-level) was 30.695 at 9 a.m. on January 24th, and the lowest, 29.033, at 9 p.m. on January 2nd.

BRITISH WOMEN MARRIED TO ALIENS.

HOME OFFICE EXEMPTION ORDER.

In pursuance of the powers conferred on him by Article 14 of the Aliens Order, 1920, the Secretary of State for the Home Department has made an order directing that any woman who, having been a British subject, is deemed to be an alien by reason only of being, or having been, the wife of an alien, shall be exempt from the provisions of Article 6 of the said Order, which requires aliens to register with the police.

THE WEATHER IN DUBLIN.

AN UNUSUAL CHANGE IN TEMPERATURE.

An unusual change in temperature, illustrative of the fluctuations of the weather at present being experienced in Ireland, was registered in Dublin yesterday.

During Thursday night frost had occurred, and even at nine o'clock yesterday morning the temperature was still low. A sudden change was brought about by a warm Southwest wind, and the thermometer, which had been below freezing-point in the screen, and only five degrees on the ground, rose to 54 degrees in the screen.

Rain fell to the amount of a little over three-tenths of an inch in the middle of the day, and at 9 o'clock yesterday evening the thermometer registered 52.6 degrees, as compared with 32.9 degrees twelve hours earlier.

DUBLIN FRENCH SOCIETY.

Le Révérend Père V. M. Pollet, O.P., will deliver a lecture to the Dublin French Society on next Wednesday, in the Russell Hotel, at 5 p.m. He has chosen as the subject:—"L'histoire des relations—franco-irlandaises, des origines a nos jours." A member of the French Legation has kindly consented to preside. There will be no meeting on the following week at the Russell Hotel. The debate between the Dublin French Society and Dublin University Modern Languages' Society will take place at Trinity College on Tuesday, February 14th, at 3.30 p.m.

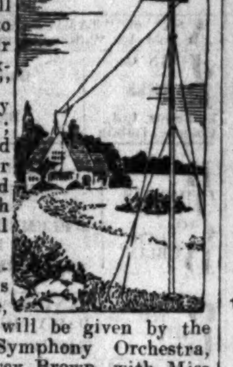
ON THE WIRELESS

IRISH DANCE MUSIC.

ATTRACTIVE programmes have been compiled for this week-end for all stations. From Dublin to-night Mr. Carl Hardebeck will broadcast another of his always interesting lecture-recitals at 10 o'clock. His subject to-night will be "Irish Dance Music and its Embellishments." On Sunday night at 9.15 in the Dublin programme "The Mummers" will present two comedies, the names of which have not been announced.



In to-night's National programme the longest item is an hour of "Radio Music-Hall." All the contributors to this are familiar and popular. "Alexander" and "Mose," with the customary "dark subjects"; "Flotsam" and "Jetsam," another popular pair, and Jack Payne, with his band, are all included in the list.

The orchestral concert in to-night's Belfast programme, beginning at 7.45, will be given by the Belfast Wireless Symphony Orchestra, under Mr. E. Godfrey Brown, with Miss Rispah Goodacre (contralto) and Henry Holst (violin) as soloists. One of the pieces which the orchestra will play is the overture to Schubert's opera, "Alfonso and Estrella." This opera was written when the composer was about twenty-five, but was not performed until about twenty-five years after his death, when Liszt conducted the performance.

ON THE CONTINENT.

THE performance of Massenet's opera, "Hérodiade," at the Paris Opéra to-night will be broadcast from the Eiffel Tower Station. This opera was first produced at Brussels in 1881, and did not reach the stage of the Paris Opéra until 1921. In the meantime it had been produced in Milan and other great opera centres, and had become one of the composer's best known works.

The English censorship has long frowned on stage pieces concerned with Biblical themes, and it is fairly well known that it was through the deep personal interest taken in operatic affairs by a member of the Royal Family that the ban which had kept "Hérodiade" and Saint Saëns' "Samson and Delilah" out of the Covent Garden repertory at length was lifted. In the case of the Massenet opera the censor required many changes, and it was under the name of "Salome" that the opera, in its altered form, was presented at Covent Garden in 1904. Several numbers from "Hériodiade" are familiar to us as concert selections.

An opera that is a general favourite, Verdi's "Aïda," will be broadcast from Berlin, commencing at 6.30 to-morrow.

There will be further celebrations of the sixtieth birthday of Leo Fall, composer of many popular operettas. To-night Vienna will broadcast "Die Serene," and tomorrow Rome will broadcast "The Dollar Princess," which was Leo Fall's first big success.

Beethoven's Ninth (the choral) Symphony may be heard from Hilversum to-morrow night. The performance is taking place at a festival concert in one of the chief towns of Holland.

DUBLIN JEWEL ROBBERY.

CHARGES OF RECEIVING.

PUBLICAN FOUND GUILTY.

THE hearing was concluded in the Dublin Circuit Criminal Court yesterday of the case in which John Barnes, Parnell street, Dublin, and William O'Sullivan were charged, jointly, with receiving property knowing it to have been stolen. The property —stolen from the establishment of Messrs. W. McDowell and Sons, Upper O'Connell street, Dublin—consisted of rings and watches to the value of about £750.

After two hours' consideration the jury found O'Sullivan not guilty, and he was discharged from custody. Barnes, who is a publican, was found guilty on the charge of receiving jewellery knowing it to have been stolen, but the jury recommended him to mercy.

Detective Inspector McGloin, called to advise the court as to the character of Barnes, said that he could say nothing in his favour. For the past four or five years there had been reason to look upon him as a receiver of stolen property.

Judge Davitt said that he would have to consider the sentences which should be imposed on Coen and Barnes, and they would probably be delivered on Monday next.

Meantime he wished to remark that there seemed to have been excellent detective work done in the case.

"CERTAIN INFORMATION."

William Coen, of Mullingar, who was the chief witness for the prosecution, had admitted on Thursday that he broke into McDowell's and stole the property. He said that he sold the "silver stuff" to Barnes for about £11.

The prosecution put in as evidence a statement said to have been made by the prisoner O'Sullivan, setting forth that he got four rings and a watch from Barnes and tried to sell them, but failed. He then returned the articles to Barnes, who said that he would return them to the stranger from whom he got them if the stranger again came to his publichouse.

Mr. J. A. McCarthy (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted; Mr. Basil McGuckin and Mr. Georoid O'Sullivan (instructed by Mr. P. F. O'Reilly) appeared for Barnes, and Mr. J. J. Devlin (instructed by Mr. L. T. McCarthy) for O'Sullivan.

When the case was called, Mr. McCarthy applied for a short adjournment to permit of the investigation of certain information which had come to the knowledge of the Chief State Solicitor.

Mr. McGuckin protested. The case had proceeded for an entire day, and it was unprecedented, he said, to introduce belated evidence at that stage.

Answering Judge Davitt, Mr. McCarthy said that the information received was such that it could not be investigated until that morning.

Judge Davitt then adjourned the trial until 2 o'clock.

TRAVELLER'S STORY.

On the resumption, however, no reference was made to the nature of the State application.

William O'Sullivan, one of the accused men, gave evidence corroborating the statement made by him to Detective Inspector McGloin after his arrest. He said that his age was twenty-nine years, and he travelled for a city firm in bar requisites. In connection with his business he called once or twice a week at Barnes's public-house. He was there on the 25th October last, when Barnes, coming from the snug, asked him whether he wanted a nice watch, and then showed him four rings and a watch, which apparently had been handed to Barnes by a man who was in the snug. The latter he now knew to be William Coen.

Knowing Barnes well, and not thinking that the property had been stolen, he took the articles away and tried to sell the watch, but failed. When he called again at the public-house Barnes showed him two watches. He noted that they bore McDowell's name, and, as he had seen something in the newspapers about the robbery there he asked Barnes whether he thought that they had been stolen. Barnes said that they might have been, and, getting uncomfortable about the matter, he returned the lot to Barnes a day or so later.

In cross-examination by Mr. McGuckin, O'Sullivan said that Barnes had acted as guarantee for him with a loan society, from which he got a loan of £10. Barnes had not threatened to sue him in connection with the loan, nor had Barnes to pay the amount of it, as the witness arranged to pay it by instalments of 8s. a week.

PUBLICAN'S DENIALS.

Barnes, giving evidence on his own behalf, said that he had been for seven years in business as a licensed trader at 42 Parnell street. He did not know Coen and did not remember having seen him until he saw him in the District Court. He knew nothing whatever about the robbery at McDowell's, and Coen's entire statement insofar as his name was introduced into it was absolutely untrue. So also was the statement of O'Sullivan, the other accused man. He (Barnes) had never had in his possession any of the rings, watches, or leather coat mentioned in this case.

Continuing, Barnes said that he guaranteed a loan for O'Sullivan for £10, and got a letter from the money-lender threatening to sue him, as O'Sullivan was not paying the instalments of 10s. a week. He spoke to O'Sullivan about it.

In cross-examination, Barnes admitted owing the bank £1,600, and that he owed it at the time when he went security for the £10 loan obtained by O'Sullivan.

MR. AIKEN IN CORK.

THE END OF BRITISH RULE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Friday.

Speaking at a largely attended victory demonstration of Fianna Fail at the Grand Parade, Cork, to-night, Mr. Frank Aiken, who received prolonged cheers, said that the result of the recent election proved conclusively that the Irish people were determined that British rule should end for ever in this country. The Government that the people elected had a policy for the agricultural and industrial regeneration of the country.

He appealed to those who voted against Fianna Fail to throw in their lot with the great majority of their fellow-Irishmen and work for the full attainment of the Government's policy—namely, the complete independence of Ireland. If they did so the fight would be short and sweet and the victory glorious.

He also appealed to those who were styled ex-Unionists not to allow themselves to be led away by any bogies that the few who were in high positions might try to raise. If all classes, Protestant as well as Catholic, accepted the verdict of the people and worked for the benefit of the country and not of party, in a very short time Ireland would be a self-supporting country, and would produce and manufacture all that it was up to now importing.

An effigy of Mr. J. H. Thomas was burnt after the demonstration.

Mrs. Whitmore, a Leicester woman, left the death bed of her husband, William Samuel Whitmore (55), yesterday, and went to Leicester Infirmary to see her son, Edward Alec, aged 29. The mother smilingly told her son that his father was recovering from his illness. The son died a few minutes later. Both father and son were influenza victims.

THE TEACHING OF IRISH.

SUBJECT DISCUSSED BY HEAD MISTRESSES.

The Central Association of Irish School Mistresses held their annual general business meeting at Alexandra College, Dublin, last night, Miss Cunningham, M.A., presiding, in the regrettable absence of the President, Miss White.

The meeting decided to send to Miss White greetings, and regret that she was not able to be present.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

In the report, read by the Hon. Secretary (Miss L. O. Rowlette, B.A.), it was stated that at the very close of the last summer term, when many of the members of the Committee had already gone on holiday, notice was sent by the Board of Secondary Education of the sudden and drastic changes in the programme for 1932-33, making Irish compulsory for all new recognised pupils, and stating that it should also be an obligatory subject of examination for Leaving Certificate pupils from the year 1934. An emergency committee was at once summoned, and a deputation of these members —Dr. Badham, Miss Bewley, and Mrs. Preston—was appointed to meet the Headmasters' Association, and, together with representatives from that body, wait upon the Minister for Education.

In presenting their case, the members of the deputation said:—

"We desire to make it clear that our attitude to the teaching of Irish is not an anti-national one. We have accepted with entire loyalty our status as citizens of the Irish Free State, and one of our chief aims in the direction of our schools is the training of our pupils in the ideals of citizenship. We resent the suggestion sometimes offered that we are less Irish in our sympathies and outlook than those who pin their faith to the revival of the Irish language.

DEPARTMENT'S MOTIVE.

"We realise that the motive inspiring the Department's regulations as regards the teaching of the Irish language is the desire to encourage a national spirit, and, as such, we respect it. At the same time we believe that, while it may fairly be considered an open question whether a strong national spirit is in any real sense dependent on a national language, the methods adopted by the Ministry of Education can never achieve this aim. We believe that compulsion, as evidenced in the history of our own country, when applied to any intelligent and orderly section of the community, is always an enemy to progress, and defeats its own ends.

"We have regretted the indirect measure of compulsion hitherto applied to secondary schools, and would venture to point out to the Department of Education that in compelling children to learn Irish where it is contrary to the wish of their parents they are creating an atmosphere of hostility to the language which it will take years to dissipate.

"Irish is a difficult subject for children to learn who do not come of Irish-speaking parents, and who have, therefore, no inherited aptitude for the language, and the difficulties confronting the teacher will be enormously increased if neither parent nor teacher is allowed any option in determining whether the pupil is or is not to learn Irish.

FINANCIAL DIFFICULTIES.

"We desire also to draw your attention to the fact that not only are schools at present working under serious financial difficulties, but that a reduction in Government grants will mean that some members of our staffs will be deprived of incremental salaries, and will be rendered ineligible for pensions.

"We most earnestly ask you to consider the injustice involved in making the present and future welfare of teachers dependent on conditions which some schools may find it impossible to fulfil."

It was, further, pointed out that in their schools there were pupils whose parents were aliens, temporarily resident in the Free State. There were others whose parents lived abroad, where the children would later join them. Other pupils were those who had returned to this country to complete their education. In all such cases no useful purpose would seem to be served and considerable hardship would be involved by forcing these pupils to learn Irish. It was suggested that the regulation should only apply to the children of citizens of the Irish Free State, and should not apply to any who entered Irish schools for the first time after the age of fifteen.

A certain number of children, it was pointed out, find linguistic study difficult, and Irish especially so. They could never hope to acquire the good working knowledge considered essential by the Department. The purpose of the Department would be served if the heads of schools were allowed some power to discriminate in such cases, and if the Department would allow, say, 20 per cent. of new pupils to be treated as special cases.

We understand, said the representatives of the Association, that the number of schools in which the percentage of pupils learning Irish is less than 50 is a very small one. We ask that the case of each such school should be considered individually before determining in each case what percentage of pupils might be considered a reasonable number for the school year, 1932-'33, and ensuing years. It is our belief that our schools can only render their best service to the nation if the different conditions prevailing in them are taken into account and a reasonable measure of freedom accorded to the heads of schools to determine the curriculum to be followed.

THE MINISTER'S REPLY.

In his reply to the deputation the Minister said he was not in a position to promise any general concession, but he promised to take into consideration the points raised, and suggested that individual schools which found themselves seriously affected should make representations.

The policy of the Government, he said, is to make Irish a spoken language. It is a case now of proceeding with it or dropping it, because the results hitherto are insufficient. Our schools must endeavour to realise the fact, that the language must have a reasonable place in the curriculum. It is the policy of both parties and the will of the people.

If the contention, that Protestant headmasters and headmistresses are willing to cooperate with the Government's policy is true, there should be something more to show for it. It is their duty to encourage an Irish spirit in the schools; at present the Ministry is in the position of financing some schools which do not regard Irish seriously. It is the aim of the Government to restore the spoken language, and to secure ultimately that the teaching of all subjects shall be through the medium of Irish.

The Minister said that the case of possible hardships to masters and mistresses by losing increments would be carefully considered.

The Association now strongly recommended that individual schools which found themselves seriously affected by the new regulations should represent their cases to the Minister for Education, for it is not likely that any considerable modification of the scheme as a whole will now be contemplated.

Proposing the adoption of the report, Miss N. L. Scott said that when a new language was forced on pupils some other language was driven out. That meant that French or Latin must go. It was impossible for the average student to learn English, Irish, Latin and French, as well as mathematics, now a compulsory subject.

Miss Perry seconded the report, which was adopted.

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

As there were no new nominations for the Executive Committee, the following were re-elected:—President, Miss White, LL.D.; Vice-President, Miss Cunningham, M.A.; Hon. Secretary, Miss Bewley, B.A.; Hon. Treasurer, Miss Barrett, B.A. Committee—Miss Darby, B.A.; Mrs. Dixon, M.A.; Miss Hutton; Miss Latimer, B.A.; Mrs. Preston, M.A.; Miss Stanton, M.A.; Miss Tuckey, M.A.

An address on "Machine Made French" was then delivered by Miss Shillington, B.A., who used a number of gramaphone records for the purpose.

WOMAN KILLED BY MOTOR CAR.

While crossing Northumberland road, Dublin, at 7.15 o'clock last night, an old woman was knocked down by a motor car, in which were three brothers. They took her to Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital, where she died two hours later. Her name was given as Catherine Williams (80), of 55 Beechwood Hill, Grand Canal street, and it was stated that she lived alone.

OFFICIALS OF DEPARTMENTS.

ALLEGATIONS OF LAXITY.

"GOVERNMENT PUT IN THE WRONG."

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

WATERFORD, Friday.

ALLEGATIONS against permanent Free State Departmental officials were made at a meeting of the Waterford Corporation last night by Fianna Fail members, who stated that the laxity of officials in Dublin was holding up housing schemes in Waterford and putting the Government in a wrong position.

The Town Clerk having stated that he got no reply to a letter written on the 13th January urging expedition in regard to a scheme for the building of forty-five new houses at Morrison's road and Rathfadden districts,

Alderman Jones (F.F.) said that he was surprised at the fact that no answer was received from the Department, seeing the necessity and urgency of housing. He knew, he said, that the Government were not at all satisfied with the way in which things were being done in various departments in Dublin. They thought that there as a certain amount of laxity "in order that the present Government should be put in the wrong." He suggested that a telegram should be sent to the Department asking them for a reply at once.

Councillor Bardon supported Alderman Jones's motion, and suggested that the four Deputies should be written to and informed of the way in which the matter was being handled. It was very unfair, he said, that these houses should be held up. He asked last month what was being done in connection with the proposed erection of 150 additional houses and could get no reply. There was a great demand for houses in the city, and something was wrong somewhere in connection with the holding-up of schemes. It was the Department that was at fault; not the Government. It was officials who were blocking those schemes.

Councillor Walsh said that he could not allow a statement to go forth to the public unchallenged that permanent officials should be charged with party bias. That was a most serious charge, and it was an injustice to them to say that they were holding up housing schemes in Waterford. His experience of these officials was that they were above party bias, and he always found them endeavouring to do their best, no matter what Government was in office. Local officials always did their best to carry out the wishes of the Council.

Alderman O'Donovan agreed as regards the local officials, but said that it was the subordinate officials in Dublin who were to blame.

It was decided that the Town Clerk again should take up the matter by letter with the Local Government Department, and Alderman Edmonds suggested that a deputation should be kept at hand prepared to go to Dublin if necessary.

OBITUARY.

MR. J. T. MULQUEEN, I.S.O.

Mr. J. T. Mulqueen, whose death occurred at his residence, Lis-a-lea, Blackrock, County Dublin, on the 2nd instant, in his 81st year, was well known to the older generation of Revenue officials, as well as to the members of the brewing, distilling and allied trades, especially in Dublin, where he held the position of Collector of Customs and Excise, from which he retired in the year 1911, when he received the Imperial Service Order. Entering the Revenue Department so long ago as the year 1872, Mr. Mulqueen served as a junior official in various parts of Great Britain and Ireland, and his ability and grasp not only of department subjects, but of social and general questions, brought him into prominence. While stationed in the little town of Criccieth, North Wales, he made the acquaintance of Mr. Lloyd George, then a youth, and was instrumental in inducing the future Prime Minister to become a member of the local debating society, where Mr. Lloyd George made what is believed to be his first speech in public. During many years Mr. Mulqueen conducted what were known as correspondence classes for Revenue officials preparing for promotion, first in a journal known as the Civil Service Chronicle, and afterwards in a monthly journal edited by himself, the Revenue Review, an excellent periodical, to which a large number of Revenue officials who reached the higher grades in the Customs and Excise Service were indebted for their success in the departmental examinations. Even after his retirement Mr. Mulqueen continued to contribute articles to many trade journals, until a few weeks ago, when an accident, resulting in the fracture of a limb, caused his fatal illness.

MR. WILLIAM MARTIN.

Mr. William Martin, a well-known solicitor, died at his residence, Hilden, Monaghan, yesterday morning after a brief illness. He was a great authority on the law of land purchase, and assisted Mr. George Wyndham in framing the Land Act of 1903. From the passing of the Local Registration of Title (Ireland) Act, 1891, he was local Registrar of Titles for County Monaghan. When qualified as a solicitor in 1890, he became a partner with the late Mr. Joseph Wright, and enjoyed an extensive practice. He was solicitor and land agent for Lord Rossmore, the Earl of Dartrey and many other large landowners. He was High Sheriff of the County of the County Monaghan in the year 1915. Mr. Martin took a prominent part in the public life of the county, and acted on nearly all public bodies. His unanimous election eight years ago as Chairman of Monaghan Urban Council, a position which he held continuously until his death, showed the trust reposed in him and the esteem in which he was held. He was a member of the General and Diocesan Synods of the Church of Ireland and of the Diocesan Council of Clogher.

He was a member of the Council of the Incorporated Law Society and provincial delegate for Ulster on that body. He was also the "Father" of the County Monaghan Sessional Bar Association. Although he had reached the age of 78 years, he was active and energetic to the last. At the recent election he acted as assessor to the Returning Officer, when a high tribute to his impartiality was paid to him by Dr. F. C. Ward. He married in 1902 Edith, eldest daughter of the late Mr. Thomas Condell, J.P., who was also a former High Sheriff for the county, and is survived by his wife and one son, Mr. Derrick Macartney Martin, B.A.

DR. ARTHUR W. POLLITT.

Dr. Arthur W. Pollitt, who had a wide reputation as an organist, died at his home in Liverpool yesterday in his fifty-fifth year. An attack of influenza, from which he suffered in November, was followed by another in January, which was complicated by pleurisy and congestion of the lungs.

In his youth Dr. Pollitt was a choir-boy in Manchester Cathedral, where subsequently he became sub-organist. He was awarded a Doctorate in Music at Durham University at a comparatively early age, and he was a Fellow of the Royal College of Organists.

Dr. Pollitt was organist of the Church for the Blind, Hardman street, Liverpool, for seventeen years, and afterwards became organist to Hope Street Unitarian Church. In 1916 he was President of the Liverpool and District Organists' and Choirmasters' Association, and from 1918 to 1929 was chorus-master of the Liverpool Philharmonic Society. He frequently conducted the choir and orchestra at their concerts, and at the time of his death he was the Society's organist.

NORTHERN SPRING ASSIZES.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Friday.

The Belfast Gazette to-night announces that the Lord Chief Justice and Mr. Justice Brown will hold the Northern Spring Assizes as follows:—Tuesday, March 7th, at Belfast; Wednesday, March 8th, at Downpatrick; Monday, March 13th, at Armagh; Monday, March 20th, at Enniskillen; Wednesday, March 22nd, at Omagh; Monday, March 27th, at Londonderry; Tuesday, March 28th, at Londonderry.

RURAL IRELAND.

INTERESTING RESEARCH WORK.

Dr. Denis J. Coffey, President of University College, presided at the seventeenth dinner of the National University of Ireland Graduates' Dining Club, at the Dolphin Hotel, Dublin, on Thursday. There was a good attendance.

Mr. Conrad Arensberg, M.A., of the Department of Anthropology of Harvard University, gave an address after the dinner on the character of the research work at present being carried out by the Anthropological Section of the Harvard Expedition. Mr. Arensberg pointed out that Irish culture possessed a distinctiveness which had survived outside pressure, and promised interesting results in the attempt to analyse its present and past structure.

Clare had been selected, the lecturer said, because it represents the average economic and social structure of the whole country, and was more immune from influences coming from outside than other parts. Besides that, the purely Gaelic tradition was not so dominant as the more outlying parts. Again, the extremes found in the size of holdings of the Congested Districts in relation to those of the centre of Ireland did not exist in Clare.

A REMARKABLE FEATURE.

Amongst the features of outstanding character which struck him was the fact that the fundamental unit in agricultural production was the individual family—the husband, wife and family working a particular plot of land with which they and their ancestors before them were strongly identified. He traced the influence of this organisation upon the character of marriage arrangements and statistics, upon markets and fairs and in folklore. He cited a number of interesting cases to illustrate his points, including one which illustrated the serious results of interfering with the ordinary working out of the system.

The vote of thanks was proposed by Mr. L. S. Gogan, of the National Museum, who expressed regret that so far University College had neglected to develop the special group of sciences, of one of which Mr. Arensberg was a distinguished representative. Such data as the lecturer dealt in had at many points a bearing on archaeology, and he cited the use made of Meitzen work on Irish farm organisation by Professor Hubert in tracing the cradle of the Celts.

UNITED STATES AND IRELAND.

Dr. Coffey, in the course of an eloquent encomium, mentioned the longstanding friendship which existed between the United States and Ireland, and said that he welcomed Mr. Arensberg and his fellow-research workers. He hoped that Mr. Arensberg would have an opportunity of lecturing in the College when his work was nearing completion.

The Attorney-General (Mr. Conor Maguire) proposed a vote of thanks to Dr. Coffey. In the course of his speech he referred to Mr. Arensberg's address as giving a new and illuminating interpretation of rural life and conditions with which his early legal work brought him into close contact, and he was pleased to give testimony of the accuracy of his observation.

Dr. Coffey, replying, expressed the hope that the Graduates' Dining Club would succeed in attracting a greater number of graduates.

DUBLIN SCOUT FAIR.

GIFT TO VISCOUNT POWERSCOURT'S SON.

A Scout Fair and Exhibition, organised by the Dublin Boy Scouts' Association, was opened in the Mansion House, Dublin, yesterday evening by the Lord Mayor, Alderman Alfred Byrne, T.D.

In asking Mr. John Good, T.D., to preside at the ceremony, Mr. E. Bain, Chairman of the Dublin Boy Scouts' Association, commented on the usefulness of the Boy Scouts' movement, and extended his congratulations to Mr. R. B. Eason, the Honorary Secretary, on his organisation of the fair.

After congratulating the Lord Mayor on recovering from his recent indisposition, Mr. John Good said that during his long experience he never had known a Lord Mayor who worked so hard as Alderman Byrne.

"It is not lip service that is wanted, but practical support by the purchasing of the articles which I see exhibited on the stalls," declared the Lord Mayor, in formally opening the fair. He said that the movement did a great deal to bring up the youth of the country to become good citizens, and offered his praise to the young men who officered that movement so ably in their spare time.

In concluding, the Lord Mayor welcomed the Honourable Mervyn Patrick Wingfield and his bride to the City of Dublin.

A vote of thanks to the Lord Mayor, proposed by the Earl of Fingall, was passed with acclamation.

At the conclusion of the ceremony Mr. E. Bain presented a silver inkstand, suitably inscribed, to the Honourable Mervyn Wingfield, as a gift from the Cubs, Scouts and Rovers of the Dublin Boy Scouts' Association, on the occasion of his marriage. A small member of the Wolf Cubs presented Mrs. Wingfield with a bouquet of tulips.

After a suitable reply by the Honourable Mervyn Wingfield, his father, Viscount Powerscourt, commented that the gift was a particularly suitable one, as his son was to leave home again shortly for London, where he was to go into business.

The Fair will be opened, at 3 p.m. to-day, by Mr. John Good, who is President of the Dublin Boy Scouts' Association.

MESSRS. MARTIN'S STAFF DANCE.

There were about three hundred guests present last night at the annual staff dance at the Hibernian Hotel, Dublin, of Messrs. T. and C. Martin, Ltd., and the event was a great success.

The committee responsible was: Misses R. McBreen, A. Bacon, N. O'Toole, M. Brunton, E. Talbot, N. Warren, and Messrs. A. V. Moore, C. Sparke (treasurer), E. Johnson and H. O'Connor (secretary). The directors present were Messrs. C. M. O'Kelly and F. L. Martin.

The members of the staff present were:—Messrs. P. Carroll, J. A. Wheeler, J. P. Tyndall, D. Alexander, W. Scarlett, J. Byrne, G. Egan, W. R. Halpin, R. White, J. O'Halloran, E. O'Brien, C. Robinson, J. Kelly, J. O'Toole, Misses G. Murphy, M. Lawler, F. White, P. Bordman.

There were also present:—Miss A. McBreen, Mr. Flood, Miss Lyons, Mr. Nicholson, Miss P. Maguire, Miss McGahan, Mr. C. Karney, Mr. F. Murphy, Miss G. Gilmartin, Mr. J. Murphy, Miss T. Murphy, Miss Lawler, Mr. Fletcher (Liverpool), Miss Tyndall and Mr. J. Tyndall (jun.); Mr. C. Ryan and Miss Kenny, Mr. and Mrs. Fallon, Mr. L. Lawler, Mr. and Mrs. Moore, Miss E. Talbot, Mr. J. Aikinson, Miss Flood, Mr. Murphy, Mrs. O'Toole, Lieutenant Keane, Messrs. J. J. Quinn, R. Edgehill, R. Fitzgerald, Miss McNamara, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Oxley, Misses Stritch, Bell, O'Riordan; Messrs. O'Riordan, Graham, Crozier, C. Black, Misses Harvey, K. O'Neill, Messrs. E. Smith, M. Buggy, P. Bacon, M. J. Kerley, C. J. Belton (Smith and Davis), Mr. Kerr, Messrs. S. V. Lyons, D. Gibson, D. Cullen and J. Quirke; Mr. D. Warren, Miss N. Warren, and Mr. C. O'Hagan; Misses Nance O'Toole and D. Thompson.

HOUSING IN DUN LAOGHAIRE BOROUGH.

Excellent progress in providing suitable dwellings for the inhabitants of overcrowded areas in the Dun Laoghaire Borough was recorded in a report recently issued by the General Purposes' Committee of the Dun Laoghaire Borough Council on the progress of housing schemes undertaken by that body.

In March, 1932, it was estimated that 345 houses were required to clear unhealthy areas. Since that estimate 70 houses have been erected and occupied, and there are in course of erection 37 houses in Glasthule and 10 in Blackrock. Tenders for the erection of 101 houses in Glasthule have been received, the contract to be placed on receipt of the approval of the Local Government Department, and a scheme for 16 houses on Adelaide road has met with approval. This accounts for 234 houses, leaving 111 further dwellings still to be provided for inhabitants of insanitary areas in the borough.

"If suitable sites can be procured in Blackrock and Dalkey," it is claimed in the report, "it will be possible to complete the clearance of unhealthy areas in the borough in approximately twelve to eighteen months.

SEVEN MILES ABOVE EARTH.

EVEREST 'PLANE'S TRIAL FLIGHT.

THE AFRICAN AIRWAY.

CLIMBING to a height greater than any aeroplane carrying two occupants has ever previously reached, the "Houston-Westland" biplane, purchased for the flight to the summit of Mount Everest has successfully completed its "acceptance" trials, and is now dismantled and packed ready for shipment to India.

With Mr. H. J. Penrose, chief test pilot of the Westland Company, at the controls and Air Commodore P. F. M. Fellowes, leader of the expedition, in the observer's cockpit, the aeroplane went up to a level where the thermometers registered more then a hundred degrees of frost, and the air was so thin that, without the oxygen breathing apparatus, the flyers would rapidly have died. At the highest point the barograph registered 38,800 feet. This was later corrected in calculation, after making allowance for prevailing temperature and atmospheric pressure, to slightly more than 35,000 feet. The contract between the constructors and the expedition stipulated a "ceiling" of 34,000 feet, a condition which, therefore, was easily fulfilled.

The aeroplane carried the full load of fuel and equipment, which will be needed for the actual flight over the world's highest mountain. When it left the ground it weighed 4,870 pounds. The greatest height was reached in 74 minutes from the start, and there in a few minutes of level flight, the aeroplane maintained a speed of 140 miles an hour—a noteworthy achievement for aircraft and engine in atmospheric conditions that prevented the motor from developing more than a fraction of full power. Though the temperatures experienced were actually lower than need be expected in flight over Everest itself, pilot and observer were comfortable in their electrically-heated clothing, and the oxygen gear worked admirably. Mr. Penrose declared that the controls worked perfectly—inevitably an anxious point in flight through icy, rarefied air so high above the earth—and that he was warm enough to take off his goggles during the long descent. Clouds over the aerodrome at Yeovil lay in a single bank at about 4,000 feet up; at its service "ceiling" the aeroplane flew more than 30,000 feet above them.

On the following day Squadron Leader the Marquess of Clydesdale, chief pilot of the expedition, himself took the "Houston-Westland" to more than 30,000 feet, accompanied by Lieutenant-Colonel L. V. S. Blacker, who will be chief observer on the flight over the Himalayas. He found "everything O K," and the work of dismantling the craft for packing was begun immediately after his descent.

POWER FOR THE CLIMB.

Heart of the aeroplane, and most important mechanical partner in the enterprise, is the Bristol "Pegasus" supercharged S.3 radial engine. Exactly similar to the motor fitted to the aeroplane in which Mr. Cyril Uwins set the new world's height record of 43,976 feet, the "Pegasus" S.3 units fitted to the "Houston-Westland" and to the expedition's second aeroplane (a standard Westland "Wallace" specially modified for the flight), are truly remarkable engineering products. Designed especially for high altitude work, the standard S3 delivers its maximum output of 580 h.p. at a height of 13,500 feet, enabling power to be maintained at a high level, even in the thin air above 30,000 feet. This attribute of the engine is reflected in the rapid climb to great heights of the heavily laden expedition 'planes. Calculations show that the machines should fly over the peak of Everest at a height of some 35,000 feet within about eighty minutes of leaving the base aerodrome at Purnea, nearly 150 miles away.

Like the motor employed by Mr. Uwins, the S3 units fitted to the expedition's aircraft have a slightly larger impeller in the supercharger than the standard unit and higher compression; otherwise they are exactly the same as the standard engines now being produced in quantity for use in this country and abroad.

SURVEY AND PRESTIGE.

Within the next two or three days the "Wallace," which will be piloted over Everest by Flight-Lieutenant D. F. McIntyre, will also be put through test flights, though the complete success of the "Houston-Westland" trials makes unnecessary a climb to the specified height of 34,000 feet. Immediately afterwards the aeroplane will be dismantled and packed.

The objects of this great aerial adventure are threefold—conquest of Everest, aerial survey, photography and mapping of the mountain and its surroundings, and a demonstration that even the world's highest peak is not an insurmountable barrier to air transport. Further, successful accomplishment of the flight will do much to enhance British national prestige and the reputation of British aircraft and aero engines.

AFRICAN AIRWAY TRIUMPH.

Nearly a year ago passengers were first carried on the Imperial Airways route all the way from London to Cape Town. To-day Sir Eric Geddes, chairman of the company, and Major Wood Humphery, managing director, have just completed a flight all the way along the line which has proved to them beyond dispute the success of this latest venture in imperial transportation. From Cairo to the south the airliners are plying with full loads. Between Cairo and Central Africa machines at present on the service barely suffice to carry the passengers who wish to travel. Mail and freight loads are heavy, and important rearrangement of the company's fleet, followed probably by general expansion of the service, will take place soon.

Already the first step has been taken. The giant Handley Page Type 42 biplane, "Helena," in which the Imperial chiefs made the journey to Cape Town, will be retained in Africa to operate between Cairo and Kenya. She is one of the "Western" class of these big four-engined craft, carrying on the cross-Channel routes 38 passengers in two big saloon cabins. In Africa her working capacity is not likely to be less than thirty, which means a considerable increase in the seating accommodation offered.

"Helena" is the first airliner to complete the service flight through Africa. She left Cape Town on Wednesday last week northbound for Cairo, with a big load on board, and was scheduled to make the trip straight through before beginning work on the Cairo-Kenya service. In a telegram received the other day in London Major Woods Humphery expressed his own and the chairman's appreciation of this fine aeroplane and its four 550 h.p. "Jupiter" motors, which completed the journey without the slightest trouble.

On the way south "Helena" was sent aloft on important demonstration flights at Dar-es-Salaam, Salisbury, and Johannesburg. At Salisbury the Governor, Sir Cecil Rodwell, and several members of the Rhodesian Cabinet, went for a flight of fifty miles. Everywhere the big 'plane, which is the most comfortable landplane airliner yet put in commission anywhere in the world, earned the compliments of those who flew in her. She is the largest flying machine ever seen south of Central Africa.

PERIODS OF ENGLISH LITERATURE.

INFLUENCE OF FAMOUS WRITERS.

Mr. Garrett Gill, in a paper on "The Eighteen-Nineties in English Literature," which he read before the Dublin Literary Society last night, went through a list of the leading writers of the period, and proceeded to speak of the new spirit introduced by such authors as Shaw, Hardy, George Moore, Yeats, Hyde and Lady Gregory. He referred to the period of the Yellow Book and of the Savoy, and adduced the atmosphere of the 1890 period, and particularly of these new writers and the new spirit of the time from the influence of such writers as Walter Pater in England, and Huysmans, Verlaine, and Beaudelaire in France.

The speaker devoted a great deal of his paper to a consideration of what was known as the decadence and the fin de siecle periods, and part of its to some consideration of the writers of the period who are still alive, or who had left the scene.

Professor W. Magennis, President of the Society, presided.

Beware of Colds NOW!

whether you've had the FLU . . . or not

This is the time when serious cold-troubles, such as deep chest-colds, bronchitis, and pneumonia are always at their worst.

Just now, with so many people in the weakened condition that follows a flu attack, it is more important than ever to heed every cold as a danger-signal and to check it promptly before complications can set in.

Quick Direct Treatment

At the first sign of a cold, melt some Vick Brand Vapour-Rub in a bowl of hot water and inhale its healing vapours. Also place some up each nostril and sniff well back. This quickly opens the air-passages.

At bedtime, rub Vick Brand Vapour-Rub vigorously on throat and chest and cover with warm flannel. Most colds yield overnight to its two-fold action.

Acts in 2 Ways at Once

(1) Its medicated vapours, released by the warmth of the body, are inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the difficult breathing.

(2) At the same time, Vick Brand Vapour-Rub acts through the skin like a poultice, "drawing out" tightness and pain, and thus helping the vapours to break up the congestion.

Mothers especially appreciate this simple external treatment because it cannot upset children's delicate stomachs, as too much "dosing" is so apt to do.

At all chemists, trial jar, 1/6; double quantity, 2/3.

DUBLIN-MANCHESTER AIR SERVICE.

Mr. Edward Hillman, of Hillman's Airways, visited Manchester yesterday to confer with members of the Corporation Airport Committee regarding a scheme for daily air services between Manchester and various centres, including London, Douglas and Dublin.

Under the suggested scheme aeroplanes capable of 110 miles an hour would be used, and Barton air port would be leased.

The Town Clerk (Mr. F. E. W. Howell) afterwards stated that agreement on most of the points at issue was effected.

It is understood that the proposals include the granting by the Corporation of a subsidy to Mr. Hillman, with profit-sharing over a given figure.

ROCKWELL COLLEGE UNION DANCE.

The Rockwell College Union held their annual dance in the Aberdeen Hall, Gresham Hotel, Dublin, last night. The guests numbered 300, and the function proved an enjoyable one. George Hornsby and his orchestra provided the music.

At the opening of the dance Mr. P. J. Duffy, on behalf of the Rockwell College Union, presented the President (Dr. E. P. McLoughlin) with a handsome Queen Anne tea service, with spoons, on the occasion of his marriage, a gift which was heartily acknowledged by the recipient.

Miss K. Cussen was dressed in lime green satin; Miss B. Morrissey had a pretty white lace frock, and Miss E. Morrissey was gowned in old gold lace. Mrs. T. J. Morrissey wore a bronze lace gown, and Mrs. E. P. McLoughlin wore a frock of royal blue satin. Miss E. Mahony was dressed in printed georgette. Miss K. Mahony came in navy blue georgette, and Miss K. Ward wore pale pink georgette. Mrs. T. Cleary wore a gown of black and red velvet, and Miss M. Cleary was attired in one of lime green frilled georgette. Miss M. Gaffney had a frock of white spotted tulle, while Miss R. Veale was in shell pink georgette, and Miss M. Nugent was in angel satin.

The attendance included:—Dr. E. P. McLoughlin (President) and Mrs. E. P. McLoughlin; Senator and Mrs. Barniville, Mr. and Mrs. T. Cleary, Miss M. Cleary, Miss A. Hill, Miss K. K. Mahony, Mr. Andrew B. Costigan (M.C.), Messrs. Morrissey, Flanagan, U. Nugent, M. Browne (Hon. Treasurer), G. Ring, members of the committee, with Mr. M. B. Costigan (Hon. Secretary).

Mrs. M. Hourihan, Miss Kitty Cussen, Miss K Ward, Mr. and Mrs. E. Gallagher, Miss E. Hewson, Miss Cahill, Miss R. Healy, Miss Duke, Mr. B. Murray, Mr. and Miss Keenan, Mr. B. Mooney, the Misses Flanagan, Mr. A. Collins.

SOUTH DUBLIN HARRIERS' DANCE.

In spite of the influenza epidemic, a large number of guests attended the annual hunt dance of the South County Dublin Harriers, which was held last night at Woodtown Park, Rathfarnham, by kind permission of Dr. and Mrs. Bigger. Dancing went on from 9 p.m. until 3 o'clock this morning, the music being supplied by Peter Keogh's Band, and a feature of the evening was the number of hunting tunes played. Several novelty and prize dances also took place.

The guests numbered over two hundred, and included Dr. and Mrs. Bigger, Mr. A. D. Mitchell and Mr. Gore Grimes (Joint Masters), Mrs. Gore Grimes, Miss Sheila Myers and Miss Peggy Morgan Byrne (whips), Mr. F. McKeever, Miss McSweeny, Captain Wilson, Mr. M. O'Brien, Captain C. Harty, Captain O'Sullivan, Captain Finlay, Count and Countess Taaffe, Mrs. Stanley Lyon, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Healy, Mr. and Mrs. Coleman, Miss Curtin, Mr. W. Bobbett, Captain Hannan, Mr. and Mrs. J. Macaulay, Mr. J. J. Shea, Dr. Flanagan, Mr. and Mrs. Davey Harvey, Captain McMenamin, Mrs. Reddin, Mrs. Justice Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Denis Johnston, Miss Betty White, M. Goor, Mr. J. McCarthy, Miss K. Byrne, Mr. and Mrs. Clery, Mr. W. Marmion, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Shortt, Mrs. Hogan, Mr. C. Rooney, Mr. A. Toole, Mr. G. Pearse, Dr. and Mrs. Desmond Reddin, Mr. and Mrs. F. Clark, Colonel and Mrs. Hogan, Dr. Dockeray, Miss Kathleen Murphy, Dr. and Mrs. Ryan, Mr. D. J. and Mrs. Healy, Mr. M. Gallagher, Miss H. Kelly and Miss B. Byrne.

Sales in connection with the Scheme of Loans for the Purchase of Heifers are being arranged as follows:—
County Limerick—Newcastle West, 25th February; Limerick, 27th February.
County Tipperary—Tipperary, 28th February; Fethard, 1st March; Templemore, 2nd March.
County Louth—Drogheda, 27th February.
County Meath—Nobber, 28th February.
County Monaghan—Castleblayney, 1st March.
County Galway—Portumna, 3rd March.

Applications for Loans in respect of selected Heifers proposed to be purchased at these Sales should be forwarded to the Department's Offices. The necessary Forms of Application and Copies of the Scheme may be obtained from the Secretary of the Committee of Agriculture for each of the relevant Counties; the County Instructors in Agriculture; the Auctioneers in charge of the Sales; or direct from the Secretary, Department of Agriculture, Dublin, C.17. Letters applying to the Department for Copies of the Scheme and the Form of Application should be marked "Heifer Loans." Shorthorn and Kerry Heifers, including weanling heifers aged 6 months and upwards, and heifers carrying their first or second calves, will be eligible for selection. Owners having such heifers for disposal should communicate with the Auctioneers, and arrange to have the animals at the place of sale in good time for inspection. Approved applicants for Loans can attend any approved Sale of Selected Heifers, and they are not required to be accompanied by their sureties. In order to ensure consideration, applications for Loans should be lodged with the Department WITHOUT DELAY, and in no case later than two weeks prior to the date of the Sale at which the applicant proposes to purchase.

FOR SALE,
CASTLEMORRES DEMESNE,
COUNTY KILKENNY,
CONTAINING 623 ACRES OF GOOD ARABLE AND WOODLANDS.

This fine Demesne is situate 13 miles south of Kilkenny, 15 miles north of Waterford, and about 3 miles from Ballyhale Railway Station. Close to a Post Office, in a good residential and sporting centre, within easy reach of two packs of foxhounds. Good covert shooting on Estate. The Mansion is a large, modern structure, in good, habitable condition, a considerable sum having been expended on an entirely new sanitary system, and on the electrification of the premises. It contains 5 reception rooms and billiard-room, 12 principal bedrooms, and ample servants' and storage accommodation. The Mansion stands on a slight eminence and commands a splendid view of its sylvan surroundings. A carriage drive, almost one mile long, connects it with a handsome entrance and gate lodge on the county roadside. Outbuildings are extensive, and in every respect suitable for an Estate of its dimensions. A caretaker residing on the premises will show intending purchasers over the buildings and point out the lands. Offers for less than the full area will be considered. All requests for further particulars and offers should be addressed to the Secretary, Irish Land Commission, 24 Upper Merrion street, Dublin.

The Irish Times

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1933.

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

Police escorts for the Catherwood 'buses, and military transport for passengers, between Dublin and Balbriggan, were features of yesterday's strike situation. No movement has been made towards a settlement. The railways in the North report improvements in their services, but no trains are running on the Free State section of the Great Northern line.—(Page 7.)

The Labour Party in the Dail decided yesterday not to seek a coalition with any other party in the House.—(Page 7.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer (Mr. Neville Chamberlain), in a speech at Birmingham, promised that there would be no new taxation, but a substantial reduction in expenditure would be made.—(Page 7.)

ABROAD.

As a result of an agreement reached at Geneva, the Anglo-Persian oil dispute has been withdrawn from the League, and the basis laid for a settlement by direct negotiation.—(Page 7.)

FINANCIAL.

London Stock Markets were strong, especially for South African Mines, in which there was an excited "boom."—(Page 12.)

Dublin Market was quiet, with marked strength in Free State Loans.—(Page 12.)

The Railway Strike.

The railway strike grows in Northern Ireland; for the English railway unions have thrown all their weight into the struggle. In the Six Counties only a trickle of railway traffic remains, and the Great Northern Company's services in the Free State have ceased to exist. Rightly, as we think, the company has refused to subject the lives of loyal workers to such outrages as the Dundalk derailment. The company's railway omnibuses still run in Northern Ireland, though they have been stopped in the Free State; and the whole Northern area is now dependent on motor traffic. Even in that respect, however, the railway unions have won a sinister success. The Belfast dockers, co-operating with them, have refused to handle lorry-borne traffic for cross-Channel ports, with the result that the North's greatest industry has received a heavy blow. Linen factories are idle; leading manufacturers have decided to close their works, and within the next few days thousands of their hands may be out of employment. In effect, the railway unions have declared war not only against the Great Northern Railway Company, but against the whole people of Northern Ireland. This strike is an attempt to compel the Northern Government to subsidise railway wages, and, since the Government is stubborn, it is being attacked through the increasing miseries of the general public. Mr. Dobbie and his fellow-strategists are employing the transport strike psychologically—just as aerial bombing will be employed in the next war.

There is not the slightest justification for this heartless campaign. Everybody knows that all railway companies in Great Britain and Ireland have been reduced from prosperity to indigence within the last few years. When such fate befalls any great business—except a railway company—all persons concerned are required, and rarely refuse, to make equal sacrifices. Directors take smaller fees; shareholders accept smaller dividends; workers resign themselves to smaller wages. The railway workers alone insist that, although the sources of their livelihood are crumbling rapidly, their wages shall remain intact. Alike in Great Britain and in Ireland they have rejected the awards of arbitration boards which were established with their own consent and approval. To-day the wages of Irish railwaymen are, on the average, 146 per cent. above the pre-War rates, and, if the National Wages Board's cuts were enforced, still would be 131 per cent. above those rates. Since the War the cost of living has increased in the Free State by 53 per cent., and in Northern Ireland by 43 per cent. Nevertheless, the railway unions, confronted with a slight reduction of wages, defy the whole machinery of arbitration and propose to hold three States to ransom. We may be sure that not ten per cent. of the Northern public to whom this cruel pressure is being applied are as well paid as the railway workers, or enjoy even one-half of their amenities.

Hitherto the Free State Government has dealt firmly with the reactions of the Northern strike upon its own area. It has stopped the subsidy in its northern counties, has furnished protection against outrage, and has replaced the withdrawn railway omnibuses with official lorries. We must hope that this firm attitude will be maintained if, and when, the strike weapon is brandished against the citizens of the Free State. The forthcoming Railways Bill may offer such concessions to the Free State railways as will enable them to withdraw the six per cent. cut in wages; but, if that solution is found to be impracticable—what then? The Great Southern Company will be compelled to apply the cut after the 30th April, when the Government's subsidy will cease. It is at the end of its resources; it announces to-day that even its Guaranteed Preference Stock must go without a dividend. The railwaymen who refuse to accept the company's cut number some twelve thousand. They are shrilly vocal, but what of the eleven thousand shareholders of £500, and under, to whom this failure of dividends means dire hardship and, perhaps, despair? If the Railways Bill cheats the company's hopes, and if the railway unions attempt, at the strike's point, to make the present subsidy a permanent burden on the Free State taxpayer, will Mr. de Valera's Government accept the dictation of its Labour allies? Will it allow twelve thousand railwaymen to hold three million citizens to ransom? The conflict with the English railway unions, if it comes, will be a real test of Mr. de Valera's economic nationalism.

Free State Electricity.

Figures issued yesterday by the Electricity Supply Board reveal that the consumption of electric current in the Free State is increasing at an encouraging speed. In 1930 89,120,000 units of electricity were generated by the installations under the Board's control; in 1931 the amount was 147,603,000, and last year it was 163,000,300. Naturally, the jump was higher between 1930 and 1931; but the increase is satisfactory and shows efficient working. Three years ago the number of units which were sold by the Board was 65,000,000; in 1931 it was 108,140,000, and last year it had risen to 119,560,000. Furthermore, the number of consumers rose from 57,000 in 1930 to 75,800 in 1931 and to 80,900 in 1932. These figures show steady progress. The Irish Free State has not yet developed the "electric mind"; and those who harnessed the Shannon took a heavy risk. Dublin is, and must remain, the chief market for Shannon power, and the bulk of the Ardnacrusha current must be carried for nearly one hundred and twenty miles to the metropolis by means of high tension wires. There was much muddling in connection with the Shannon scheme, for which the Free State taxpayers must pay; but from the engineering point of view the works at Ardnacrusha are among the best of their kind in the world, and the demand for Shannon current has exceeded expectations. Talk was rife some eighteen months ago about the further development of the Shannon, and it was expected that the Electricity Supply Board would proceed with the second stage, as contemplated in the original White Paper and the experts' report; but hitherto nothing has been done. On the other hand, new and highly expensive steam plant has been installed in the Dublin Pigeon House, which was to have disappeared when the Shannon scheme came into operation. It seems that the Electricity Supply Board does not intend to keep all its eggs in a single basket, after all. It is far too late now, however, to discuss the economics of the Shannon scheme. For better or for worse, the Free State is committed to it, and must pursue the maximum benefits from this great experiment. One day, perhaps, the Shannon will justify all that has been said of it. The establishment of electro-chemical industries in the Free State would make all the difference; but the continental experts expressly discouraged this plan. Citizens must reconcile themselves to the fact that Shannon current is not particularly cheap, while at the same time they do everything in their power to encourage its employment.

Houses and Incomes.

We are glad to learn that the Housing and General Purposes Committee of the Dublin Corporation is seeking powers to borrow a further sum of £250,000 for advances under the Small Dwellings (Acquisition) Act. This Act has proved to be a great boon for thrifty citizens who are unable to deposit large sums for house purchase. Under its provisions the Corporation is empowered to advance ninety per cent. of the value of a house up to a maximum value of £1,000, and actually has been advancing eighty per cent. Many Dublin citizens have profited by this admirable system, which has become so popular that even the new loan of £250,000 hardly will be sufficient to meet the demand for houses. In England the Small Dwellings Act has done an enormous amount of good. It has been largely responsible for the continued prosperity of the building trade in a time of general depression, and in all parts of the country new houses are being built. The London County Council has been particularly active in the provision of suitable dwellings for people of moderate means, not only to be purchased, but also to be let. At Roehampton a very large number of houses has been built, and the London County Council is exercising a commendable supervision over its tenants. The houses were intended for people of limited incomes, but, as was inevitable in the circumstances, many of them were let to persons who easily could have afforded more expensive accommodation. A circular letter now has been sent to many of the Council's tenants, requesting them to vacate their houses within the next three months in favour of families who are more urgently in need of subsidised accommodation. Already some eighty families have left the houses. The Council hopes to secure the departure of the remainder in the near future, when the houses will be allotted to more needy persons.

A Foul Traffic.

The League of Nations has not shown any excess of brilliance in its handling of international disputes, but its work in other respects has been admirable. It has done much to abolish the traffic in drugs; nearly every member State of the League is pledged to prohibit the manufacture or sale of "dope" by all the means in its power, and the source of the evil has been confined virtually to one country. Now the Secretariat has issued the report of its commission of inquiry on the traffic in women and children in the Far East. The report makes a number of startling disclosures. It reveals that the principal victims of this appalling traffic are "Russian women of the refugee class in Northern China and Manchuria." Many Russians have poured into China from Siberia since the Bolshevist Revolution, and numbers who had lived in Manchuria have lost their former sources of income. A terrible fate pursued the young women of these classes. Some of them were compelled to pay for their maintenance in China with their chastity; others drifted into prostitution through the sheer force of hunger. Very many fell into the hands of Chinese white slave-traders and to-day are disseminated throughout all the cities of the East. The Chinese Government, it is true, is not sparing of its efforts to crush the traders; but their traffic is too widespread to be defeated readily. The report urges international co-operation as the best means to combat them. It suggests that central authorities shall be created in every oriental country—China is only one, albeit the worst, of some dozen countries examined by the commission—to receive information concerning the traffic. In this matter, at least, the League may expect unanimity among its members.

Arrangements are now being made to transfer nearly 100 convicts to Dartmoor from penal establishments in Britain which are at present overcrowded. When the transfers are completed there will be nearly 400 convicts at Princetown, approximately the number there at the outbreak of the disturbances twelve months ago.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

The postponement of the King's return to London has necessitated many new arrangements. Their Majesties will attend the gala performance of "The Good Companions," which will be given at the end of this month in the New Victoria Cinema, in aid of the Personal Service League.

The Prince of Wales is spending the end of the week at Fort Belvedere, where he arrived after his tour through the Duchy of Cornwall. His Royal Highness has several engagements for next week, and has sent a subscription to the Invalid Children's Aid Society.

The King and Queen of Norway were present at the recital given last night in Oslo by the English pianist, Mr. John Hunt, whose performances are being much appreciated in Northern Europe.

Yesterday the Earl of Athlone opened the exhibition of specimens of Empire wood furniture, which has been organised by the Forum Club and the Empire Marketing Board. Princess Marie Louise presided at the luncheon which preceded the ceremony, and among the speakers were Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, Mr. Howard Ferguson, Mr. Stanley Bruce, Mr. J. Downie and Sir Stephen Tallents.

Princess Helena Victoria and Princess Marie Louise were at the Polish Embassy when the Polish Ambassador entertained a number of guests for the recital given by Herr Dygat, a pupil of Paderewski.

The Japanese Ambassador has returned to London from Geneva. The Marquess of Zetland will return to London at the end of next week from Canada.

The Hon. Sir Gervase and Lady Marjorie Beckett left yesterday for South Africa. Lord Ronald Graham is on his way to South Africa. The Earl of Ossory left London yesterday in the s.s. Ranpura for Shanghai, and Admiral Sir Dudley de Chair is travelling by the same steamer to Malta. Lady Prudence Jellicoe will leave Tilbury to-day for Madeira. The Hon. Jean Hore-Ruthven and Sir John and Lady Lees have left for the Mediterranean.

Lord and Lady Forester have left for Marseilles, en route to Port Sudan for a shooting expedition. Sir Sidney and Lady Nettleton have started for Brisbane, and Sir Malcolm and Lady Fraser have left for Colombo. General Sir Arlington and Lady Chichester will leave Tilbury to-day for Lisbon.

SEQUEL TO NEW ZEALAND EXCHANGE EXPERIMENT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WELLINGTON, Friday.

The House of Representatives to-day passed the Banking Indemnity Bill, which empowers the Government, through the Bank of New Zealand, to buy and sell surplus exchange in London from other banks. The bill is a sequel to the decision of the Government to raise the exchange rate on London to 25 per cent. discount.

The Opposition moved its rejection on the ground that the artificially high rate of exchange would raise the cost of living and increase the financial difficulties of the Dominion.

LONDON LETTER.

THE EAST FIFE ELECTION.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
FRIDAY NIGHT.

The National Government candidate has held the seat in East Fife by a very satisfactory majority, in spite of the many political cross-currents, involving the candidature of no fewer than five men. Mr. J. H. Stewart's return, however, is due to the fact that he received the support of the Conservative organisation; its candidate at the last election secured no fewer than 13,748 votes, whereas Mr. Stewart on this occasion has been returned with 15,770. The result must be considered as quite satisfactory by the Government, as indicating that its policy still is regarded as the best put before the electorate.

Unemployment and Public Works.

It is not unlikely that, when the House of Commons meets, a request will come from the Treasury for further funds to finance the National Unemployment Insurance funds. The possibility lends point to the view, now widely expressed, that useful and productive work could be resumed throughout the country with advantage. The opinion of the leading bankers and economists is that all suspended schemes for public works of a productive character ought to proceed without delay, thus providing a considerable amount of employment. In this connection it is pointed out that after every crisis any legislation or regulation which has been necessary while unsettlement prevailed tends to continue, though the real need for its existence has disappeared. This appears to be correct as regards the rigid public economy which has caused the suspension or prevention of many big schemes, and thus has caused more unemployment. The Government's attention will be directed to this matter as soon as possible.

The Argentine Mission.

The reception of the Argentine Mission next Tuesday will be a brilliant affair; for three State carriages, with an escort of Household troops, will be at Victoria to convey the Mission to the Carlton Hotel. On the platform the Prince of Wales, accompanied by Mr. Malbran, the Argentinian Ambassador and his wife, will welcome the visitors on behalf of the King, and will drive with Dr. Roca, the head of the Mission, to the hotel. Several functions will take place during the week's end. On Monday, February 13th, there will be a big dinner, at which the Prince will be present, as well as the Prime Minister and several other members of the Cabinet. After this dinner there will be a reception, for which the whole of the ground floor of the Carlton Hotel will be used.

United States' Trade.

The reports from the United States concerning Mr. Roosevelt's plans for a remission of War debts, in return for a world-wide lowering of tariffs and the stabilisation of currencies, are of a somewhat vague character; but, to judge from discussions which the President-elect has had with his economic advisers, there are grounds for believing that some such scheme is being evolved. The tremendous importance of foreign markets in the case of the United States is shown by the trading statistics. Her exports to Europe amounted to 785,000,000 dollars in 1932, compared with 1,187,000,000 dollars in 1931, while the exports to the United Kingdom fell from 456,000,000 dollars in 1931 to 288,000,000 dollars last year. Another point revealed by the figures is that the United States' exports to the United Kingdom and Canada were far in excess of those to the remainder of the world.

A Pig Census.

The Ministry of Agriculture is making progress with its bacon and pig marketing, and to-morrow a census of the pigs in the country will be taken, so that the authorities may know how many animals are available for bacon and how many for sale or breeding. Last June, when a similar census was taken, there were over three million pigs in the country—an increase of four hundred thousand on 1931—and it is believed that this increase was exceeded considerably last year. Every keeper of pigs except the small-holder will have to fill in a form giving all details regarding his animals. A conference of pig-breeders will be held here next April in connection with the Pig Reorganisation Commission's marketing scheme.

The Ex-Kaiser.

A story now in circulation that the ex-Kaiser intends to return to Germany early next month is discredited in diplomatic circles. They point out that it is highly improbable that the ex-Kaiser will return unless he has a constitutional invitation to resume his place as King of Prussia; for not even the Reichstag can recall him as Emperor. The situation, in fact, is rather nebulous. The ex-Kaiser, though frequently described as such, was not Emperor of Germany, but German Emperor—a distinction explicitly selected to stress the point that he was president over some twenty or thirty other German Sovereigns. All these Sovereigns have been deposed or have died since the War, and a German Emperor cannot be elected until the various States have agreed to their restoration or succession. As King of Prussia, the ex-Kaiser has a clear title to recall, but, as German Emperor, he has no claim at all.

Motor Banditry.

The police are continuing their efforts to stamp out the motor bandit menace, and a number of retired Army officers who own motor cars have come to their assistance by forming a private flying squad. The cars will be at the entire disposal of the police, and the retired officers will obey the commands of whatever official may be in charge—superintendent or constable. On the receipt of a police warning that the bandits are making in their direction, a report will be circulated, and one squad will turn out at any moment of the night or day. The members will pay all the expenses involved. It is agreed generally that bandits trying to escape to the south coast after a raid in London would be greatly hampered and, possibly, would be caught by a body of men in direct communication with the police.

Black Hats and Green.

The black Homburg is worn so generally by the staffs of the Government offices in Whitehall that it is now described as the "Foreign Office" hat. Its wear has spread from officials to nearly all the members of the staff and to the diplomatic services. It is doubtful whether this popularity will last through the summer however, since the hatters have decided that men are to wear green before long. Hats of a green mixture have been sold for a long time, but since grey-green flannels and worsted gabardines have come into use their popularity is likely to increase. Other colours also are gaining in popularity, and it is possible that lighter shades will be much worn during the summer months.

DEATH.

KEOGH—February 3, 1933, at her residence, 47 Mountpleasant square, Rathmines, Dublin, Anastatia, relict of the late James J. Keogh. Deeply regretted by her children and grandchildren. R.I.P. Remains will be removed to the Church of Our Lady of Refuge, Rathmines, to-morrow (Sunday) night at 8.30 o'clock. Funeral (private), after 10 o'clock Mass, on Monday morning to Glasnevin.

Thirty passengers were injured, none seriously, when a double-decker omnibus overturned on the main road between Renton and Dalrioch, Dumbartonshire, last night after colliding with a horse and cart. The 'bus fell across the road, and traffic was blocked to and from Glasgow, and had to be diverted.

STRIKE SITUATION UNCHANGED.

MR. LEMASS ON DROMISKIN OUTRAGE.

POLICE PROTECTION FOR 'BUS SERVICES.

MILITARY TRANSPORT FOR DUBLIN PASSENGERS.

THE report of the railway inspecting officer has convinced the Free State Minister for Industry and Commerce that the derailing of the Great Northern Railway train on Wednesday last was due to "the removal of a length of rail from the permanent way." An official statement adds that "the matter is one to be dealt with by the police authorities."

In an official reply to Mr. Watters's comment on the derailing of the train, the Great Northern Company gives a complete denial to his allegations.

In the absence of 'bus services, Free State military lorries yesterday carried, morning and evening, passengers between Dublin and the towns and villages as far north as Balbriggan. The service will be continued to-day.

Police guards, in touring cars, yesterday followed the Catherwood 'buses to protect the company's staff.

Neither railway nor 'bus services were run from Amiens street yesterday.

In Northern Ireland the railway companies are improving their services, and the 'busmen have refused to join the strike.

The railway companies have despatched large quantities of goods by their motor transport.

Reports that the dockers had consented to handle consignments of linen, and that the Northern Government was about to intervene with a view to a settlement of the dispute, proved baseless.

The National Union of Railwaymen and the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen yesterday announced their willingness to consider any offer made by the railway companies, outside the findings of the Railway Wages Board.

OFFICIAL STATEMENTS.

The Irish Free State Department of Industry and Commerce yesterday issued the following statement:—

> "The Minister for Industry and Commerce has received a report from the Railway Inspecting Officer regarding the derailment of the Great Northern Company's train between Castlebellingham and Dundalk, from which it is clear that the derailment was caused through the removal of a length of rail from the permanent way.
> "Under these circumstances the Minister is not taking any further action in the matter, which is one to be dealt with by the police authorities."

RAILWAY COMPANY AND MR. WATTERS.

OFFICIAL REPLY.

The following statement was issued by the Great Northern Railway Company yesterday:—

"Certain statements have appeared in the Press, purporting to be opinions expressed by Mr. Watters (N.U.R.), as to the cause of the accident involving the 9.0 a.m. train from Dublin to Belfast on Wednesday last.

"The train was driven by Inspector A. Hanratty, a trained driver, with 30 years' footplate experience, while the acting fireman, B. Hand, district locomotive superintendent at Dublin, is similarly qualified.

"It is not the practice of the Great Northern Company, or of any other company, to inspect the running lines twice daily. Under normal circumstances, patrolling of the line is carried out only once daily, and not at all on Sundays. The gang responsible for the maintenance of the lines at Dromiskin were on duty during the forenoon of Tuesday, 30th ultimo, and, normally, the line would not have been examined again before the following forenoon. At week-ends the line is inspected on Saturday forenoon, and again on Monday, so that early trains on Monday forenoon are frequently run over lines which have not been inspected for two days.

"An official examination of the site leaves no doubt that a rail was removed from each of the lines—the gap in the 'up' line still exists—while the rail removed from the 'down' line, on which the accident occurred, was found two-thirds of the way down the embankment, in undamaged condition, and is the only rail in that line affected by the derailment which is not badly damaged."

GUARDING THE LINE.

Soldiers guarded the railway line between Drogheda and Dundalk yesterday, and the main road between these towns was patrolled at intervals. A close watch was kept to ensure that lorries carrying perishable and other merchandise were not interrupted.

PROTECTION OF 'BUS TRAFFIC.

NEW POLICE MEASURES.

An armoured car, equipped with a machine-gun, and carrying Free State soldiers, accompanied an omnibus owned by Messrs. Catherwood and Sons, on the journey from the Northern Ireland border to within a few miles of Dublin yesterday. This protection was not general on all of Messrs. Catherwoods' 'buses, but later in the day it was announced that uniformed Civic Guards, who, since the beginning of the strike, have been travelling on Northern-bound 'buses, had been taken off, and replaced by plain clothes policemen, who, however, followed Messrs. Catherwoods' 'buses in touring cars from Dublin to the border. This precaution was taken in view of the incident at Santry, County Dublin, on Thursday night, when two members of Messrs. Catherwoods' staff were taken from a 'bus there, and after being driven round part of North Dublin, were released by their armed captors at Parnell square.

It was thought that if the policemen travelled in the touring cars they would not be taken unawares in the event of any untoward incident. Nothing happened yesterday to demand their particular attention. Messrs. Catherwood ran their usual services to the North, their case being that since they were in no way connected with the railway or with the dispute, they saw no reason why their services should be suspended because of probable intimidation by a few persons. The two men who were "kidnapped" on Thursday evening worked on the Belfast service yesterday. They would make no comment on their unusual experience.

The Dublin police are said to have obtained several clues which may lead to an arrest in connection with the kidnapping incident.

AT AMIENS STREET.

NO THROUGH SERVICE.

The Great Northern Railway Company yesterday made no attempt to run services by road or rail to Belfast from Dublin, and the line, therefore, was at a complete stand-still. So far as could be ascertained in Dublin, no approach had been made towards a settlement of the dispute. Mr. C. D. Watters, the Organising Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, was in Dublin yesterday, and in a talk with an Irish Times representative indicated that he had informed the Minister for Industry and Commerce of the present position, and that further than that nothing could be done, since there was no contact with the higher officials of the Great Northern Railway Company.

MILITARY LORRY SERVICE.

The Free State Department of Industry and Commerce, acting in conjunction with the Department of Defence, again provided military lorries for Dublin business people who, through the stoppage of the railway and omnibus services, were unable to reach their homes after they had done their day's work. This was also done in the morning to bring people to the city. Balbriggan, Skerries, Rush and Lusk, and other northerly towns were linked up in a chain, with the result that people were not left stranded. It was thought at first that this action of the Minister in providing military services would have been objected to by the officials of the railway unions concerned, but it was learned yesterday afternoon that the unions do not resent the intervention of the soldiers, in so far as they strive to relieve the inconvenience caused to the travelling public. The departure of the military-cum-omnibus services again was watched with interest by people on Eden quay, and all services were free.

The omnibuses owned by the Great Northern Railway are lying idle in the several garages.

TO-DAY'S TIME-TABLE.

The Free State Department of Industry and Commerce announces that lorries will leave Eden quay, Dublin, for Balbriggan, via Lusk, Rush and Skerries, at the following hours to-day:—

1.30 p.m., 1.45 p.m., 2.0 p.m., 6.30 p.m., 7.0 p.m.

The first stop on the outward journey and the last stop on the inward one will be at Turvey avenue.

RAILWAY CLERKS AND THE STRIKE.

At a meeting of the Committees of the Railway Clerks' Association in Dublin last night, a resolution was passed instructing all members to decline to perform any duties but their own, in any circumstances, during the present railway dispute. The meeting also decided that any member acting contrary to this instruction should be immediately expelled from membership of the Association.

A letter has been sent to all branches of the Railway Clerks' Association, warning them to take all necessary steps to see that members are warned against any strike-breaking activities. "Any member," it is stated, "who has already offended in this respect should be approached and induced to desist at once. If he refuses, his name should be sent to this office, and also supplied to the local strike committees, who should be informed that we accept no responsibility for his action."

AIR MAIL OFFER.

An offer was made to the postal authorities in Dublin yesterday to convey mails from the Free State to Northern Ireland by aeroplane. It was stated on behalf of the Post Office that adequate service is being secured in the delivery of letters and packets by road transport, and that for the moment the air mail offer could not be accepted, but it would be kept at hand should any emergency arise in which the roads could not be utilised. Free State mails were taken to Newry by road yesterday, and given over to officials of the Northern Ireland Post Office, who took them to Belfast and throughout the Six Counties.

FRENCHMAN ON SPY CHARGE

ITALIAN TOUR WITH LADY SECRETARY.

HEAD OF THE FRENCH WOOLWICH INDICTED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ROME, Friday.

A CHARGE of espionage, involving in extreme cases a minimum penalty of fifteen years' imprisonment, has been brought against Professor Eydoux, the well-known head of the Ecole Polytechnique in Paris, the famous French military academy.

The indictment of the professor was published this afternoon, and the trial before the Special Tribunal for the Defence of the State begins to-morrow.

The indictment alleges that Professor Eydoux, with his secretary, Mlle. Bonnefond, entered Italy on August 21st last and proceeded to Treviso, whence they made a series of excursions to Postumia, Opicina, Caporetto, and other places on or near the Yugoslav frontier.

MAPS AND SKETCHES.

Their conduct aroused suspicion, and after being followed for some time they were arrested on September 4th.

At the moment of arrest, it is alleged, the professor was found to be in possession of photographic material, field glasses, maps, and various sheets of paper on which he had taken notes and made sketches about bridges and roads.

It is further alleged that Professor Eydoux has confessed that he came into Italy with the express purpose of getting information of interest to his country, from the military point of view.

The indictment concludes by defining the charge as "having procured, for purposes of military espionage, information which, in the interests of the security of the State, ought to remain secret."

INVISIBLE INK.

This charge, it is understood, is not of the grave nature which would incur a long term of imprisonment.

Mlle. Bonnefond, the professor's secretary, who is included in the indictment, states that she had nothing to do with the alleged activities of the professor, but admits that she took part in the excursions and took photographs. She is also stated to have been found in the possession of chemical products which she is alleged to have admitted were medicinal, but could also be used for making invisible ink.

NATIONAL LIBERAL VICTORY.

MAJORITY OVER FOUR OPPONENTS.

The East Fife by-election result was declared yesterday as follows:—

Mr. J. H. STEWART (Nat. Lib.)	15,770
J. Westwood (Lab.)	6,635
J. L. Anderson (Agric. Party)	4,404
D. Keir (Ind. Liberal)	2,296
E. Linklater (Scottish Nationalist)	1,083
National Liberal majority over all others	1,152

The vacancy was caused by the death of Sir J. Duncan Millar (Liberal).

East Fife is the seventeenth vacancy that has been filled since the general election.

At the last general election in 1931 Sir Duncan Millar was returned unopposed.

The figures at the 1929 election were:—J. Duncan Millar (L.), 14,329; Commander A. D. Cochrane (C.), 13,748; W. R. Garson (Lab.), 5,350. Liberal majority, 581.

PRIME MINISTER'S CONGRATULATIONS.

The Prime Minister has sent the following telegram to Mr. Stewart, the successful candidate for East Fife:—

"Most hearty congratulations on your magnificent victory. The Kingdom of Fife is as reliable as ever when a great appeal is made to it."

Mr. Stanley Baldwin sent the following message to Mr. Stewart:—"Heartiest congratulations on your victory for the National Government."

SIR JOHN SIMON'S MESSAGE.

Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, leader of the Liberal Nationals, sent the following message to Mr. Henderson Stewart:—"Delighted by your striking victory. I congratulate you most warmly on showing how strongly the country feels that the National Government should have its unswerving support."

THE NORTHERN EXCHEQUER.

BALANCE OF £22,000.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Friday.

The Northern Ireland Exchequer return for the ten months ended the 31st January was issued to-day.

The total revenue, including £23,324, balance from last year, was £7,314,783 for the ten months, and the expenditure £7,461,505. When other receipts are added, and other issues deducted, there is a balance in the Exchequer of £22,212.

The total transferred revenue is £1,240,393; reserved revenue £4,867,434, and non-tax revenue £1,206,956.

The principal items of expenditure are: £1,643,100 for education, £1,537,500 for unemployment insurance and employment services, and £1,166,800 for old age pensions. Advances to the Road Fund amount to £343,000.

FOURTH TEST "TRY-OUT."

M.C.C. MATCH AGAINST QUEENSLAND.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BRISBANE, Saturday.

For the match against Queensland, which began here to-day, D. R. Jardine, obviously anxious to give his men as much practice as possible, played the team which will probably represent England in the fourth Test, which begins on the same ground on Friday next.

The M.C.C. were represented by D. R. Jardine, R. E. S. Wyatt, G. O. Allen, Sutcliffe, Hammond, Leyland, Paynter, Ames, Larwood, Verity and Bowes. The twelfth man is Mitchell.

Queensland won the toss and batted first. Queensland are not a strong batting side, but few people expected to see them lose their first wicket without a run on the board.

Larwood, as usual, opened the attack, and his second ball got a wicket. Levy tried to hook the ball, but mis-hit it, and Allen at short square leg took a well-judged catch.

Cook was then joined by C. Andrews, both of whom have been mainstays of the Queensland batting this season, and the runs quickly mounted.

Latest score.—60 for 1.

NO NEW BRITISH TAXATION.

ECONOMIES THAT CAN BE MADE.

SEARCHING SCRUTINY OF EXPENDITURE.

MR. NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN, Chancellor of the Exchequer, referring at Birmingham last night to a remark that he made a year ago, that within a month or two the whole issue of free trade or protection would be as dead as mutton, said: "Is is not true to-day? Look at the election in East Fife. The Free Trade candidate has lost his deposit."

Speaking of a suggestion that the saving of twenty-nine millions a year by the Conversion Loan would enable him to reduce taxes by an equivalent amount, he said that it was much too soon to make any calculations or prophecies as to what the Chancellor of the Exchequer would be able to do in that connection.

Coming to the effect of exchange control and the necessity for international agreements, he said that there was in America, fortunately, a very real appreciation of the importance of the matter.

"The best news, in my opinion, that has come from the other side of the water for a long time is that of the invitation of Mr. Roosevelt to our Ambassador in Washington to pay him a visit before he came here to confer with His Majesty's Government.

"That may be a departure from ordinary practice, but I consider that it was the act of a man of courage, a man of good sense, who appreciates the importance and desirability of making a contact as soon as possible; and I cannot help feeling that that act of Mr. Roosevelt's is one good augury for the progress of the conversations in which we shall shortly be engaged."

Turning to the question of economy, the Chancellor said, "In my view any substantial increase in the present level of taxation would be a disaster of the first magnitude."

If they were faced with the necessity either of some considerable increase in taxation or substantial reduction of expenditure, he would feel himself justified in appealing to the people of the country once more for sacrifices.

PENSIONS SAFE.

"We might have to go to fields that we have not touched yet. We might have to consider pensions, on which there have been no cuts up till now. But nobody wants to do that.

"Demands of that kind would be a calamity in themselves, and I cannot think that any Government would dare to contemplate them unless in the case of the direst necessity, and much as I desire to reduce taxation, greatly as I think the country needs reduction, I should say that reduction bought at such a price was bought too dearly.

"Therefore, I say that unless conditions undergo some radical change for the worst we shall not touch pensions, nor shall we consider any increase in the rate of cut which is now existing."

It was his intention continually to submit every department of Government expenditure to the most searching examination.

"While we cannot expect to save tens of millions of pounds by economy, there are economies which can be made. Individually none of them may be of a very striking character, but put together they make a substantial sum, and it would be the duty of the Government to show the House of Commons and to show the country that we will not tolerate unnecessary expenditure until it is possible again to reduce taxation."

In a reference to housing, Mr. Chamberlain said that the Government have determined to bring to an end the subsidies on new houses brought in by the Act of 1924. He looked forward to a great development of house building by private enterprise in the near future.

GOVERNMENT SAVINGS OF £20,500,000.

The effect of the steps taken by the British Government to reduce national expenditure during the financial year ended March 31st, 1932, are stated by the Comptroller and Auditor-General in his report, issued yesterday, to have resulted in savings totalling £20,502,003 1s. 8d.

The reductions were:—Civil votes, £17,916,741 17s.; revenue departments, £279,456 18s. 9d.; three Defence Services, £2,305,804 5s. 11d.

The principal savings in connection with the civil votes were:—Ministry of Labour, £9,653,736; Board of Education, £2,694,934; Road Fund, £1,000,000.

The exact figures of savings to be realised during the last financial year could not be precisely estimated, but it was anticipated that the sum would be about £22,000,000 for all supply services.

THE BERLIN HORSE SHOW.

FREE STATE TEAM MEET HINDENBURG.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Friday.

The Berlin Horse Show was this afternoon graced by the presence of the President of the Republic, Field-Marshal von Hindenburg; Vice-Chancellor von Papen, General von Blomberg, Minister of Defence; and Baron von Neurath, the Foreign Minister. Herr Hitler, the new Chancellor, was not present.

The President was dressed in the uniform of an Imperial Field-Marshal, and was loudly cheered by the audience, who rose when he appeared.

The various foreign officers participating in the events were introduced to the President, who shook hands and exchanged a few words of greeting with each one. All the members of the Irish Free State team were introduced.

To-day's programme opened with a spectacular display by members of the Berlin Regiment, who appeared in uniforms of the days of Frederick the Great.

HITLER'S "STRONG ARM."

ACTION AGAINST GERMAN COMMUNISTS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Friday.

The Socialist newspaper Vorwaerts has been suppressed for three days on account of a violent anti-Hitler election appeal which it published in its columns.

The policy of the strong arm against the Communists continues al over the country. Communist headquarters are being raided systematically, and so-called treasonable documents seized, while Communist newspapers are being suppressed on what appears to be more or less trivial grounds. At Thuringia it is forbidden henceforth to fly the red flag on the town hall or on public buildings.

Clashes between Nazis and Communists are also reported from various places, but no cases of death.

ANGLO-PERSIAN "TRUCE."

CASE WITHDRAWN FROM LEAGUE.

EQUITABLE TERMS FOR A SETTLEMENT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

GENEVA, Friday.

THE following are the four points of the Anglo-Persian settlement, which was approved by the League Council this morning:—

(1) The two parties agree to suspend all proceedings before the Council until the session of May, 1933, with the option of prolonging, if necessary, this time limit by common agreement.

(2) The two parties agree that the company shall immediately enter into negotiations with the Persian Government, the respective legal points of view being entirely reserved.

(3) The two parties agree that the legal standpoint of each of them, as set before the Council in their memoranda and in their verbal statements, remain entirely reserved. If the negotiations for the new concession remain without result, the question will come back before the Council, before which each party remains free to resume the defence of its case.

(4) In accordance with the assurance given by the Persian Government in its telegram of December 19th, 1932, to the President of the Council, it is understood that while negotiations are proceeding, and until final settlement of the question the work and operations of the company in Persia will continue to be carried on as they were carried on before November 27th, 1932.

MEDIATOR THANKED.

After the Persian representative had expressed the concurrence of his Government in the settlement reached, Mr. Eden, British Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, spoke.

He expressed deep gratitude to M. Benes for the untiring efforts which had been crowned with such a gratifying measure of success. It has from the first, he said, been the desire of His Majesty's Government that a settlement should be reached between the Anglo-Persian Oil Company and the Persian Government, provided always that such a settlement could be negotiated on equitable terms.

"The arrangements which the rapporteur has been able to make," Mr. Eden continued, "and which will form the basis for the negotiations which are about to begin, provide these conditions.

"In this matter true interests of the Persian Government and of the great undertaking whose cause His Majesty's Government has been defending, are identical; and I feel confident, therefore, that a new agreement will be reached mutually beneficial to both parties."

FROM "THE TIMES."

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

HORSE AND DOG.

The Times to-day in a leading article says:—The "tote" problem will be among the first to greet the House of Commons when it returns to work next week, and the unenviable difficulties with which it presents the legislator will deserve discussion in a more practical mood than partisans on either side have yet been willing to hear. Those who think that betting can be suppressed by suppressing all the possible occasions for betting have a task before them that stretches to infinity. Their view may be left on one side. Betting, in itself, is no offence at law, and the State is only concerned to see that the gambling habit shall not be stimulated by interested parties to a degree which threatens the well-being of the community. How far the State should intervene is, in fact, the question that has been put to the Royal Commission, and the real difficulty presented by its interim report—for the so-called "tote" clubs have no friends—is to determine the right attitude of Parliament towards the growth of betting machines on greyhound courses.

The proposition to be put forward by the dog-racing interests is that the law shall be altered in such a manner as to allow organised gambling by the aid of the "tote" on new dog tracks. Seven years ago none of them existed. Upwards of 180 exist to-day, and many more are projected. All have been placed to tap large centres of population. They have been devised, beyond any question, because they have promised, and proved to be, gold mines for their promoters, and the return to their promoters has been derived directly and indirectly from the large expenditure on betting by the public which they were designed to attract.

Horse-racing, self-governed, never had to look to Parliament for control. How statutory control—a sort of rationalisation—is to be forced on the free commerce of dog-racing may pass the wit even of Parliament to say, but until that happens what basis is there for an extension of the "tote"? And what is left to the analogy with horse-racing but a certain superficial plausibility?

It is not by this line of argument that the champions of an extension of the legalised "tote" are likely to convince the Legislature. They would do better to make it clear that they abandon both the analogy of horse-racing and any claim to profit from the means of betting provided on the tracks. The real crux of the case which they can present to Parliament is the bookmaker, who would flourish on the suppression of the "tote," together with the old, but dubious, distinction which the law makes between cash and credit betting. So far the Royal Commission has not pronounced on the bookmaker, and it will be well if there is truth in the current belief that its final report may be expected soon.

APPEAL TO PARISH PRIESTS.

COMMUNISM IN MALTA.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MALTA, Friday.

The Governor of Malta (General Sir David Campbell), addressing all the parish priests of Malta this morning, asked their assistance "to nip in the bud that sinister Communistic propaganda which strikes at the very roots, not only of the Church, but also at all ordered society, and which is seeking to insinuate itself into Malta."

This appeal was made when all the parish priests of Malta were present at the time-honoured ceremony of the presentation of Candlemas candles to the Governor.

FRENCH GOVERNMENT'S VICTORY.

PARIS, Friday.

The new French Government, led by M. Daladier, submitted its ministerial declaration to the Chamber to-day, and in the division to-night obtained a vote of confidence by 370 votes to 200, the Socialists supporting the Government.

LABOUR IN THE NEW DAIL.

NO COALITION WITH ANY OTHER PARTY.

POLICY ON FINANCIAL DISPUTE UNCHANGED.

BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

MEETINGS of the various parties and groups in the Dail will be held before the opening of the session on Wednesday next.

The Labour Party had its meeting yesterday at Leinster House. On Monday evening the Cumann na nGaedheal Party will hold its meeting at 3 Merrion square.

The Centre Party will hold its first meeting at the party's offices, St. Stephen's Green, on Tuesday. On Monday at 2 o'clock there will be a meeting of the Standing Committee of the Farmers' and Ratepayers' League at the same offices.

The Fianna Fail Party meeting will also be held on Tuesday at Leinster House.

Apart from the general interest attaching to the opening of a new Dail, the election of Speaker and President, and the nomination of Ministers, the possibilities are that next Wednesday's proceedings in the Dail will be of the ordinary type, without any unusual incidents.

No further information is available as to the rumoured visit of members of the Northern Parliament which has been suggested for Wednesday. In the absence of definite news, there is a disposition not to regard it seriously.

LABOUR PARTY DECISIONS.

The Labour Party in the Dail decided yesterday:

That it would not accept or seek a coalition with any other party in the Dail;

That it would continue to pursue its previous policy regarding the financial dispute with Great Britain;

That it would give support to all measures which were in accordance with its national and economic policy;

That Mr. William Norton should be leader of the party during the coming session;

That Mr. P. Hogan should be nominated for the post of Deputy-Chairman; and

That the party should support the nomination of President de Valera as President of the Executive Council.

THE RESOLUTION.

The meeting of the Administration Council of the Labour Party at which these decisions were taken was held in the Labour Party room at Leinster House yesterday, under the chairmanship of Mr. Norton. The Labour Senators and Deputies were present.

The following resolution was adopted:—

"That in the next Dail the Labour Party will give full support to measures which are in accordance with the national and economic policy as laid down in its programme, and on all matters the party's aim will be to ensure that the legislation enactments passed by the Oireachtas will be progressive and beneficial in character."

"On the question of the financial dispute with Great Britain, the Labour Party policy is already well known and will be pursued.

"With regard to the Press rumours of the formation of a Coalition Government, the Labour Party, being an independent party, does not desire, nor will it seek, a coalition with any other party."

ORGANISATION.

When the conference resumed after lunch, Mr. William O'Brien was elected Chairman of the Administrative Council.

The question of organisation was considered, and the secretary's report showed that since the last annual conference on October 15th eighty-six new branches had been established.

It was decided to start an intensive campaign of reorganisation throughout the country.

Mr. William Davin, T.D., was re-elected the party Whip.

TO MEET MR. DE VALERA.

Messrs. Norton and Davin were appointed to meet President de Valera at a convenient time before the opening of the Dail to arrange various matters with him.

VESUVIUS GROWING ANGRY.

SERIOUS ERUPTION PREDICTED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ROME, Friday.

A grave warning that a serious eruption of Vesuvius may take place was uttered by Professor Malladra, Director of Vesuvius Observatory, this evening. The warning is contained in a communiqué on the earthquake shocks which have been felt in the Vesuvius region during the day.

The Professor states that these are due to the resumption of activity by the volcano. Two hundred shocks were registered during the day, and this evening Vesuvius is hurling showers of incandescent stones into the air, watched by thousands of awe-struck citizens in Naples and by the peasants in the surrounding villages.

"After two years of absolute repose, Vesuvius has resumed activity since January," the communiqué states. "This activity is steadily increasing. The shocks began yesterday, and the worst, registered at 1.33 p.m., shook the entire observatory."

Professor Malladra explains that the fire cone in the crater, which provides an outlet for smoke and flame, is decreasing in size. If it decreases farther some other outlet will have to be found, as happened in 1929, when the volcano blew another outlet for itself, and poured boiling lava on the village of Perzigno. Professor Malladra takes a grave view of the situation.

GREAT SOUTHERN RAILWAYS.

NO DIVIDENDS.

The following official statement was issued yesterday:—

Owing to the financial position of the company, the directors of the Great Southern Railways at their meeting today decided with regret to defer the payment of a dividend on the Guaranteed Preference Stock which is cumulative.

No dividends are available on the Preference and Ordinary Stocks of the company.

[In 1931 the full dividends were paid on the Guaranteed and Preference, and 10s. per cent. on the Ordinary.]

RAND "BOOM."

EXCITED "STREET" MARKET.

The most amazing scenes ever witnessed in Throgmorton street, London, took place after the official close of the "house" last evening. An enormous crowd gathered in the "street," and for a time pandemonium broke loose, the noise of excited bidders being so great that it was almost impossible to transact business in South African Mining Shares. Some considerable time elapsed before the market quietened down and reliable quotations were obtainable, but the leading Kaffirs went ahead to new high records during the present boom, but closed under the best in many instances.

The Board of Governors of the Masonic Female Orphan School will meet at the Schoolhouse, Ballsbridge, on Tuesday morning next, at 9 o'clock. Breakfast will be served at 8.30 o'clock a.m.

BELFAST SHIPPING DEAL.

NEW OWNERS OF THE HEAD LINE.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Friday.

THE control of the Ulster Steamship Company has been acquired by Belfast interests, the transaction being one of the largest shipping deals in recent years.

The company's fleet consists of fifteen steamers, of a total tonnage of 52,000 (gross), nearly all of them having been built in Belfast shipyards. The largest vessel in the fleet is the s.s. Lord Londonderry, which is 5,796 tons, and the other vessels over 5,000 tons are the Dunaff Head, Kenbane Head, Fanad Head, Torr Head, and Melmore Head.

The company's vessels trade to all parts of the world from Belfast, Dublin, and Cork, but particularly to North Atlantic, the Baltic and Continental ports. All the ships are at present in commission, and during the shipping slump very few of the vessels were laid up, which is a tribute to the enterprising management.

The Ulster Steamship Company was founded in 1877 by the late Mr. J. A. M. Heyn and the late Mr. F. L. Heyn. Its first steamer was the Bickley, and the first vessel to receive the name Head was the Fair Head, built at the Queen's Island in 1878. The company was originally in the Baltic trade, but later on extended its ramifications to the Atlantic. About twelve years ago the firm acquired the last remaining vessels of the old Lord Line, two of which—the Lord Antrim and the Lord Londonderry—are still on service. The Lord Antrim sailed from Belfast this week for St. John, N.B., and the Lord Londonderry is on passage from Buenos Ayres to Liverpool.

NEW DETECTIVE CHIEF.

OFFICIAL CONFIRMATION OF APPOINTMENT.

The appointment of Colonel Eamon Broy a Chief of the Detective Division of the Civic Guards was officially confirmed at the Commissioner's Office yesterday, where it was stated that Colonel Broy's appointment takes effect from last Thursday.

This post was formerly held by Colonel David Neligan, who was removed from office on December 18th last by order of the Free State Executive Council.

Colonel Broy is a Chief Superintendent of the Civic Guards, of which he has been a member since its inception, and Commandant of the Dépôt in Phœnix Park, Dublin, to which position he was appointed in 1929. During the period 1917 to 1921 he was an officer in G Division of the Dublin Metropolitan Police, and at that time he assisted in the organisation of the intelligence service of the Irish Republican Army. On his arrest in February, 1921, by the British military authorities he was imprisoned until the signing of the Truce. Colonel Broy afterwards held office in the Free State Air Corps, and later rejoined the police.

His successor as Dépôt Commandant has not yet been nominated.

THE RAILWAY STRIKE.

MEETING OF STRIKERS

A REVOLUTIONARY CIRCULAR.

FROM OUR INDUSTRIAL CORRESPONDENT.

A conference between officials of the three unions now involved in the railway strike in the Dublin area was held at 33 Parnell square yesterday afternoon. The attendance included:—Messrs. J. Stobbie, Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen; C. D. Watters, Irish Secretary, National Union of Railwaymen; S. Kyle, Area Secretary, Amalgamated Transport and General Workers' Union; and E. P. Harte, Organiser.

Arrangements were discussed for the carrying on of the strike in the Dublin district.

At nine o'clock last night a meeting of the rank and file of the three unions was held at the Dublin Trades Union Council Hall, Lower Gardiner street. There was a large attendance.

As each member entered the hall he was presented with a circular by representatives of the Irish Revolutionary Workers' Party. The circular denounced the two Governments, the Press, the Railway Clerks' Association, and the "capitalist system."

A sentence in it read: "No tears over the fate of black-legs. The rail bosses are responsible for every life endangered in strike-breaking activity."

The circular was denounced from the platform by Mr. C. D. Watters.

"SOLIDARITY."

Mr. Gilbert Lynch congratulated the workers on their solidarity in the present crisis. He said that they had demonstrated that, no matter what boundaries politicians wished to put up, the workers recognised Ireland as one entity, and that they were the only class that could bring about a united Ireland.

Referring to the de-railing of the Great Northern Railway train he said that, so far as the leaders and the men were concerned, they knew nothing more about it than what had appeared in the newspapers. They had always believed in the sanctity of human life. He added that the eyes of the working-class all over the civilised world were upon them, and they who had the honour of carrying the standard wished to do so clean and untarnished.

Mr. J. Stobbie said that bread and butter did not enter into the calculations of the railway companies at times of negotiation. They wanted always to balance their budget, and they usually came to the workers to do it for them. They had come once too often.

If they accepted the dictatorship of the railway companies they would be placed in the invidious position of accepting two different rates of pay for the same work on the one railway. If the companies got the ten per cent. "cut" established in Northern Ireland now, when April came they had won the battle for the rest of Ireland.

Mr. E. P. Harte said that it was amply demonstrated in this fight that all the men, North and South, were standing together.

Mr. C. D. Watters said that he could assure them that from one end of the affected systems to the other, there was complete paralysis of the railways.

"The strike is won," he declared, amidst cheers. "It is now only a question of time, and when it is finished the workers will have the satisfaction of knowing that it will be a long time before they are attacked again. The Great Southern also will hesitate to make any attack when the subsidy ends."

Mr. P. Timmins, Strike Committee, also spoke.

MARKED INCREASE IN ROAD TRAFFIC.

MOTOR VEHICLES OF ALL TYPES AND AGES.

One result of the Great Northern Railway strike has been a marked increase in the volume of road traffic between Dublin and Belfast.

Private cars which had been more or less withdrawn for the winter season have been called into service, and are being used by many whose business takes them frequently across the border.

Motor trucks and lorries of various makes and ages are conveying goods which are urgently needed in border towns and beyond them.

For all of this additional traffic the Customs authorities in the Irish Free State and in Northern Ireland are giving every facility, and persons passing to and fro experience very little delay. Commercial travellers are using lorries to carry "skips" to small towns, and appear to be doing business, although some difficulty will be found in delivery orders if the strike continues.

There was a good deal of police and military activity in the neighbourhood of Dundalk yesterday, but no untoward incidents were reported.

For the convenience of travellers who require to cross the border outside official hours, special arrangements will be made by the Customs authorities on either side provided they receive a request to grant facilities.

IN THE NORTH.

CROP OF GROUNDLESS RUMOURS.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
BELFAST, Friday.

There was no material change in the railway strike in Northern Ireland today. All attempts to stop the regular 'bus services to and from Belfast have been unsuccessful. Full 'bus services have been maintained on the Great Northern Railway and the London, Midland and Scottish routes, and also by the independent 'bus companies. In addition, a considerable quantity of goods was despatched by railway motor services. The unions admit their weakness in regard to the railway 'bus services and road transport.

CASE OF THE LINEN MILLS.

The threatened closing of a number of provincial linen mills, with consequent unemployment for many workers, gave rise to a remarkable series of rumours in Belfast to-day. It was freely stated in business circles that a truce had been arranged at the docks, and that goods would be shipped as usual to-night. It was also stated that, as a result of this truce, consignments from the mills in the country would be duly sent forward. Investigation at the dockers' headquarters, however, showed that the position is unchanged, and that diverted goods will not be handled.

There was a meeting between representatives of dockers and of business interests here to-day, but no agreement was found possible.

It was also stated that efforts were being made to secure Government intervention in the dispute, but when I inquired at the Northern Ministry of Labour this evening I was informed that there were no fresh developments in this direction, and that no arrangements had yet been made to call another conference of representatives of the railway companies and the railway unions.

The Minister of Labour, however, is willing to use his influence if there is any desire by either party to the dispute or by both for a further conference.

RAILWAY UNION'S OFFER.

A significant statement was issued today by the joint meeting of the two railway unions affected—the National Union of Railwaymen and the Associated Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, in which they declare their willingness to consider any offer made to them by the railway companies.

On the Northern section of the Great Northern system fairly extensive programmes of trains were arranged and carried out with success. The company also ran a goods train to Portadown. Indeed, the officials to-day made the best show since the strike began.

The service to Lisburn, at frequent intervals, was well maintained and proved useful. There were also trains to Portadown, Banbridge and Dromore.

The company's 'bus service is being operated with great success. All the men remain on duty and have resisted both the blandishments and the pressure of the pickets. Police are on duty at the Belfast Terminus, but there is no interference by the strikers.

After a visit by pickets from Portadown the National Union of Railwaymen staff at Annaghmore went on strike last evening. No trains passed through and the English mail was not received. Several thousands barrels of apples are held up in the farmers' houses, awaiting shipment to Great Britain, and if this is not soon effected there is danger that the fruit may deteriorate. The station is being guarded by police.

There was little change in the strike situation in Cookstown to-day. The London, Midland and Scottish 'bus services are running normally, and to-day's pork market was not affected. The regular buyers were all in attendance, and the only reminder of the strike was the absence from the market yard of the usual railway wagons which are run from the adjoining railway premises for pork consignments. To-day the pork was sent to Belfast by motor lorry.

ARMOURED CAR ESCORTS HOCKEY TEAM.

The Ulster men's hockey team, which is to meet Leinster in Dublin to-morrow, made the journey to Dublin to-day by omnibus, and had the novel experience of being escorted for a considerable distance by an armoured car, manned by Free State soldiers. Shortly after they crossed the border, outside Newry, a member of the Civic Guard boarded the 'bus, and in conversation turned out to be an old hockey player who assisted Naas about twenty years ago.

At Dundalk there was a change of guard, and again at Drogheda, where three members of the same force joined the party. Between that place and Dublin the 'bus was followed by the armoured car.

L.M.S. SKELETON SERVICE.

The skeleton service on the Larne section of the London, Midland and Scottish seems to be working smoothly. There is a notable improvement in the running times of the trains and the manner in which they are handled.

This morning inquiries showed that the 'bus services are being maintained to the full, and up to the present there seems to have been no attempt to intimidate the employés.

At Larne Harbour the Stranraer steamer, carrying the usual complement of mail and light goods, was in good time. The volunteer staff engaged in the loading and unloading has become more expert, and the delay in the departure of the connecting train is lessening daily.

Alderman Dobbie, President of the National Union of Railwaymen, in an interview in Belfast this evening, said: "Our lines are unbroken, the spirit of the men determined, and the 'bus position is steadily improving. Strike pay will be paid to-morrow."

STUDENTS' STATEMENT.

Students who are helping to operate the London, Midland and Scottish services, in a statement issued to-day, say that the students concerned naturally have not taken this step without the most careful consideration; but as the letter from the President of the Students' Representative Council has in some quarters been misconstrued, it may be well to state that the University is not responsible for the individual actions of its members. That, in our opinion, is the correct interpretation of Mr. Glass's letter. The students undertook their part with the knowledge that they are working, not only in the interests of the railway companies, but more especially in that of the general public. They are in no way concerned with the merits of the present dispute, but are simply desirous of doing their part in assisting to maintain an essential public service, and as far as possible to relieve the public of some of the inconveniences which they are being compelled to suffer owing to the actions of the railway and other trade unions, which, they consider, are in reality aimed at the Government and the general public.

THE MEN'S CASE.

REPLY TO MAJOR SPIERS.

The Joint Committee of the National Union of Railwaymen and the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, met in Belfast this afternoon. In the course of a statement subsequently issued they said:—

"In reference to Major Spiers's contention that the findings of the Irish Railway Wages Board has up till now been accepted as morally binding, may we re call the fact that the 1924 strike of locomotive men on British railways was caused by this very contention, notwithstanding the fact that the finding of the National Wages Board in England was an unanimous one, and signed by the trade union representatives, and not a majority finding, as in this dispute. It is true to say that all previous findings of the Irish Railway Wages Board have been accepted by the unions, although, except in one minor instance, on the eight applications made by the railway companies since 1924, the decisions were given in their favour.

"These findings involved substantial wages cuts to the staff, which will be fully appreciated when we remind Major Spiers that on wage rates alone some of the grades represented have given up more than 20s. per week since the peak period of 1921. Moreover, owing to redundancy, involving the putting back of men in grade, there have been additional reductions up to 18s. per week in many cases. Again, there have been many dismissals of junior employés.

"The position of these redundant men is made very difficult owing to their removal to other stations to retain their grade or their employment, necessitating the keeping of two homes. . . .

THE OFFER OF THE UNIONS.

"It is incorrect when Major Spiers says that the offer of the unions was only 1¼ per cent. more than the original "cut" in May, 1931. This is true only in respect of those employés of the conciliation grades, who were in receipt of more than 40s. per week, but to all those employés in receipt of less than 40s. per week the offer made was a full 5⅝ per cent. deduction, and there is a good percentage of the conciliation grades affected in this way. The offer, when applied to stationmasters, clerks, etc., involved an additional 3⅛ per cent. deduction on salaries up to £100 per annum, and 1⅞ increased deduction in respect of earnings in excess of £100 per annum.

"We are charged with having failed to appreciate the serious financial position of the companies, but in this matter we are quite prepared to allow the public to judge the issue, and point out that the expenditure on the Great Northern Railway was £563,729 less in 1931 than it was in 1924, or 32.1 per cent., a substantial proportion of which is represented in wages and salaries. The actual saving in wages and salaries on the Great Southern Railways in 1931, as compared with 1926, was £426,608, or 14.6 per cent. These economies, according to a statement of Sir Walter Nugent, resulted in the paying off of 5,000 employés on the Great Southern Railways, and the putting back to a lower grade position, on lower wage rates, of a number of those retained in the service.

Certainly this is not evidence of the union's determination not to give way in negotiations. Moreover, the operation of the 4⅜ per cent. deductions on earnings was the result of such negotiations, and the subsequent recommendation of the unions' representatives to the men to accept. Unfortunately, months of negotiations ended in failure, but this situation is entirely due to the railway companies' representatives being unable, or unwilling, to accept anything less than the 10 per cent. reduction in wages rates, as provided in the Irish Railways Wages Board, and refusing to advance one point on the many requests made by the unions' representatives. Zero hour was not reached until Monday, January 30th, at 5 p.m., and not Saturday, as stated by Major Spier.

OFFER RENEWED.

We conclude by placing on record the offer then made: "If the railway companies' representatives have the courage to submit any suggestion outside the Irish Railways' Wages Board finding, the representatives of the unions will have the courage to consider same."

RAILWAY WORKSHOP HANDS DISMISSED.

The services of twenty workshop hands in the employment of the Londonderry and Lough Swilly Railway Company's locomotive workshop in Londonderry were dispensed with last night as a result of the strike. Fifteen stationmasters and fifteen clerks employed on the company's line in the Free State and Northern Ireland have received notices terminating their employment as from the 15th of this month. The Great Northern Railway Company's 'buses operating between Londonderry and the Free State ceased to run last night.

DROGHEDA MEN'S DISCLAIMER.

At a mass meeting of all grades of railwaymen and transport workers in the Mayoralty House, Drogheda, yesterday, a vote of condolence with the relatives of the killed and injured at Dromiskin was passed unanimously, all members standing.

The meeting dissociated itself and all concerned in the dispute from hand, act or part in the derailing of the train.

VICTIMS OF RAILWAY OUTRAGE.

PUBLIC FUNERAL FOR MR. J. McWILLIAMS.

A public funeral is to be accorded to Mr. John McWilliams, one of the victims of the railway outrage at Dromiskin, County Louth. The cortège will leave his home in Clonliffe road, Dublin, for Mount Jerome Cemetery at 9.15 this morning.

The body of the second victim, Mr. J. Patterson, was taken to his native town, Newtownstewart, County Tyrone, for burial yesterday.

BRITISH LEGION DINNER.

At the annual dinner of the Metropolitan branch of the British Legion, to be held in Jury's Hotel, Dublin, to-night, Major-General Sir George Franks will present the Royal Humane Society's medal for life-saving to Captain W. M. Calwell, M.C. The dinner on this occasion coincides with the early conference of the British Legion, and some delegates from that event are expected to attend.

COST OF PUBLIC SERVICES.

"MORE THAN WE CAN AFFORD."

OFFICIALS' VIEWS AT COMMISSION.

"EVER since its establishment in 1922, the Free State has paid more on its public services than the country could afford," said Mr. H. P. Boland, Establishment Officer, Department of Finance, when he continued his evidence yesterday before the Civil Service Commission, sitting at Government Buildings, Dublin.

Mr. Boland made this statement after agreeing with Mr. Joseph Brennan, Chairman of the Commission, that there had been undue rigidity in the Free State in regard to public expenditure. He added that civil servants had been told by the Minister for Finance that if their demands were acceded to the country would not be able to bear the expense.

If budgetary control were to continue, declared Mr. Boland, the Minister for Finance should be the judge as to what the State's expenses were to be. The demand for arbitration amounted to an assumption that the service was not satisfied that the Minister should be the judge. There was no power in law to make an arbitration award binding on both parties.

Whitleyism, he said, would be the first step towards arbitration.

Pointing out the great difference between the conditions of employment for industrial workers and others in the service, Mr. Boland said that the former were paid on the fairest possible system—according to the rates paid in corresponding industries under private enterprise. These rates were governed by the amounts which the industry concerned could afford to pay, and they were liable to fluctuate. Hence an arbitrator dealing with such cases could confine himself to a great extent to existing circumstances, and to the capacity of the industry to pay.

In the case of the ordinary civil servant these considerations had not the same application. An arbitrator would not have to examine the capacity of the Government to pay, and his decision must be made, not with reference to the immediate circumstances, but with regard to the effects of his award over a very long period.

Mr. Duffy interjected that as the Minister, in their terms of reference, accepted the principle of arbitration, he thought Mr. Boland's evidence should relate to how arbitration could be carried out.

PUBLIC CRITICISM.

Mr. Boland dealt with the attitude of the public towards the Civic Service, which, he said, was a most important factor in maintaining the spirit which ought to exist in the Service, and maintaining recruitment of the class which ought to be recruited.

"There is a feeling that the Civil Service are a privileged class. We are aware even that sometimes there has been a suggestion that the Civil Service is interfering too much. It should be clearly understood that the Civil Service understands that its share in the activities of government are confined to the execution of policies originating in political parties and endorsed by the electorate and Parliament.

"Carrying out those policies from time to time will involve additions to the Service," he said, "and the public will see—and if what happens elsewhere happens here—the finger of scorn will be pointed at the Service. It will be suggested that the Civil Service is doing itself well in creating more posts."

The Chairman suggested that it was the duty of the Minister concerned to defend them.

Mr. Boland agreed, and added that there were meetings of local bodies at which resolutions on the subject were passed, and the discussions showed that the people concerned knew nothing whatever about the subject. There had been references by public representatives to civil servants and the part they played, which were "very unfortunate and very wrong."

Mr. Boland said that he did not remember a single complaint against an individual civil servant during the last eight years.

This concluded Mr. Boland's evidence, and the Commission adjourned until Thursday next.

CORK HOSPITAL INQUIRY.

DOCTOR AND UNWRITTEN RULE.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
CORK, Friday.

The sworn inquiry into the termination by the South Cork Board of Public Assistance of the services of Dr. Edmund Goold, and the suspension of his brother, Dr. Michael Goold, was resumed to-day by Dr. J. D. McCormack, the Local Government Department's Medical Inspector. The action of the Board of Assistance followed a report from the matron in connection with the treatment of a patient admitted to the County Home and District Hospital on the night of the 23rd November, 1932.

Dr. J. T. O'Connor, who continued his evidence, said that during his connection with the institution there had been an unwritten rule that if a visiting physician or anybody acting for him requested that a patient should be sent to a particular division the request had been invariably carried out.

Cross-examined by Mr. O'Driscoll, who appeared for both Dr. M. Goold and Dr. E. Goold, the witness agreed that it was the duty of the house surgeon to segregate the patients to the various wards as they came in, and in the present instance the patient was correctly classified as a medical case. According to the technical classification, St. Theresa's would be the proper ward to which to send her.

Are you the person to decide whether a patient was to be transferred to another ward or not?—Yes.

You say that when you suggested that this patient should be transferred the Goolds apparently did not want the transfer?—Yes.

Did the Goolds then tell you the whole circumstances surrounding the admission of this case on the previous evening?—I believe they did. They told me she was sent by Dr. John Kiely, and he asked to have her transferred to St. Catherine's, and they sent her to St. Theresa's.

Answering further questions, the witness said that he thought that the Drs. Goold said that Dr. Kiely had no authority to order a patient to a particular division.

In reply to a question regarding the admission of patients, he said that if a dispensary doctor sent in a patient, and asked to have him placed under a particular doctor, while there was no compulsion to carry out the suggestion, as a matter of courtesy it might be done, and had been done.

Richard Heaphy, night porter at the institution, and Sister Mary Laurentia O'Connell, of St. Theresa's Division, having given evidence, the inquiry was adjourned until Monday.

HOUSING LOAN AND TENDERS.

The Dublin Corporation at its next meeting will receive a recommendation from the Housing and General Purposes Committee that application should be made to the Free State Minister for Local Government and Public Health for sanction to a loan of £250,000 for the purpose of making advances under the Small Dwellings (Acquisition) Act.

The tender of Messrs. P. J. Fearon and Co. at £19,036 for the erection of 49 three-roomed flats in Greek street, the tender of Messrs. H. and J. Martin at £50,000 for the erection of 138 three-room and ten four-room houses at Donnelly's Orchard area, and the tender of Messrs. John King and Sons at £20,712 for the erection of 59 three-room and six four-room houses at Bath avenue, have been accepted.

SWEEPSTAKE PRIZE LIST.

56 HORSES IN THE DRAW.

STRANGE REQUEST TO TRUST.

IN connection with the Irish Hospitals' sweepstakes on the Grand National, to be held next month, the Trust draws attention to the fact that three weeks are all that are left until the closing date of the sweepstake, February 27th.

The horses in the Grand National coming within the scope of this sweepstake are those in respect of which forfeit was not declared at the first acceptance. The first acceptance has now taken place, and, as a result, 56 horses come within the scope of the sweepstake and will be in the draw. The prize-list, therefore, will be as follows:—

In each unit of	£100,000
Drawer of winning horse		£30,000
Drawer of second horse		£15,000
Drawer of third horse		£10,000
Drawers of 53 unplaced horses will receive £660 7s. 6d. each, being their share of		£35,000
100 cash prizes of £100 each		£10,000
	£100,000	£100,000

In addition the seller of the—

First prize ticket in each unit will receive £1,000
The seller of the second prize ticket will receive 750
The seller of the third prize ticket will receive 250

In the Grand National draw of 1932 fifty-one horses were included, and in the Grand National draw of 1931 eighty-five horses were included.

A DREAM.

Miss Ann Penn called at the Irish Hospitals Trust office in Dublin this week and asked whether she could purchase the ticket numbered £BL75315, which she had dreamt would win a prizt. On being told that individual tickets could not be selected for sale and that the ticket mentioned had been sent to Great Britain, Miss Penn deposited £10 with the sweepstake authorities, which she has authorised them to pay to the holder of the ticket if it is handed over to her, stating that she is willing to arrange that, should the ticket win a prize, she will share it equally with the present holder.

PHOTOGRAPHY AND ART.

ITS RELATION TO PAINTING.

"ART and Photography" was the subject of a lecture given last night before the Photographic Society by Mr. George Atkinson, R.H.A., at Jury's Hotel, Dublin. He reviewed the influence of art on photography and of photography on art, and mentioned how Ruskin's praise of the early results of photography had led many young artists to imagine that the camera had set a standard of completeness in detailed records of form, and that they had evolved a naturalistic style of minute and unselected realism. Ruskin, however, in later years seemed to have become aware of the falsity of the value he had placed on completeness of detail, and the painters themselves revolted against the photographic standard in the field of pictorial representation.

This revolt, coupled with the scientific discoveries of photography, had given rise to impressionism in painting, and this practical point was frequently overshadowed by the more idealistic conceptions attributed to the painters of the impressionistic school, and might add a fresh interest for photographers examining the works of artists such as Monet and Pissaro.

The subsequent phases of Neo-Impressionism and Divisionism, as represented by the paintings of Seurat and Signaw, were a still more scientific development of Impressionism, and consisted in the juxtaposition of separate "points" or spots of pure colour, scientifically arranged to constitute a general tone, as revealed through the experiments of photography.

THE MODERN CAMERA.

The very considerable increase in the popularity of the camera in recent years, and the extraordinary success of the motion-picture camera in providing novel visual interpretations, had also led to the greater freedom of photography as an independent art. At the same time, it had given a ready facility to photography to adopt the more modern conceptions of the painter in extremes of perspective, unusual aspects as seen from above and below, and other unexpected appearances.

While it would appear that there were many similarities and dissimilarities on the emotional, as well as on the practical, side between the making of pictures by photography and the making of pictures by the painter, it would be conceded that the painter's work was essentially creative, while the photographer's work was mainly selective.

The painter built up a structure of forms and colours to give shape to a conception of forms already arranged. Composition was common to both, and while it was frequently assumed that composition was governed by definable principles, it was not possible to produce good composition through obedience to any so-called "laws."

There was, however, at the basis of every picture a structure of lines and masses that held it together and established an appropriate rhythm.

The lecturer demonstrated the argument of his observations with many diagrams, and mentioned, as a further instance, of the growth of interest in the camera picture, the appearance of photographic work which had a pictorial appeal only, as distinct from descriptive records in the magazine page of the daily newspaper.

Mr. George Prescott, A.M.I.A.E., presided.

CHEERS IN COURT.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
TRALEE, Friday.

There was cheering in court when two young men—John Connor, Farmersbridge, Tralee, and Michael Kennedy, Lisnanoul, Castlemaine—were brought before District Justice Kenny here to-day, charged with having assumed the designation of members of the Civic Guard and searched for arms the house of Timothy Cahill at Dromulton, from which they were alleged to have removed a shot-gun.

The cheering broke out anew when the prisoners declared that, as soldiers of the Irish Republican Army, they declined to plead.

Evidence having been given by Detective McBride that a search of Connor's house revealed a shot-gun and eight cartridges, the prisoners were remanded for a week, and removed in custody, wildly cheered by the demonstrators in court.

GOVERNMENT GRANTS.

£500 FOR UNEMPLOYED STONECUTTERS.

A grant of £500 has been made by the Government for the relief of unemployed members of the Stonecutters' Union. Their case was urgently pressed at recent interviews with the Ministry by the Lord Mayor of Dublin and the City Manager. Before Christmas the Corporation had already allocated the sum of £1,200 among members of the Union, whose trade has been severely depressed.

It is understood that the shipbuilding trade unionists are also pressing their claims for a Government grant, and a proposal is afoot that work should be provided through Government agency by the building of a sister vessel to the Muirchu, the fisheries protection vessel.

Other unions are also said to be moving on similar lines, as the skilled trades feel that they have not received a fair share of the relief grants.

THE AMERICAN MARKETS.

TRADERS ADOPT CAUTIOUS ATTITUDE: IRREGULAR CLOSE.

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.
NEW YORK, Friday.

The absence of news of an encouraging nature had a depressing effect on sentiment, while the market faces a testing of the low levels established in December. Operators adopted a cautious attitude, and price movements during the session were narrowly irregular, but mostly fractionally lower. Sales to-day reached only 910,000 shares. The market presented an unsettled appearance at the opening. During the early dealings Goodyear Tyre declined 1, possibly owing to the cutting in tyre prices, but Gold Mining shares displayed activity and scored gains ranging from fractions to round about 1 point. In subsequent trading, the market fluctuated nervously, many issues losing 1 to 2 points.

Signs of support occasionally appeared, but a number of Utilities and Miscellaneous Industrials were again in supply, while Rails barely held their own, on indications that to-morrow's car-loadings would show a substantial decline.

The market developed a dull tendency, and dealings were of a highly professional character.

According to gossip in brokerage quarters, some professional interests are going short in Electric Power issues, and long in Gold Minings, in which bullish activity continued. New York Traction issues were bid up on renewed talk of an increase in fares.

Mercantile reviews indicate that business is about holding its own. General uncertainty featured the late trading and the market closed irregular.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Friday.

With trade news still colourless, the grain market continued to back and fill within extremely narrow limits. Lack of selling pressure and equally small buying power were noticeable features, while the easiness of the Stock Market encouraged some scattered selling. Wheat eased on continued unfavourable crop news and weather conditions in the South-West. The crop experts—Messrs. Logan and Bryan—claim that considerable improvement is necessary in the condition of winter wheat to promise a 400,000,000 bushels crop at the beginning of spring growth. Maize declined owing to scattered selling, and in sympathy with wheat, which offset the steady cash interest. Rye and oats were dull and inactive markets.

NORTHERN INNER BAR.

FOUR NEW K.C.'S.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT
BELFAST, Friday.

Four members of the Northern Bar were called to the Inner Bar of Northern Ireland to-day by the Right Hon. Sir, William Moore, Bart.

The new K.C.'s are:—Mr. Samuel Clarke Porter, who was called to the Bar in 1903; Mr. John Edmond Warnock, called in 1911; Mr. Walter Oakman Hume, called in 1914; and Mr. George Boyle Hanna, M.P., Parliamentary Secretary to the Northern Minister of Home Affairs, called in 1920.

It was four years since there had been a call to the Ulster Inner Bar.

ELECTRICITY IN THE FREE STATE.

RAPIDLY INCREASING CONSUMPTION.

How the use of electricity has become more popular in the Irish Free State is revealed in figures which were issued by the Electricity Supply Board in Dublin last night.

Units generated (Ardnacrusha-Dublin) in 1930 numbered 89,120,000. This increased to 147,603,500 in 1931, and to 163,002,300 last year.

Units sold by the Electricity Board have also increased enormously. There were 65,000,000 units sold in 1930, 108,140,000 in 1931, and 119,560,000 last year. The number of consumers connected to the Supply Board's mains were 57,000 in 1930, 75,800 in 1931, and 80,900 in 1932.

The peak load during the year 1930 was 47,600 k.w.; in 1931 it was 55,700 k.w., and in 1932 60,000 k.w.; while the load factor during the years under review were 21 per cent., 30.3 per cent., and 30.9 per cent. respectively.

NO AMERICAN TARIFF INCREASES YET.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
WASHINGTON, Friday.

Speaker Garner has disposed of Republican attempts to force through tariff-raising legislation in the House of Representatives, with the declaration that there will be no foreign depreciated currency legislation enacted this session in Congress.

BLOWS AT COUNCIL MEETING.

COMBATANTS CHEERED FROM GALLERY.

Personal remarks arising out of a discussion on tenders for work in connection with a road grant of £7,000 led to an exchange of blows between two Councillors at a meeting on Wednesday night of the Waterford Corporation, whose chamber was virtually turned into a boxing arena, with the "galleryites" cheering and shouting encouragement to the combatants.

Peace was not restored until other Councillors and gallery visitors themselves intervened, but after being separated one of the Councillors again showed an inclination for battle and had to be restrained. The visitors, among whom were a number of unemployed, then returned to their places, shouting political catch-cries and cheering wildly.

It had been revealed by the Town Clerk that the lowest tender received was submitted by the South of Ireland Asphalt Company, and the incident occurred after it had been questioned whether it was not a decision of the Corporation that such contracts should be given to local labour.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE.

ACCORDING TO FORM.

BRILLIANT WIN OF SONG OF ESSEX IN GENERAL PEACE HURDLE.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

LINGFIELD, Friday Night.

WE had excellent racing this afternoon, and the weather, as at Sandown yesterday, was again delightful for it. The course here, however, rode a little heavier than at Esher.

The race for the General Peace Open Hurdle was worth going a long way to see, and in winning it by two lengths and four lengths from Insurance and Knight of Knockeevan, Sir Hugh Nugent's Song of Essex has good claims to be regarded as a champion hurdler.

Late in February last year this son of Essexford beat Insurance on this course, but up the hill at Cheltenham Insurance very decisively reversed the running. This was a rubber game between the pair, and Song of Essex won it fairly and squarely.

THREE GOOD HURDLERS.

As Insurance had beaten Knight of Knockeevan in this same race last year, the form between the two worked out remarkably well They are three really good hurdlers, and that was shown by the fact that to-day's race was run in nearly two seconds faster time than the corresponding event twelve months ago, when Insurance won.

Furthermore, they had behind them to-day an Imperial Cup winner in Last of the Dandies, Lord Marcus and the four-year-old, Tolvadden. A stable companion of Knight of Knockeevan called Freasdell went off in front of Song of Essex, but the latter soon raced him out of the lead, and never lost it again, though between the last two hurdles Insurance drew level with him.

Song of Essex, however, running his race out with great resolution, went ahead again, and when Insurance showed a slight hesitancy at the last hurdle he beat him easily—a gallant victory, well and truly gained.

He has been a treasure to Sir Hugh Nugent, who bought him when Major Shirley put him up for sale after he had failed to gain much distinction on the flat.

DISAPPOINTING RUNNING.

I was a little disappointed in the running of Knight of Knockeevan, who was beaten two hurdles out. This was hardly his best, though he was greatly fancied and started joint favourite with the winner, Insurance being the outsider of the three.

The Cloister Steeplechase did not work out quite so well as we had expected; for at the last moment the running of Golden Miller was deferred until to-morrow. Still, we had the brilliant two-miler, Go Easy, as well as Gregalach, with Drintown and Old Bachelor making up the field of four.

Old Bachelor, who is developing into a fine-looking horse, made the running, jumping well, though not perfectly, with Gregalach second and Go Easy last. Down the hill Gregalach headed him, and then Drintown joined the latter, the pair rising at the first fence in the straight together. Go Easy then began to improve, and waltzing past them between the last two fences he beat Gregalach by four lengths, with Old Bachelor third.

IN THE BEST OF HEART.

All the same it was an excellent show which Gregalach made, and Mrs. Gemmell's horse is clearly in the best of heart.

The five-year-old Irish-bred son of Melleray, Mellburne, who won a race at Limerick last year and was then bought by Mr. Gore for the Marquess of Abergavenny, won the Surrey Amateurs' 'Chase, his first success in England.

Mr. Michael Barry came to ride him, and waiting on Mr. Cazalet on his National horse, Youtell, until the latter had jumped the last fence in front, he came on the flat and won by three lengths from Noni's Garter, who beat Youtell for second place by a head. The form may not have amounted to a great deal here, but there is scope for improvement in Mellburne.

BEST FINISH OF THE DAY.

The best finish of the day was that for the February Selling Hurdle, which Mr. Victor Emanuel's Nosiamas won by a neck from Burglar and the favourite, Arctic Light, who made a dead-heat for second place, Mr. Bostwick riding a vigorous finish on Burglar, who had hung back after taking a slight leading coming into the straight.

The selling 'chase, with only four runners, was a poor affair, and was easily won by the outsider, Duplicator, an eleven-year-old, by Glasgerion or Count Anthony.

With only Go Easy coming to their assistance, backers were having a bad time, and their losses were added to when the favourite, Chatterer, ran a long way below her Newbury form in the Felcourt Hurdle. The race fell to an outsider, Collodian, who beat Bolivia and Max by three lengths and a length. The winner on his last appearance was unplaced in a seller at Leicester.

SELECTIONS.

Although Kellsboro' Jack and Forbra are likely to be absent, there will be a good race to-morrow for the Troytown 'Chase, with Golden Miler, Huic Holloa, a winner of the Lancashire 'Chase; Clydesdale, Ballasport, Solanum and Near East, all Nationl entries, as well as Buck Willow, Prince Cherry and Somnus. I have no hesitation in declaring for GOLDEN MILLER, to whom the danger may be Prince Cherry.

The Manifesto 'Chase may be won by SOLIPED if he can go away out by himself as in his last race, and the Godstone Hurdle by THE SPIDER.

GALTEE MORE.

TROYTOWN 'CHASE.

PRINCE DU SANG II. MAY WIN THE TRESPASSER HURDLE.

AFTER all Golden Miller did not run in the Cloister Steeplechase at Lingfield yesterday, it having been decided to reserve him for the Troytown Handicap Steeplecase, the big event to-day. If Miss Paget's horse can win this race he will prove himself to be a champion, for he will be running up against some of the best horses in training, and will be carrying no less than 12st. 10lb.

I am not sure that he is equal to giving 6lb. to Huic Holloa if Waddington's horse can show his best form. Huic Holloa was well beaten in the Victory Steeplechase at Manchester, but on this course in December last he finished second to Golden Miller when attempting to give the winner 4lb. The distance between them was three lengths, but on these terms Huic Holloa should appreciably shorten the margin.

Forbra, last year's National winner, should get round, but he may not be at his best just yet, a remark that applies to Ballasport. Prince Cherry, the winner of this race last year, does not appear to have much chance of scoring again on his Hurst Park running against Golden Miller, and the stable may be better represented by The Brown Talisman. This ex-hurdler promises to do exceedingly well in the sport, and will have to be watched.

Somnus is fancied to beat Golden Miller at Newmarket, and he must have a big chance on his running at Newbury when beating Karaman and Little Blackbird. Solanum did not impress at Lingfield, and I shall select who has a slight preference over Golden Miller and The Brown Talisman.

The Trespasser Handicap Hurdle will bring out a useful field, including the very consistent Prince du Sang II., who showed to advantage at the last meeting here when acting as runner-up to Sea Rover. West Wicklow was the third on that occasion, but the margin between them was very small. West Wicklow subsequently won at Hurst Park, but, though there may be little between them, I expect to come out the best.

The Manifesto Steeplechase may be fought out by Glenhazel, Soliped and Golden Square. I have not given up all hope of seeing the last-named the winner of a race such as this, but this time the best to stand might be

SOLIPED.

He won very convincingly on this course last time out, having Little Blackbird in the rear.

I shall take sides with that improving filly,

YARE,

in the Guest Hall Selling Hurdle, while I prefer to Croisade, Duncooler and Marvellous in the Godstone Hurdle.

THE programme to be submitted to patrons of the Leopardstown meeting this afternoon is one of the most attractive we have seen at an Irish meeting for many years back. Eighty-three horses in all have been declared as runners for the six races, and among them are three Irish-trained candidates for the Grand National—namely, Heartbreak Hill, Impudent Barney and Cold Punch.

The three horses named are all engaged in two races, the Leopardstown Steeplechase and the Stillorgan Steeplechase, and it is a matter for their trainers to decide which they will run in. If the three run for the Leopardstown Steeplechase, which is the more valuable race, there will be a field of eighteen runners, and a race of exceptional interest should be witnessed. Heartbreak Hill, despite her big weight, cannot be left out of calculations, especially as this course is of the galloping kind just suited to her. Zag has been raised considerably in the handicap by virtue of his two recent wins, and will doubtless find the task set him beyond his compass. Impudent Barney must improve a lot on his recent form to hold a chance, and will probably not be as well fancied a candidate as Sack, who is also the property of Mrs. Webster. The best has not yet been seen of this six-year-old, who doubtless will make a bold bid for to-day's race. Regarding Heartbreak Hill as much better class than any of the others, she must get the vote, and if she is saddled instead for the Stillorgan Steeplechase Sack would be the selection for this race.

Tote Double on Fourth and Fifth Races.

Golden George, Boundary and Endeavour look to be the pick of those declared as runners for the Tower Hurdle Race. Endeavour disappointed his connections badly at the last Naas meeting, but this form was too bad to be true. He should do better over this course, and will possibly make amends for his previous failure. Neranja and Mabel Morse have the best credentials of those in the Stand Maiden Hurdle Race, and probably the former will prove to be the winner.

The field for the Maiden Steeplechase is disappointing, both as regards quantity and quality. Ardanew, who has experienced the tantalising bad luck to finish second in the last four races he ran in, seems now to at last have a chance of winning.

Should Heartbreak Hill be saddled for the Stillorgan Steeplechase instead of the earlier race she will have to meet Sky Fruit on very much more unfavourable terms compared to their last meeting on this course. At the Christmas meeting Sky Fruit put up a good show to the last fence when in receipt of only 7lb. from Mrs. Bird's mare. Now the difference is 36lb., and, even though Sky Fruit ran disappointingly in the meantime at Baldoyle, his chance now is obvious.

The Corinthian Flat Race will attract a big field of horses, including My Only, an own sister to Royal Ransom. This mare won a maiden steeplechase at the Baldoyle New Year's meeting, and as she stays well should win this race. Selections:—

Tower Hurdle—Endeavour.
Stand Maiden Hurdle—Neranja.
Silverpark Steeplechase—Ardanew.
Leopardsstown Steeplechase—Heartbreak Hill (if absent, Sack).
Stillorgan Steeplechase—Sky Fruit.
Corinthian Flat Race—My Only.

FROM THE HUNTING FIELDS.

MEATH HOUNDS.

Thursday, Robertstown Saw Mills.—A fox found in Robertstown ran out by the Plantation and turning to the left he got to ground at Moate. Hounds found in Scrubbogue. This fox went out over the Hill twice and back to the covert, and then went away through Hermitage and on to Ardamagh and back again to the covert, where he got to ground. They found in Farranalcock, and ran through the Deer Park and on to Balreash and back by Carlanstown, but the fox got to ground at Mahonstown. They found again in Farranalcock, and after a lot of covert hunting he went away by the glebe and on to Spandaw, and turning to the right was lost at Balreask.

Yesterday's meet was at Kilmessan. A fox was leaving Swainstown as hounds were going to draw the covert. They ran him over the road pointing for Dunsany, but he got to ground in the railway bank. They found in Arlantown Bog, but the fox ran a left-handed circuit back to the covert to ground. They found at once in Curtistown, and went away by Knocktown and on over the Furzy Hills and over the Pike Corner road and on into Kilcarty, where one got to ground in the covert. Another went away on the Kiltale side, and turning to the right went back over the double to the garden wall, where he got to ground. There was several foxes in Galtrim, and we had three local rings back to the covert, where they were left. A busy day.

WORK AT THE CURRAGH.

THE CURRAGH, Friday.

There was frost overnight, and work was restricted.

BEHAN'S High Treason, Straid, Ulster Lily, Ballyorgan, Black Wings, Cargan and the rest of the Mountjoy Lodge team were given good spells of trotting in the rough grass.

DAWSON'S Charming Prince, Shady Lane, Aughrim Boy, Arab Man, Jorto, Flashing Dawn, Defiant, and the two-year-olds cantered in the long grass.

FETHERSTONHAUGH'S Glentoi, Soliman's Feast, Sydney, Barrowby and others exercised on the roads; as did GILPIN'S Iridos, Lift Line, Fanmond, Promochos, Artful Lad and the two-year-olds.

PARKINSON'S Liege, Ted, Hornhead, Stand Off, Sabre, Roman Citizen, Irish Fun, Cairn Lassie, The Old Campaigner and the remainder of the Maddenstown Lodge team took healthy exercise.

ROGERS'S Cauldron Snout, Capitulate, Sojourner, Hawlmark, Song of the Hills, Parched Corn, Goolash, Essexly and the two-year-olds had brisk bouts of cantering exercise.

SLOCOCK'S Pilot Ship, Clover Hay, Lass of [illegible]

WELLESLEY'S Coolayna, Heroic Deed, Neranja, [illegible] and other teams had long spells of walking and trotting.

SECOND TEST FOR WALES

TRINITY TO MEET U.C.D. : NORTH UNABLE TO TRAVEL.

THE second stage of the International tournament will be entered on to-day, when Wales, the conqueror of England, meet Scotland at Swansea. The confidence behind the Welsh team has weakened somewhat since it has been found necessary to re-arrange the back division. R. Boon, the fast wing three-quarter, who played so well against England, was injured in that match and had to cry off, and his place goes to A. Hickman, of Neath. M. J. Turnbull, the scrum half-back, has also had to decleare off, and, in accordance with Welsh custom, the selectors have decided to also drop H. M. Boucott, who was picked as his partner at out-half, and bring in the two Swansea half-backs, Bryn Evans and R. Morris.

As the Scottish team is somewhat of an experimental one, we are not in a position to estimate its chance, but Wales had a good side against England, and if the changes do not seriously affect its strength it looks as if the Principality would gain another victory, and later the team will come to Belfast full of hope of beating Ireland and gaining triple crown honours, an achievement which our team deprived them of in sensational style last year at Cardiff.

Owing to North of Ireland having no facilities for travelling to Dublin, they have had to declare off their match with Bective Rangers at Donnybrook. This reduces the number of senior matches to four, and of these that between University College and Dublin University at Terenure should provide the best game. Lansdowne will not be at full strength against Blackrock College, a notable absentee being E. O'D Davy, who is resting in view of the game with England next Saturday. Clontarf on recent form should beat Monkstown at Castle avenue, and Old Wesley are likely to be too strong for Palmerston. There are many Metropolitan Cup and Provincial Towns Cup matches also included in the day's programme.

WALES.

Full-back—V. G. Jenkins (Oxford University and Bridgend).

Three-quarters—A. Hickman (Neath), W. Wooder (Colwyn Bay), Claude Davey (Swansea), A. H. Jones (Cardiff).

Half-backs—Bryn Evans (Swansea), R. Morris (Swansea).

Forwards—Bryn Evans (Llanelly), Edgar Jones (Llanelly), A. Skym (Cardiff), R. B. Jones (Cambridge University), D. Thomas (Swansea), Watcyn Thomas (Swansea), Tom Arthur (Neath), Tom Isaacs (Cardiff).

SCOTLAND.

Full-back—D. I. Brown (Cambridge University).

Three-quarters—Ian Smith (London-Scottish), H. D. Lorraine (Oxford University), H. Lind (Dunfermline), K. C. Fyfe (Cambridge University).

Half-backs—W. R. Logan (Edinburgh University), K. L. T. Jackson (Oxford University).

Forwards—J. A. Waters (Selkirk), J. H. Richie (Watsonians), J. R. Thom (Watsonians), J. Beattie (Hawick), W. H. Welsh (Hawick), M. S. Stewart (Stewart's College), J. M. Henderson (Edinburgh Academicals), R. Rowland (Glasgow High School F.P.).

JUNIOR SCHOOLS' CUP.

Owing to Wilson's College (Multyfarnham) being unable to travel a team, they gave St. Andrew's College a walk-over in the second round of the Junior Schools' Cup, which was listed to be played yesterday afternoon at Donnybrook. St. Andrew's now go into the third round, in which they will meet the winner of Castleknock College and Presentation College (Glasthule) re-play. The latter match will be played at Donnybrook next Thursday at 3.45.

ATHLETICS.

THE PARK AS A STADIUM.

OUR ATHLETIC NEEDS : DUBLIN AND OLYMPIC GAMES.

IN the following article General O'Duffy, President of the National Athletic and Cycling Association of Ireland, continues his review of the athletic requirements of Ireland. He suggests as most suitable for the purposes of a National Stadium a site in the Phœnix Park, and advocates the allocation of the proceeds of a Sweep for financing the provision of sports grounds, etc.

As I pointed out on Wednesday last (writes General O'Duffy) if the N.A.C.A. Athletic Revival Movement is to succeed provision must be made for the training of our youth under up-to-date conditions. We require central sports grounds in Dublin, sports grounds in the towns and villages, playgrounds attached to schools, and coaches in physical culture for our schools and training colleges. The N.A.C.A. consists of a little band of voluntary workers, who, with very limited resources, are making a tremendous effort against almost insuperable odds to carry on. Unless the State comes to its assistance now advance is not possible. I do not consider we should look to the State for everything. The members of our clubs, boards and councils must show their earnestness in the matter; they must demonstrate their ability to take full advantage of any support the Association may receive from State or municipal authorities. We must define what the State can, and in our opinion, should do. Up to the present the N.A.C.A. has no reason to complain; in fact, we have been treated generously by the Government.

WHAT THE STATE CAN DO.

1. Provision of a site for a national stadium or a central sports ground in Dublin.
2. Approval of a scheme, whereby a sweepstake or a proportion of one or more sweepstakes will be devoted to the provision of sports grounds all over the country.
3. Enactment of legislation, authorising the municipal authorities to acquire land for sports grounds in the various towns, and giving County Councils similar authority in rural areas.
4. Provision for physical culture and athletic training in the schools and colleges under qualified instructors.

It is obvious that the N.A.C.A. cannot provide these essentials. It is a national problem which must be tackled sooner or later. A national direction should be given by the Government, and a member of the Executive Council, preferably the Minister for Education, selected to make this question his special concern. It may be urged that owing to the financial depression this question should await better times, but other countries have similar economical situations, yet State-aided sports grounds are springing up everywhere, and teachers of physical culture and athletics are being appointed to every school.

The question of the cost of a site for a National Athletic Stadium or Central Sports Ground in Dublin does not arise. The Phœnix Park is admirably situated for the purpose. It is the property of the people, and is held in trust for them by the Government. The Park is Dublin's greatest asset, providing as it does a huge playground for the youth. Our proposal is to enclose an area of five or six acres out of the 1,760 acres which it contains, where our athletes may congregate for outdoor sport; where Ireland's teams may train under proper conditions, where we can hold sports meetings as other countries can, and where we can stage the athletic section of the Olympic and European Games.

THE OLYMPIC GAMES.

The Olympic Games are held every fourth year. A venue has not yet been fixed for 1940. Two countries have already applied—Japan and Italy. Although it will be some time before the venue is decided on, it is likely that a definite promise will be made at the next meeting of the International Olympic Council this summer. I venture to suggest Ireland for the 1940 Games, and was agreeably surprised to find that the suggestion was well received for, I believe, three reasons—That Ireland won more athletic events in the last games than any other country except U.S.A. and Finland; secondly, that the success of the Eucharistic Congress appeared to be universally known, and thirdly, Ireland's athletic tradition in comparison with other countries. It is not necesasry to dwell here on the importance of getting the Games for Ireland. It is estimated that over 250,000 people visited Los Angeles for the 1932 Games. This will give some idea of the benefit the country would reap, not to speak of the fact that Ireland would be the centre of the athletic world during the period.

It has now been decided to hold European Games every fourth year—i.e., Olympic Games, 1936, 1940, 1944, and European Games, 1934, 1938, 1942, and so on. Whatever our prospects of securing the Olympic Games for Ireland may be, there is no doubt we would get an early opportunity of housing the European Games, provided facilities are available. But while it is of far-reaching importance for this country to be in a position to accept the Olympic or European Games and to bring off other international contests, the benefits which our youth would derive from properly laid-out sports grounds soar high above every other consideration.

A NATIONAL COUNCIL.

It would be very desirable, in my opinion, to set about the establishment of a National Committee for Physical Education or a National Sports Ground Committee presided over by the Minister for Education, Secretary, Department of Education, or by a special Parliamentary Secretary. The Committee or Council would have representatives from the Oireachtas, county councils, municipal authorities, the medical profession, the schools (primary and secondary), the Church, the Army, Garda and Civil Service, and from Sport; and its functions would be mainly the preparation of a scheme for the provision of sports grounds and for physical training.

"HEALTH BEFORE HOSPITAL."

The raising of the fund to implement these suggestions is the big question. The sweepstakes are being run for the better equipment of our hospitals and the restoration to health of the unfit. Prevention, however, is better than cure, and instead of concentrating all our resources on mending those who are broken we should see that all are kept whole—our motto should be "Health before Hospital." There would be less disease and less strain on our hospitals if all concerned realised the value of athletics.

It will be necessary to approach the Government with a view to getting the necessary legislation to have set aside the proceeds of a sweepstake, or a proportion of the proceeds of one or more sweepstakes, for the provision of sports grounds. It is within the power of the Dail to do this, and, as I have no doubt the Government will be favourably disposed to the project, the necessary amending section should pass through without a division. We should, however, leave nothing to chance. The promoters of the Sweepstakes have already given an earnest of their interest in the movement, and the project proposed is closely allied with the object for which the Sweeps are presently being run, and cannot be regarded as a precedent. The hospitals have done well, and, while much remains to be done, I hope it will not be considered unreasonable to ask for one Sweepstake for our hitherto neglected young athletes.

CRICKET.

LEINSTER BRANCH MEETING.

DATES FOR BIG MATCHES NEXT SEASON.

The fourteenth annual meeting of the Leinster Branch, Irish Cricket Union, was held last evening in the Mills' Hall, Merrion row. Mr. G. J. Bonass (President, Irish Cricket Union) was in the chair, and there was a large attendance.

The hon. secretary's report showed that there were fifty-four clubs affiliated to the branch, a decrease of three as compared with the previous season. The report mentioned the successes of Ireland over Scotland and M.C.C., that the public support for the latter match was satisfactory, and suggested the advisability of bringing over a strong English county side, such as Surrey, with Hobbs and Jardine, or Yorkshire, with Sutcliffe and Leyland. Such a step would be of immense benefit to Irish cricket.

THE LARGER WICKET.

The decision of the clubs to use the larger wicket in the Senior League last year was not unanimous, but as it had to be used for international games it would minimise our prospects of success in those matches if our players had not had previous experience of the larger wicket.

The following representative matches have been arranged for 1933:—

Ireland v. Scotland—College Park, June 17, 19, 20.

Ireland v. M.C.C.—Lord's, August 16, 17.

Leinster v. Ulster—Belfast, June 2, 3.

Leinster v. Munster—Rathmines, July 14, 15.

Leinster v. Ulster (Junior)—Dublin, August 5, 7.

Leinster v. Ulster (Schools)—Dublin, June.

The hon. treasurer's report showed that the branch was in a satisfactory financial position, £114 had been received in affiliation fees and £30 in gate receipts, and that there was profit of £50 on the year, and a balance of £190 to credit. The report was passed unanimously.

The election of officers resulted as follows—President, Mr. G. J. Bonass; Hon. Secretary and Hon. Treasurer, Mr. M. H. Maher, Avonlea, Oaklands Park, Sandymount.

CHANGES IN LEAGUE RULES.

A motion that the following addition to League Rule 6 be made, viz.:—"Each club shall forward to the Hon. Secretary of the Union on or before 1st May in each season a complete list of League fixtures, and no points shall be awarded for matches not included in such list. In the case of a club being affiliated to the Union after the fixtures meeting, the hon. secretary may allow an extension after 1st May for arrangement of fixtures in which such club is concerned," was passed unanimously.

A motion to delete the last paragraph of League Rule 9, and substitute the following:—"The Executive Committee or League Sub-Committee shall have power to fix the latest date on which League matches may be played," was carried unanimously, as was an addition to League Rule 9, that no points shall be awarded for a "walk-over" without sanction of the League Sub-Committee concerned.

REPRESENTATIVES TO IRISH UNION.

The following representatives were elected to the Irish Cricket Union:—Messrs. R. H. Lambert, A. E. Bex, D. R. Pigot, and J. A. O'Donnell. Mr. Maher was nominated as Joint Hon. Treasurer to the Irish Cricket Union.

A meeting of the Executive Committee will be held on February 10. Senior and Intermediate fixtures will be made at a meeting on February 17, and Junior and Minor fixtures on February 24.

The meeting closed with the presentation of the Marchant Cup to Mr. E. A. Ingram and the Senior Cup to Mr. R. H. Lambert on behalf of the Leinster C.C.

GAELIC GAMES.

KERRY AND CORK IN THE LEAGUE "DECIDER."

(By PAT'O.)

FEW competitions are served by postponements, and such a tournament as the Charity Cup should be run through on successive Sundays whilst public interest is keen. To-morrow's game at Croke Park, however, should prove a great attraction; for Geraldines and St. Lawrences are in the limelight at the moment, and both have strong championship claims. Yet, Geraldines qualified for the final so many weeks ago that past form is discounted, and St. Lawrence's defeat by Garda last Sunday has not added to their public appeal. Both teams have set their hearts on to-morrow's final, however, and a fast, swaying game is assured, with the probability of the lead changing about.

To-morrow's game at Killarney between Kerry and Cork in the National League final is another instance of bad management. Started in April, 1931, this dragging League should have been concluded long since. I do not think future leagues can be allowed to drag in this way. Finish within the year must be the rule, if the competitions are to hold interest. This is the first serious final at Fitzgerald Park, and Cork's success over Limerick points to a hard struggle, in which Kerry's experience will be challenged by a strong young team. Cork football is on the up-grade after many lean years, but their day of victory may not yet have arrived.

LEINSTER'S FINE SHOOTING.

PROMISING FORM BY YOUNG PLAYERS.

LEINSTER .... 12 CONNAUGHT 1

At Londonbridge road yesterday, Leinster beat Connaught by 12 goals to 1.

The weather broke badly yesterday, and it was doubtful up to the last minute whether the Dublin University ground at Londonbridge road would be fit for play or not. By 2.45, however, the rain had ceased, and a strong drying wind helped the ground to some extent, and it was over an hour late when the teams lined out. C. W. Gibson and J. A. Purcell declared off the Leinster side at the last moment, and their places were taken by G. T. Kenay (Three Rock Rovers) and J. A. MacDonogh (Avoca School).

Connaught started strongly, and their right wing worked well down and sent across a centre, which H. Turpin hit outside the post, with the goal untenanted, as Kenay was not yet on the field. Then Leinster rushed to the other end, and, from a free taken by Johnston, J. A. MacDonogh hit a fine first-time goal. The same player added a second a few minutes later after beating Loughlin from a nice pass by Knight. Leonard then put across a fast centre, from which Martin scored. A left-wing movement resulted in Knight working close in to put Leinster four goals ahead. Shortly after, McDonald missed kicking clear a centre of Knight's, and MacDonogh nipped in to score his third goal. Connaught made an occasional break away, but Leinster were now completely in the ascendancy, and practically every scoring chance was improved. Knight increased the score from a pass by Pigot, and Gray made it seven after intercepting a weak clearance by Kenny.

CONNAUGHT'S GOAL.

Connaught started the second half also with a rush, and H. Turpin broke through to score his side's first point. Leinster again took charge of the game, and, after Martin had converted a centre by Knight, MacDonogh hit four more goals to bring his bag up to seven, and giving Leinster an eleven-goal victory.

On a ground which was almost a morass in places and only just playable at best the Leinster side gave a quite exceptionally brilliant display. The conditions certainly tended to favour the less scientific side, but Leinster played as good hockey as if the ground were in first-class condition, and completely outclassed a Connaught team who were triers to a man. There was very little wild slogging, and the way practically every reasonable scoring chance was made into a goal was extremely creditable to a most enterprising forward line and to MacDonogh in particular. The halves gave them every support with really good stick-work and anticipation. Kenay, in goal, had hardly more than 3 or 4 shots to deal with, but always looked perfectly safe. Doran was the better of the backs, as he was quicker to turn and recover than Keatinge, and his clearances and tackling were very sound. Keatinge gave nothing away, and his hitting was clean and strong.

GRAY IN FORM.

The halves were a really good trio, and held the Connaught forwards in a vice-like grip, and, in addition, backed up their forwards admirably in attack. Gray, at centre-half, made some grand interceptions from full drives at close range, and, although the bad ground was against his neat, effortless style of play, showed that he is a really class player. He was always up behind his forwards ready to pick up a scoring opportunity, and gave Turpin very few chances. Johnston was good in the first half, but rather fell away later. Pigot gave a very polished display at left-half, his neat stick-work being very good, and he placed his passes to great advantage. At forward Leonard and Hennessy were sound on the wing, and Martin, MacDonogh and Knight all scored a success inside. MacDonogh picked up his chances remarkably well, and his first-time quick shooting was very effective.

The Connaught side were almost over-run, but never gave up trying. McDonald in goal had no chance with most of the shots which beat him, and made some fine saves. Loughlin was the better back, and of the other defenders N. Kelly stood out. Forward Turpin was closely marked, and had few chances. M. Fogarty was the best of the line, being fast and showing good stick-work.

A HARD-FOUGHT MATCH.

MUNSTER UNLUCKY NOT TO WIN.

MUNSTER .... 1 ULSTER 1

For the second year in succession Munster and Ulster played a 1-1 draw, and again Munster were unlucky not to win. Ulster, having lost her old stalwarts, is in the experimental stage, and the team is easily the youngest of any taking part in the inter-provincial tournament. At present it is not as good as either the Leinster or Munster sides, but in about two or three years time it should be able to hold its own well. The defence was good yesterday, and the wing men were fast and always dangerous, but the insides were well held, and only Macdonald was good at half-back. Had the ground been firm, Munster would probably have won with a couple of goals to spare, but, as it was, it was almost impossible to judge any player; for, in addition to the mud, the play was too keen to permit good hockey being played.

ULSTER'S STEADY DEFENCE.

Ulster were steadier in defence, both Ellis and McCready being very sound, especially the former, who was a substitute for W. M. Dick. Hall and Daunt were not quite so steady. At half-back Munster were superior. Power gave a great display, and Hanrahan and Smyth were little behind him. Macdonald, playing centre-half, did fine work for Ulster, but Jameson and Ellison were slow, as well as being rather crude in their methods. Lee was the outstanding forward on the field, and only the thick mud prevented him from scoring two or three goals. Hone was also dangerous, but the wings, with the best openings of the game, were too slow to take advantage of them. Ulster were strongest on the wings, both Leeburn and Bowden showing great speed and clever stick-work. The inside men, however, were too closely marked to make any use of the centres they received. Jones, who came on as a last-minute substitute in goal, miskicked badly when Ulster scored, but subsequently showed good anticipation in coming out to check the Ulster forwards on the edge of the circle. Carroll had no chance with the shot that beat him, and otherwise was not tested.

Munster had the better of the first half, but Ulster scored first through Hayes, who took advantage of Jones's mistake. Midway through the second half Lee broke through to equalise with an unsaveable shot. Teams:—

Ulster—Carroll (Belfast Y.M.C.A.); Ellis (South Antrim), N. McCready (North Down); Jamseon (Derry), T. Ellison (East Antrim), J. Macdonald (North Down); Leeburn (East Antrim), O'Keeffe (Cliftonville), N. Coburn (Banbridge), Hayes (Banbridge), J. Bowden (Lisnagarvey).

Munster—R. Jones (Grammarians); F. H. Hall, S. Daunt (Cork C.I.); J. Smyth (Old Cork Grammarians), R. Power (Waterford), C. Hanrahan (Catholic Institute); J. Rawlings, A. O'Malley (Catholic Institute), J. M. Howe, W. G. Lee (Dublin University), J. Trayer (Casuals).

PROPOSED CHANGES IN THE RULES.

The annual general meeting of the Irish Hockey Union was held in the Pavilion, Londonbridge road, last night. Dr. W. E. Graham (Leinster) was elected President of the Union for the coming year, and the Vice-Presidents, Messrs. Bannister, Brown, McMahon, Shanahan and Tydd-Chapman were re-elected, with the addition of Mr. S. F. C. MacDonald, of Ulster. The report of the Headquarters' Ground Committee was read and passed, and the committee, Messrs Howe, Dagg, McMahon, Stanford and Chiddick, was re-elected.

It was decided that in the event of a team from Ulster or Munster meeting Leinster in the semi-final or final of the Irish Cup, the match shall be played alternately in the province concerned, matches between teams from Ulster and Munster to be played in Dublin.

Several alterations in the rules of the game, proposed by the Leinster Branch, are to be sent before the International Rules Board at their next meeting. The most important are:—"That the hooking is not permissible under any circumstances"; "That in the event of a player crossing the seven yards line before the ball is rolled in from touch, a free hit is to be awarded against him."

The suggestion that a penalty shot be substituted for a penalty corner was defeated. The suggested new rule was that a player of the attacking side was to have a shot from the edge of the circle, all other players except the defending goalkeeper standing behind the 25 line. If the goalkeeper saved the shot a bully at the 25 was to be taken.

A presentation was made by the Irish Hockey Union to Mr. T. J. Bennett (Munster), the outgoing President, on the occasion of his marriage.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL.

FIGHT FOR LEADERSHIP.

ROVERS' TASK AT TOLKA PARK.

THREE of the Free State Shield teams are equal at the head of the table with eight points, but Dundalk have played a match more than Shelbourne and Drumcondra, each of whom have the maximum. Shamrock Rovers are right on the heels of the leaders with a point less, and then come Bohemians with four and St. James's Gate with three.

The week-end matches are, therefore, of exceptional interest to all five teams, and to Shelbourne and Drumcondra in particular. Thus far, the feature of the tournament has been the remarkable sequence of victories of the Tolka Park side. Three were achieved away, but to-morrow they will face their most difficult task, when they line out at home to play Shamrock Rovers. This match should be the strongest attraction of the series, and, doubtless, the holding capacity of the ground will be taxed to its fullest extent.

THREE FINE FORWARDS.

In their recent matches the Drumcondra forwards have revealed form of a high class, but much of their success has to be attributed to the dash and skill of the centre, Bagott, and the right-wing pair, Moon and Merry. That fact, of course, will not be overlooked by the Rovers' half-backs to-morrow. Should there be the slightest weakening of the visitors' middle line, matters will go badly for the team. The Rovers' defence, however, is seldom caught napping, and it is certain to be a thrilling duel between the home forwards and the opposing half-backs; as a matter of fact, the issue may be said to hinge on the respective lines. Drumcondra may play the more attractive football, but they will be up against a sturdy defence, and it would not be surprising if the latter should prove equal to a task that is sure to be the most exacting they will have had this season.

A SLUMP IN CORK STOCK.

Things have not been running smoothly for the Cork teams for some time, with the result that they are keeping Bray Unknowns company at the bottom of the table. For that reason there does not seem to be much danger of Shelbourne suffering a set-back to-day at Shelbourne Park; indeed, the home team ought to gain a substantial victory. Their forwards have settled down to a fine scoring game, as is reflected in the number of goals (15) scored by them in their four matches, whereas Cork have an average of but a goal a match and an adverse balance of thirteen. St. James's Gate are always capable of springing a surprise, particularly on their ground at Crumlin; but the relative form of the teams suggests that Dundalk should have no difficulty in maintaining their position with the leaders. Dolphin, with a point more than the Bray team, play the latter at the Carlisle ground, and here also the home side have all their work cut out for them, but an away victory should be registered by Dolphin. On the occasion of their first visit to the Ballintemple ground, Bohemians were taken completely by surprise, but in the meantime they have had something the better of it with the Cork Bohs, and their recent smashing victory over the Southerners points to their bringing back with them to-morrow the much-needed points.

GRAIN.

DUBLIN.—Sellers continue to ask higher prices for choice samples, and buyers in most cases are obliged to pay slightly stiffer rates on scarcity. White oats 11/- to 12/6 barrel, and blacks 10/- to 10/9.

FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES (BALTIC).—WHEAT Cargoes—Market steadier for Manitoba grades at 3d. to 7½d. per quarter advance on better cable advices, but Australian and Plate descriptions were obtainable on former terms. Buyers, however, manifest reserve in face of ample quantities on passage. No. 1 Northern Manitoba (Vancouver shipment) February sellers 24/9, No. 2 ditto 24/3, No. 1 Northern Manitoba (Atlantic shipment) 14th February loading 24/9, No. 2 ditto 24/-, New South Wales (bags) February, also March, 24/-; Victorian (bags) February, also March, 24/-; West Australian February, also March, 24/-; South Australian afloat, also February and March, 24/-; Rosafe 63½lb. afloat, also February, 21/6, Rosafe 64lb. afloat 21/9; Barusso 63½lb. February 21/3. Parcels firmer, but trading low to develop Manitoba descriptions showed an advance of 1½d. to 3d. per quarter, while Plate kinds ruled unchanged to 3d. dearer, with Australian sorts disclosing little or no change. MAIZE cargoes steadily held, but no improvement occurred in demand. Plate February sellers 19/3, March 19/4½, April 18/9, May 18/6. Parcels quiet of sale, but prices maintained a steady level as sellers are not unduly pressing. Plate afloat, also January-February and February-March, sellers 18/10½, March-April 18/6, April-May 18/-, new June sold 17/6, June-July sellers 17/6, white South Russian (on sample) February-March 17/6 per quarter of 480lb. c.i.f. BARLEY—Parcels met with quiet support and prices easier for Canadian Plate qualities at 1½d. per quarter decline, but other varieites remained unaltered. No. 3 Canadian Western (Vancouver shipment) February sellers 17/6, No. 4 Canadian Western February 16/6. Plate (64/65 kilos) January-February, also March, 15/3 per quarter of 40lb. c.i.f. California January-February sellers 22/3, Australian No. 1 January-February 23/-, Chilean f.a.q. February 21/- per quarter of 448lb. OATS—Parcels dull, but prices fully steady. Canadian grades unchanged to 1½d. per quarter up with Plate sorts unaltered. No. 2 Canadian Western (Vancouver shipment) February sellers 15/7½.

MARK LANE CORN.—There was a fair attendance at the week-end market, but trading still of a restricted character, and price changes unimportant. WHEAT steadier for Canadian grades, but River Plates easier; No. 1 Northern Manitoba ex-ship 26/3, No. 2 25/9, No. 3 25/3, No. 4 Manitoba 25/-, No. 5 24/6; Australian new 25/6 to 27/-, per 496lb.; English dry, samples, 22/- to 23/6, out of condition lots 19/- to 22/- f.o.r. per quarter of 504lb. FLOUR dull; London straight run 23/- per sack for country deliveries and 22/- London area; country straights 18/- to 19/- ex-store. Of imported, Manitoba patents 23/- to 26/-, Australian 20/6 to 21/- ex-store per 280lb, excluding quota payment of 2/9 per sack. MAIZE steady; River Plate landed 20/9, ex-ship 19/9, January-February, also February-March, 19/9; No. 2 white flat African landed 20/-, ex-ship 18/9, No. 3 ditto ex-ship 18/6 per 480lb. BARLEY quiet; No. 3 Canadian Western (Vancouver) ex-ship 20/3 to 19/6, as to position; landed 21/3, No. 4 ditto ex-ship 19/3 to 18/6, landed 20/9; River Plate ex-ship 19/6 to 18/-. Russian landed 21/- per 400lb. OATS dull. RYE quiet; English 23/6 f.o.r. per 504lb. MILLERS' WHEATFEED quiet; broad digestive bran 6/9, middlings 6/7½, ground oats 7/3 ex-mill per cwt.

LIVERPOOL.—Wheat quiet. Flour quiet, unchanged; straight run 21/6 ex mill. Maize easier; River Plate 4/4, No. 2 white African 4/1 to 4/1½. Oats steady, better demand; No. 3 Canadian Western and Chilian tawny 18/6. Oatmeal steady, moderate inquiry. Barley scarce, nominal. Bran firm; fair demand at full prices. Futures—Wheat parcels unchanged, 3d. dearer. Options opened ½d. lower, since recovered Thursday's levels; March sold 4/8½, May 4/8½ to 4/8¾. Maize—Parcels River Plate, sellers offer at Thursday's prices.

PROVISIONS.

LONDON.—BUTTER—The market continued dull and depressed, and prices have further given way for all descriptions. Buyers are not disposed to carry stock, in view of heavy prospective supplies over the next few months, with a result that sellers were obliged to grant concessions in order to prevent accumulation. Danish ruled easier, but is still at a substantial premium on Empire butter. Towards the close buyers were more in evidence, and initial declines were partly recovered in the case of Colonial descriptions. Quotations:—New Zealand finest salted 78/- to 80/-, ditto unsalted 80/- to 82/-; Australian finest salted 74/- to 76/-, ditto unsalted 76/- to 80/-; Argentine finest unsalted 76/- to 80/-, Danish 112/-, Dutch creamery unsalted 122/- to 124/-, South African salted 70/- to 74/- per cwt.; Dutch rolls 13/6 to 14/- per dozen lbs.; English 1/4½ per lb. CHEESE—Early movements disclosed weakness for white descriptions, but the closing tone was fairly steady at some recovery. Although the statistical position is sound, confidence is lacking, and buyers are not prepared to carry extra stock. Coloured sorts maintain a high premium on scarcity. Quotations: English farmers ranges from 80/- to 105/-, ditto loaf 90/- to 103/- per cwt.; Cheshire 9d. to 1/-, Stilton 1/6, Italian gorgonzola 10½d. to 1/2 per lb.; Scottish finest farmers 74/- to 84/-, factory white 50/- to 56/-; Canadian white and coloured 60/- to 68/-, New Zealand coloured 55/- to 58/-, white 43/- to 47/-, South African white 44/-, Dutch Edam factory ranges from 41/- to 68/-, Gouda full cream 82/-, factory 43/- to 70/- per cwt. BACON—Market generally quiet, the demand being for heavy selections, but lean neglected, while in liberal supply. Officially Danish, Polish, Lithuanian, also Canadian, were advanced by 2/-, Dutch 2/- to 4/-; Irish 1/- to 3/-, except sizeable, which remained unaltered. Quotations:—Irish 58/- to 70/-, Danish 56/-, Dutch 44/- to 50/-, Swedish 52/- to 54/-, Polish 42/- to 46/-, Lithuanian 43/- to 47/-, Canadian 46/- to 50/- per cwt., English smoked sides 98/- to 102/-, ditto green 92/- to 96/- per cwt.; Swedish was officially advanced 4/- per cwt. HAMS experienced a slow sale on about former terms; English, as to weight, 110/- to 140/-; American short cut 54/- to 58/-, Canadian 58/- to 60/- per cwt. LARD quiet and easier; American, boxes, 41/- to 41/9, pails 42/9, cartons 1lb. 44/9, ditto ½-lb. 46/9; Irish bladders 50/- to 70/-, Danish ditto 53/- per cwt.

LIVERPOOL.—BACONS—Continental unchanged in prices; Danish, leanest, 58/-, 62/-; lean and prime, 57/-, 61/-. IRISH BACON—Moderate interest in trade; small supply; quotations advanced 2/- at 61/- to 63/-; Canadian meats quietly steady at previous prices, Wilts, 46/-, 50/-; short cut hams, 56/-, 60/-. AMERICAN BACON unchanged; supplies limited; clear bellies, 43/-, 47/-; other cuts nominal. HAMS—Limited demand at recent prices; long cut, 68/-, 73/-; short cut, 54/-, 60/-; shoulders scarce and nominal; Argentine meats quiet. LARD—Spot, moderate consumptive off-take; held at recent prices; prime Western, 38/-, 39/-; American refined, 39/-, 41/-. CHEESE—Firmer for N.Z. on better demand; 1/- advance quoted; white, 48/-, 52/-; coloured, 39/-, 63/-; Canadian quietly steady; finest white, 66/-, 70/-; coloured, 67/-, 71/-. BUTTER improved for Empire, which advanced 1/-, with freer demand; N.Z. finest, 80/-, 84/-; first grade, 79/-, 83/-; Australian, 78/-, 82/-; Danish quiet, 2/- easier at 112/, 116/-, cwt. EGGS steady; I.F.S. hen, extras, 13/9, 14/3; selected 13/6, 14/-; mediums, 12/6, 13/-; Northern specials, 17lb., 16/-, 1[illegible]; standard, 15½lb., 15/6, 16/-; selected, 14lb., 143, 14/9; duck, 14/-, 14/6 per 120.

MANCHESTER.—BUTTER—Danish official quotation wired 17 kroner higher, top now stands at 188 kroner per 100 kilos, against 171 kroner the previous week and 214 kroner the corresponding period last year. Advance in Danish official quotation off-set by weakness in rates of exchange, and spot prices for Continental makes were actually 3/- per cwt. lower; Colonial also easier. Choicest qualities quoted:—Danish 114/- to 115/-, special dairies extra; Finnish 103/- to 104/-, Swedish 103/- to 104/-, New Zealand 82/- to 84/-, Australian 81/- to 83/-. BACON—Steady feeling for all cures; Irish advanced 2/-, but no official change recorded in Continental; Irish nominal. Danish 57/- to 62/-, Swedish 51/- to 56/-, Dutch 44/- to 50/-. LARD quiet, and again favouring buyers. English refined 47/- boxes ex works, American 40/- to 41/6 according to brand. CHEESE—Slightly better inquiry on for fresh-made Cheshire, and forward prospects brighter; quotations, however, are still somewhat irregular. Colonial also shows some improvement. New Zealand white 47/- to 48/-, coloured 59/- to 60/-; Canadian white and coloured 66/- to 68/- per cwt. EGGS show rather easier tendency; Irish Free State extra selected 15/-, selected 14/6, mediums 13/6, duck 14/6; Australian 16lb. 13/9, 15lb. 13/3, 14lb. 12/9; Norwegians 12/6 to 14/-, Finnish 12/6 to 14/-, Egyptians 6/-, Chinese ducks 9/- to 9/6.

MANCHESTER MEAT.—Home-killed beef; best small-weight sides around 8d., others around 7½d.; small choice lambs 10d., stronger sorts 9d. to 9½d., ewes 5½d. to 6d.; calves, best 10½d., others 7d. to 8d.; small pigs 8½d., others 7d. to 7½d. Chilled beef: hindquarters 5d. to 5½d., forequarters 3½d. to 4d.; frozen beef: ox hindquarters 3½d. to 4d., crops 3½d.; mutton, wethers 4d., ewes 3½d., lambs 4½d. to 7d.; New Zealand and Australian pigs 6d. to 6½d.

MANCHESTER GAME AND POULTRY.—In dead poultry best chickens firm and dearer; other descriptions maintained at late rates; pheasant season practically ended; hares in fair supply. General quotations:—Irish and English chickens 1/2, fowls 8d. to 9d., ducks 10d. to 1/-, Irish turkeys 1/1, Continental 8d. to 10d.; geese 7d. to 9d. per lb.; pheasants 9/- per brace, best trapped rabbits 2/6 to 3/- per couple, brown hares 2/3 to 2/9 each.

DUBLIN FRUIT AND VEGETABLE.—Cabbage plentiful; other arrivals fair. Buyers in good attendance, and an early clearance effected at firm prices. York cabbage, 20/- to 35/- large load, small 10/- to 16/-; savoy, large 8/- to 16/-, small 5/- to 10/6; swedes, 9d. to 1/2 cwt.; mangolds, 10d. to 1/-; cauliflowers, 2/6 to 3/6 dozen, seconds 8d. to 1/-; lettuce, 9d.; leeks, 1/6 to 2/-; beet, 1/- to 1/4; carrots, 1/3 to 2/6, bags 5/- to 7/-; parsnips, 8d. to 10d., bags 2/- to 3/-; turnips, 6d. to 7d. bunch; jellies, 4d. to 5d.; mint, 2d. to 3d.; thyme, 3d. to 4d.; sage, 4d.; celery, 1/- to 4/6; chokes, 2/- chip; sprouts, 2/4 to 2/6 chip, box 3/- to 3/6; parsley, 1/- to 1/6; box, and apples 2/6 to 3/- box. A fair trade was experienced in the foreign department, with values much the same as last day—namely, apples, American 30/- to 40/- barrel, Russets 35/- to 40/-, Jonathans and Spitz 14/- to 16/- box, Newtowns 14/- to 17/-; oranges, Valencias 10/- to 15/- case, Jaffa 10/- to 16/-; lemons, 22/- to 28/- case, box 14/- to 17/-; grapes, Belgium 2/- lb., Almeria 20/- to 28/- barrel, Californian 15/- box; Cape plums 5/- tray; peaches 6/-; Californian pears, 20/- to 24/- box; pineapples, 4/- to 6/- each; Canary tomatoes, 3/- to 5/- box; Tunis dates, 8/6 dozen; grape fruit, 18/- to 20/- case; bananas, 18/- to 22/- crate, box 8/- to 12/-; onions, Spanish 12/- to 15/- case, and Dutch 11/- bag.

DUBLIN POTATO.—Trade slightly improved at late rates; best table qualities 2/9 to 3/3 per cwt. Supplies still in excess of all requirements.

DUBLIN POULTRY.—Very heavy supplies of all classes on offer, especially dead poultry. Usual good attendance of buyers for week-end sales, which opened strong for small, plump chickens and hen turkeys, for which satisfactory prices were paid; after which buyers showed more caution, and sales went into a late hour of the day, when prices were tending downwards, due to the heavy arrivals to dispose of. Heavy chickens, cock turkeys and old fowl neglected, with many lots unsold. Rabbits plentiful, and readily cleared at firm prices. Chickens, prime light-weights 11d. lb., heavier 9d. to 10d.; hens 1/6 to 2/- each, others 1/-; turkeys, cocks 7d. to 8d. lb., hens 10d. to 1/-; geese 6d.; guinea fowl in feathers 3/- each, ducks, best 2/6 to 3/6, others 1/- to 2/-, and rabbits 11d. each.

DUBLIN BUTTER AND EGG.—Little change to report in butter market since last day. Creamery still plentiful, and in fair demand at late rates. Farmers' parcels scarce, especially the better quality, which is readily disposed of at firm prices. More inquiry for factory butter at slightly firmer rates. Creams 1/1¼ to 1/1½ lb., farmers 8½d. to 9d., and factory 10d. to 10½d. Egg supplies, although showing some increase on past two weeks, are still on the short side, especially the heavier grades. Notwithstanding this, market values across Channel show a considerable fall. Local buyers are showing a more cautious attitude, and sellers are in keen competition, and prices all round are lower. Extra selected, 16 and 17lb. grades, 11/- to 11/9 and 12/- case lots, ordinary and selected 10/3 to 10/9 and 11/-, mediums 9/6 to 10/-, selected ducks 10/6 to 11/6, and smalls 8/6 per 120.

CORK BUTTER.—Creameries 117/- per cwt. wholesale, 120/- net delivered; 120/- retail, 123/- net delivered; 108/- export. Rolls (wholesale) 1/9 per lb. delivered.

DUBLIN FISH.—Fair supplies, which included eight chests lobster, 80 boxes herrings and a fair amount from usual country and local senders. Prices all round satisfactory, except herrings. PRODUCE.

LONDON.—SUGAR—Moderate business in British refined and home-grown granulated; unchanged prices. Terminal steady, with moderate transactions. March sold at 4/8½ to 4/9; May, 4/11¼, 4/11½, 4/11¼, 5/-; August, 5/2¼ to 5/2½ and 5/3; December, 5/5¼, 5/5, 5/5½; March, 5/7½. Foreign, 96 per cent., to the United Kingdom, sold at 4/9 per cwt., c.i.f. COCOA—Spot steady; forward steadier; Accra, G.F., March-April, quoted 23/-; Lagos, 22/6 per 50 kilos, c.i.f.; Bahia, 25/-, c. and f. Terminal steadier; July sold at 24/-; September, 24/6 per cwt. Sales, 30 tons. RUBBER opened very steady, but assumed a quieter tone. Sheet, spot, sold at 2½d. to 2⅜d.; March, 2½d.; April-June, 2⅝d.; July-September, 2½d.; October-December, 2⅝d.; January-March, 2⅝d. lb. London stocks on Monday next expected to be 350 tons higher, and Liverpool 350 tons down. JUTE—Quite a steady market prevailed, but business was confined to a narrow compass, and there was really no new feature to comment upon. Firsts, January-February, Hamburg, sold £14 5/-; Feb.-March, sellers £14 12/6; March-April, £14 17/6; lights, Feb.-March, sellers at £14; hearts, £13; Daisee, £13 5/- value; Tossa, £14 per ton, c.i.f. SHELLAC dull. T.N., spot, 55/-; March, sellers 46/6; May, 47/6; February-March, 45/- per cwt.

OILCAKES.—Linseed Cakes—The markets during the past week have been without any new feature. At the same time a general feeling of uncertainty prevails, and, while this country is without question the world's best buyer, considerably increased supplies appear available, with the result that prices are with difficulty held up. London-made meet a dull sale at £7 17/6 to £8 2/6, and best brands of imported, such as Bombays, Calcuttas, etc., may be bought at £7 5/- to £7 10/- per ton. Cotton Cakes—Shipments of Egyptian have been extremely light for some time past owing to the shortage of seed, and quotations in consequence are well maintained, but the actual amount of business passing is negligible, while small quantities of February and March loadings still offer at £5 1/3 to £5 2/6, ex ship, duty paid, without attracting much attention. English makes continue to be held at relatively high prices, of £5 15/- to £5 17/6. Groundnut cakes, fine quality, Bombay expeller, Groundnut Cake (54 per cent.), now due, are cheaply quoted at £7 5/- ex ship, with forward positions available at slightly under the figure. Offals—English straight-run middlings are without change at £5 10/- to £5 12/6, but bran is sparingly offered at £5 12/6 for ordinary and £6 10/- for broad; fine white Egyptian middlings find favour at £6 per ton ex store, and coarse at £5 5/-, with Canadian shorts obtainable at £5.

OILS—Linseed steadier. Plate spot sellers 18/6, February 15/7½, February-April 16/1½, May-August 17/6, September-December 18/4½. Cotton dull. Crude Egyptian spot 22/6, common edible 25/6, deodorised 27/6. Turpentine quiet. American spot 65/9 per cwt.

OILSEEDS—Linseed—Market steady, but demand inactive. Plate to Hull February-March sellers £8 10/-, March-April £8 11/3, April-May £8 12/6, May-June £8 13/9, June-July £8 15/-; Calcutta to London, February-March also March-April, £10 12/6; Bombay to London February-March £11. Cottonseed firmer on higher cables from Alexandria, but buyers indifferent. Egyptian black to Hull, afloat £7 8/9, February also March £7 7/6, April £7 8/9, with white sorts 5/- per ton less respectively.

LIVERPOOL.—Cane Sugar, Cocoa, Resin, Turpentine steady. Coffe: Low grades easier. Rice, Linseed Oil, Petroleum Oil quiet. Linseed—River Plate quiet at £8 11/3 February-March. Palm Oil steady; sellers soft oils February-March, March-April, April-May £13 7/6. Tallow idle. Palm Kernels quiet; sellers February-March £9 12/6. Ground Nuts quiet; decorticated Nigers quoted £12 17/6, and Coromandels £12 15/- to £12 17/6. Rubber: Hard fine Para spot 4½d. to 4¾d.; Plantation spot and February sellers 2½d.

MISCELLANEOUS.

DUBLIN HAY AND STRAW.—Market fairly well supplied with hay, mostly of useful quality. Much the same number of buyers about, and business opened strong for best classes, which readily repeated late rates. Best cow hay also wanted with closing prices tending upwards. Few inferior loads on offer, and sales closed fairly early without any material change in value. Choice 1st crop 4/- to 4/3 per cwt., 2nd and 3rd 3/6 to 3/9, old meadow best 2/6 to 3/-, extra 3/3, other classes 2/- to 2/3. Straw supplies fair and gave a better proportion of good quality to draw upon. Buyers seemed in more business-like mood, and an earlier clearance was effected at firm to occasionally dearer rates. Best oaten and wheaten, loose, 2/3 to 2/6 cwt. with 2/9 mentioned in one case, and baled 2/- to 2/3.

LONDON METALS MARKET.

TIN BARELY STEADY—COPPER DULL.

TIN—Eastern cables came rather easier, and here a quiet demand prevailed, and prices disclosed easier features. On balance cash 7/6 to 10/- per ton lower, and forward 10/- down. Standard cash quoted £149 12/6 to £149 15/-, three months £150 5/- to £150 10/-; settlement price £149 15/-. Sales amounted to 375 tons, cash at £149 7/6 to £149 12/6, three months £150 to £150 5/-. English ingots quoted £150 15/-. Business was reported in the East at £153 10/- c.i.f. COPPER in better request, but with liberal quantities available a slightly weaker tone resulted. On balance cash marked a decline of 2/6, and forward 1/3 to 2/6 easier. Standard cash quoted £28 7/6 to £28 10/-, three months £28 12/6 to £28 13/9; settlement price £28 10/-. 425 tons changed hands, cash at £28 10/-, three months £28 15/-, £28 12/6, and £28 13/9. Electros quoted £32 15/- to £33, wire bars £33, best selected £30 10/- to £31 15/-, strong sheets £61. LEAD—Market steady, with a moderate demand. 300 tons sold; good soft foreign pig February £10 12/6, May £11; settlement price £10 12/6. English quoted £12. SPELTER met with fair support, but prices barely steady. 700 tons sold, February £13 7/6 to £13 8/9, April £13 13/9, May £13 15/- to £13 16/3; settlement price £13 10/-. ANTIMONY quietly steady. English regulus spot £37 10/- Chinese ditto spot £27 10/-, February-March £25 5/-, crude ditto £18 10/- per ton c.i.f. SECOND SESSION—Tin bareyl steady. 125 tons sold; cash at £149 12/6, closing £149 7/6 value; three months sold £150, £149 17/6, up to £150 5/- and £150. Copper dull; 25 tons sold. Cash quoted £28 7/6, three months sold £28 12/6. Lead idle and unchanged. Spelter steadier; 500 tons sold. February at £13 11/3, April £13 15/- to £13 16/3, May £13 17/6.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

TONE AND COMMENT

DUBLIN QUIET.

FREE STATE LOANS STRONG.

The feature of the Dublin Stock Market yesterday was the strength of Free State Loans. First Loan rose ½ to 105 and Third Loan 1¼ to 106½; Second Loan was bid for at 114¼ and not offered under 115. Land Bonds were unchanged. War Loan continued to appreciate, and 3½ per cent. Conversion marked 100 1/16.

Corporation Stocks were firm.

Among Rails, a couple of Great Southern Pre-Ordinaries fell to lower levels. Dublin Tram Pref. was unchanged.

Banks were better on balance. Bank Stock marked a fall of 1½ points, but Munster and Leinsters and Nationals were firm and higher, and Provincials and Royals both marked at last prices.

Guinness units were quiet and unchanged. Alliance Gas rose 1/16 to 11 11/16. Artisans' Dwellings also rose 1/16 to 12 11/16.

The Industrial section was on the weak side. Both the Tobaccos, Bleachers, British Match, Courtaulds and Unilever (N.V.) were lower. Chemicals and Unilevers improved.

The Stock Exchange will be open for a short session to-day as usual.

LONDON STRONG.

KAFFIRS BOOMING.

At the commencement of business in the London Stock markets yesterday interest was on somewhat quieter lines generally, the imminence of the carry-over exercising a restrictive influence. Shortly after the opening, however, active conditions developed in several directions and prices responded in no uncertain manner, quotations shooting ahead rapidly. Principal attention was directed to the Mining market, with "Kaffirs" again occupying pride of place. As the day progressed dealings became on an even more animated scale, as wave upon wave of buying orders inundated an already overwhelmed market. Prices were marked ahead rapidly throughout the list, and at the official close fresh strong advances were scored, while values continued to appreciate in the street. A large crowd gathered in Throgmorton street, and exciting scenes were witnessed. Dealers and jobbers struggled in an excited seething crowd in an endeavour to transact business, and the mass of people was such that all traffic was brought to a standstill. Many large parcels of shares was dealt in, and dealers declared that the day's volume of business exceeded that transacted on any day of the current boom. That there should be a considerable volume of profit-taking before the end of the account was natural, but so strong was the buying that shares offered were quickly snapped up, and there was no hesitation in the upward trend of values. The street market was continued until a late hour, and while principally business was concerned with Kaffir issues there was also a considerable volume of business passing in West Africans, which also returned substantially improved levels. With the exception of the Mining market there was not a great deal passing, and although the undertone generally was firm modest recessions were shown in a number of directions.

British Funds were not so good, trading being on meagre lines. Following initial weakness some recovery was evident in the later hours, but at the end movements were mostly of an adverse character, though the margins were small. Extremely quiet conditions ruled among Foreign Government Stocks. German Bonds were a weak feature on anxiety regarding the internal political situation, and the Sevens closed 3 points down at 92½, with the 5½ p.c. a similar amount lower at 80. Otherwise movements were few and of little consequence. British Rails sustained an all round set-back, values declining steadily through the session, and at the end losses ranging up to a point were general in both the leaders' and the preference issues. Trading in Colonial and Foreign Rails was on a very limited scale, and values continued to move adversely to holders. Grand Trunk 4 p.c. Guar. stock and the 4 p.c. Perp. Debs. each dropped a further point, but "Can. Pacs.," on the other hand, were finally a trifle on the right side at 16. In the Industrial market, Textiles weakened, Courtaulds being an especially dull market on fears concerning the dividend becoming due shortly, but a number of the Miscellaneous issues returned improved levels, Swedish Match, Marks and Spencers, and Dunlops attracting fresh support. Elsewhere, Oils disclosed a firmer tone, and Rubber and Tea shares moved in the right direction, a number of the movements in the latter market being of quite substantial amounts.

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET.

TEXTILES MAINTAINED.

With the near approach of the carry-over a disposition was seen to even-up commitments in the Industrial Market yesterday. Consequently business was on a smaller scale in practically all sections. Several firm spots were noticeable, but the general tendency was described as irregular. Courtaulds continued depressed, the final dividend estimates intriguing the market. At present forecasts range between 2½ and 3½ per cent.

In the absence of any definite lead from Wall Street, the trans-Atlantic counters finished on the dull side. United States Steel slipped back to 38¾, after being 39¾; and Brazilian Tractions weakened to 10½.

Cables and Wireless stocks were subject to further selling at the opening, but "bear" covering operations caused a recovery. Both the Pref. and "A" Ord. closed fractionally better on the day.

Motor Shares were easier, but a rally occurred in Thomas Tilling on "bear" covering, the price improving 1s. 6d. to 53s. Singers steadied to 9s. 9d., but Austins gave way to 36s. 9d., and Rolls-Royce to 48s.

Another mixed showing was made by Iron, Coal, and Steel descriptions.

With the exception of International Teas, which sagged to 29s. 7½d., and Joseph Travers, which eased to 2 1/16, Provision and Catering issues had a firm appearance. Tate and Lyles remained in active request, and added 6d. further to 61s. 6d., while Unilever, at 30s. 9d., and Unilever N.V., at 31s. 6d., finished the turn harder.

Marks and Spencers continued to receive persistent support, and rose 1/16 further to 6 11/16, while Woolworths looked firm throughout.

Textiles seemed somewhat steadier, though Listers continued under the influence of the loss disclosed for the past year, while Whitworth and Mitchell were subject to further profit-taking. Bleachers, Bradford Dyers, and J. and P. Coats all improved.

Breweries generally remained on the dull side, but Ohlssons and South African Ordinary came in for attention, the latter advancing 1s. 6d. to 53s. 9d.

The Tobacco leaders continued to recede. Carreras "A" gave way 1/16 to 6 1/16, with the "B" Shares on offer at 16s. 9d. "Imps" lost the turn at 4 11/16, while "Bats" held round 1/16. "Cantabs" rallied to 35s. 9d. There was a good turnover in Tobacco Securities Trust issues, following recent developments, the Ordinary finishing at 3 11/16.

Alliance and Dublin Gas rose 2 points to 115.

Chemicals lost an initial improvement, finishing a few pence easier at 25s., while Dunlops were finally a trifle lower on balance at 21s. 6d., after 21s. 10½d. Moderate recessions occurred elsewhere in British Match, British Oxygen, London Brick, and Joseph Lucas. Boots Drug also encountered sellers, and shed 1/16 to 7¼.

Associated Cements, British Oilcakes, Pinchin Johnsons, and Molasses all hardened. James Finlays remained at their overnight level, but Harrisons and Crosfield Deferred added a few pence to 45s. 3d.

RUBBER SHARES FIRM.

Although there was no material expansion in the volume of trading passing in the Rubber Share Market yesterday decidedly firmer conditions were apparent, and at the end substantially improved levels were returned in a number of directions. Quiet conditions ruled in the commodity market. Spot fetched 2½d. to 2 9/16d. per lb., with April to June at 2 9/16d. per lb. and July to September at 2½d. per lb. There is likely to be little change in the United Kingdom stocks of rubber on Monday next, for while Liverpool stocks may be reduced by something like 350 tons, London stocks will, it is anticipated, show an advance of about the same amount.

OIL SHARES EASIER.

Although advices received overnight from New York were not encouraging—slightly lower prices coming over for several American Oil stocks—the tendency of the Oil Market was easier. The Anglo-Persian issues continued prominent, but while the Ords. kept firm the Prefs. reacted as a result of moderate profit-taking sales. Towards the close the rest of the market was subjected to a steady stream of small selling, mainly for the purpose of taking a hand in the activity of the Mining Market. The sales affected prices to an extent unwarranted by the number of shares actually sold, thus affording further evidence of the small amount of interest existing in this section of the Stock Exchange. There was virtually nothing doing on Continental account.

LONDON MINING MARKET STRONG.

HUGE TURNOVER IN KAFFIRS.

The boom which has raged in the Kaffir market throughout the past week on the strength of the remarkable increases in profits earned by the mines last month showed no sign of abating yesterday. Dealings were actively in progress soon after 9.30 a.m., and for a time it seemed that there would be an extension of the downward movement which developed on Thursday. Further profit-taking was induced by the approach of a new account. Preliminary arrangements for the carry-over will be made this morning, and a number of the speculative favourites opened slightly easier. In addition to the local selling a fair amount of stock came on the market from the Cape. Business in Johannesburg was active, but that centre was taking profits, and arbitrage dealers were able to pick up many lines of cheap shares.

The easier trend did not last for long. Before midday the volume of liquidation lessened and the number of buying orders, which had been substantial from the start, became an avalanche.

The scene after the close of the House was described as the wildest since the pre-war boom in the Nigerian Tin market. From the high levels reached before 4 o'clock prices went further ahead, but towards the end a reaction occurred, dealers taking advantage of the opportunity offered by increased profit-taking to mark down prices.

A large proportion of the afternoon buying was for new time, a development which increased the conviction held by some dealers that the bull position has reached dangerous proportions. It is generally anticipated, however, that there will be no serious difficulty in arranging the carry-over.

In the Finance group particular attention was paid to Central Minings and Rand Mines in view of the fact that these companies are interested in low-grade mines to a greater degree than the other finance houses.

A feature among the producer descriptions was an enormous turnover in Nourse. Profit-taking in these shares, however, was exceptionally heavy. They have been one of the most favoured counters during the week, and the net rise was only 1/16 at 2 3/16, although at one time they changed hands at 2 5/16.

Chartereds rose 6 and some support was forthcoming for Cams, part of it being option buying.

The Copper shares were very quiet and dull.

A little more support was forthcoming for Tin shares and one or two quotations improved. Closing prices:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

THE BOOTS PURE DRUG DEAL.

Reuter's New York correspondent, cabling yesterday, says:—Interest has been aroused here by the reports that British interests are negotiating for the repurchase of the American holdings of shares in Boots' Pure Drug Company and in Edmundson Electricity Corporation, which controls a large number of electricity supply undertakings in Britain. The tendency of American investors for some time past has been to liquidate their holdings of European securities and to sell back undertakings purchased in Europe in the boom period. It is believed here that negotiations for the sale to British interests of the 200,000 £1 shares of Boots held by the Drug Incorporated Group are still continuing. Officials of Drug Incorporated refused to comment on the report that these shares had been sold to a London investment trust. In view of the difficulties raised by the British Government to the earlier transaction in these shares it is unlikely that any statement will be made until the deal has been successfully completed. Questioned as to the report that the greater part of the Ordinary shares of Edmundson Electricity Corporation had been bought by British interests, Mr. H. L. Clarke, the president of the Utilities Power and Light Corporation of Chicago, stated that the Prudential Assurance Company purchased some time ago senior securities of Edmundson's. Mr. Clarke added that the Greater London and Counties Trust, which is controlled by his company, still controls Edmundsons, and has not disposed of any of its holdings.

IMPORTANT NEW AUSTRALIAN MINING FINANCE GROUP.

It is stated that arrangements have now been completed in connection with the establishment of an important new undertaking, having as its object the finance, promotion and management of gold mining properties in Australia, and particularly in Western Australia. The new undertaking, Anglo-Australian Gold Development, Ltd., will have, it is understood, a capital of £400,000. Many names prominent in Australian gold mining will be associated with both the directorate and the management of the new company, which will exploit the special opportunities presented by the high price of gold and the bounty on gold guaranteed by the Australian Commonwealth Government. Full official details are expected next week.

NEW STOCKBROKER.

The Minister for Finance has been pleased by licence dated 30th day of January, 1933, to empower Mr. Gustavus Noel Blake Kelly, of 111 Morehampton road, Dublin, to act as a stockbroker in buying and selling Government stocks and Government securities on commission.

THE GOLD BOOM.

A Reuter Ottawa message states that the somewhat spectacular rise in gold stocks during the past week was accelerated to-day with the announcement that a party of eight to ten prominent members of the New York Stock Exchange were leaving to inspect mining properties in Northern Ontario and Quebec. The New York party will be accompanied during their Canadian visit (in which they will use both aeroplanes and railway transport) by officials of the Canadian mines. On the Mining exchanges at Toronto and Montreal stocks of dividend-paying mines have recently appreciably increased. This is naturally consequent on the generally increased production of last year, with the apparent prospect of a steadily increased production this year.

DUBLIN CITY MARKET COMPANY.

INCREASED TAXATION.

Mr. Henry L. Pim, Chairman, presided at the half-yearly meeting of the Dublin (South) City Market Company, Ltd., held at the office, Fade street. The other directors present were Messrs. F. Cyril Martin, Edgar A. Pim and Cecil H. West.

The Chairman moving the adoption of the report and statement of accounts, said—You will recollect that when I addressed you six months ago your attention was drawn to the very large increase in taxes, and that although we were then paying the usual dividend by reducing the carry forward, we very much feared that we could not go on doing so.

You will notice that we propose to pay the dividend at the same rate as in recent years, but to deduct the income tax on this occasion. This enables us almost to restore our carry forward to the figure at which it stood a year ago.

On looking at the accounts you will observe that our expenditure was slightly reduced and our income was somewhat higher than the corresponding period of last year. In fact, I think we would have made a little more money than we ever made before had it not been for the largely increased taxation. Our income tax for the year 1932 was up by £1,190 and our corporation profits tax by £766, compared with the figures for 1931, and this fully explains our reasons for deducting income tax.

Mr. Martin seconded, and the motion was adopted.

A resolution was also passed declaring a dividend of 4s. per share, being at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum less income tax.

THE MONEY MARKET.

DEARER GOVERNMENT BORROWING.

Applications were received at the Bank of England for £40,000,000 Treasury bills. Tenders dated Monday and Wednesday to Saturday of next week at £99 16s. 6d. get about 52 per cent., above in full. Tenders dated Tuesday at £99 16s. 7d. and above receive in full. The average rate indicated is about 14s. per cent., as compared with 13s. 5d. for last week's bills.

The Money Market continued in fair demand yesterday, with borrowers usually paying ½ per cent. for loans until to-day. Bill rates were firm in tone, but without much change. The general quotation for fine three months' paper was ¾ per cent., and the "hot" Treasuries were offered at 11/16 per cent.

In the absence of business, silver was unchanged at 16⅞d. for spot and 16 13/16d. for forward delivery. Gold was ½d. lower at 121s. 3d. per ounce fine. About £40,000 in the market was taken for the Continent.

The pound in relation to the chief gold currencies was steady throughout the day yesterday, and movements were within narrow limits. Several closing rates were without change on the day. Dollars were 1/16c. easier at 3.39 11/16, while the discount on the three months' forward exchange widened slightly to 1⅛c. The Canadian exchange fluctuated between 4.00½ and 4.06½, and finished without alteration at 4.02. Continental exchanges were mostly quiet and unaltered. The South African exchange rates again showed no change.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

GREAT SOUTHERN RAILWAYS.—Owing to the financial position of the company the directors of the Great Southern Railways at their meeting yesterday decided with regret to defer the payment of a dividend on the Guaranteed Preference Stock, which is cumulative. No dividends are available on the Preference and Ordinary stocks of the company. (Dividends were paid on the Guaranteed and Preference for 1931, and 10/- p.c. on the Ordinary.)

A. AND S. HENRY AND CO.—The directors have decided to pay thirteen months' dividend on the Preference Shares up to December 31st, 1932.

BRITISH INVESTMENT TRUST.—Revenue for year, £271,924. Final dividend of 9¼ p.c. on Deferred stock, making, with the interim dividend, 16 p.c. for the year. (Same.)

COOK, SON AND COMPANY, ST. PAUL'S.—The directors state that the profit for the year ended December 31st, 1932, amounts to £50,210, including the profit on the sale of investments, £35,504, and they regret that they are unable to recommend the payment of a dividend on the Ordinary Shares. (In 1931 a dividend of 2½ p.c. was paid on the Ordinary Shares.)

DICKINS AND JONES.—Profit for the year ended January 31st, 1933, of £85,277, against £90,065 for the previous year. Final dividend of 5 p.c. for the half-year, making 7½ p.c. for the year on Ordinary. Forward £39,501, against £39,224 last year. (Dividends totalling 10 p.c. were paid in previous year.)

FLEETWOOD ESTATE.—Dividend of 5 per cent. for year, less tax, on Ordinary, and bonus of 4 per cent., less tax, on Ordinary. Forward £3,028.

LISSEN, LTD.—Profit £174,359 against £94,463. An initial dividend of 12½ per cent. is recommended on the Ord. shares, £80,000 against £4,222 is placed to reserve, and £34,716 compared with £30,357 is carried forward. Reserves now stand at £100,000.

LIVERPOOL GRAIN STORAGE.—Dividend recommenced for last half-year of 3½ per cent., less tax, making 6 per cent., less tax, for year. (Same.) Forward £11,497 (£11,930).

PERRY AND CO.—Dividend in respect of past year as follows:—On Preference 2½ per cent. less tax, making 5 per cent. for year (fixed rate), and on Ordinary 5 per cent. less tax. (Same.)

SOUTH SUBURBAN GAS.—Report for the year ended 31st December, 1932, states the directors recommend for the second half-year a dividend of 3 per cent. on the 5 per cent. Ordinary Stock, less income tax making the dividend for the year 6 per cent., leaving the sum of £1,279 to be carried forward to the next account.

SELINCOURT AND SONS.—Report for the year—less two days—ended 17th December, 1932, states that out of an available balance of £66,050 the directors recommend the payment of an Ordinary dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. for the period ended 17th December, 1932, amounting to £20,000, leaving a balance to be carried forward of £46,050.

SCOTTISH CENTRAL INVESTMENT TRUST.—Dividend of 4 per cent., less tax, for year on Ordinary. Previous year 5½ per cent.

WHITWORTH AND MITCHELL.—Interim dividend at the customary amount of 7½ actual, less tax.

BOOKS OF THE WEEK.

CHRISTIAN ART IN IRELAND.

La Sculpture Irlandaise pendant les Douze Premiers Siècles de L'Ere Chrétienne. Par Françoise Henry, Docteur ès Lettres. Volume 1: Texte. Volume 2: Planches. Paris: Librairie Ernest Leroux. 500 francs.

A HUNDRED years ago George Petrie was awarded a gold medal and a prize by the Royal Irish Academy for his essay on the "Origins and Uses of the Round Towers of Ireland," which he later expanded into the celebrated volume, "The Ecclesiastical Architecture of Ireland." That book, the first scientific examination into the origins of native ancient buildings and their distinctive features and ornaments, covers some part of the subject of Dr. Henry's splendid volume, La Sculpture Irlandaise, and has long stood as the foundation for subsequent workers.

Since Petrie's time many have added details to the structure, and many have pursued researches in one phase or other of Irish art in metal and stone, and upon parchment or in historical records. European scholars have brought to light much of the arts of the East and West, then disregarded or unknown, and have described the expatriated objects of Irish provenance which rest in continental museums. The list of workers is a long one—seven pages of bibliography in the volume under review are devoted to the more important. Some names deserve special mention—Margaret Stokes, Coffey, Dunraven, Macalister, Strzygowski and, in particular, Crawford, to whose patient and unrewarded work Dr. Henry renders a well-merited tribute. La Sculpture Irlandaise stands high among the productions of these workers of the past and present, and highest in its particular subject, marking an epoch, as did Petrie's work nearly a hundred years ago.

It is, in the main, a monograph upon the sculptures of the high crosses and a complete conspectus of them. The first chapter deals with chronology—so difficult a subject by reason of the small number of definitely dated objects—while those that follow treat in detail the various forms of ornaments and figure scenes. There is a very important chapter on Christian iconography, followed by the final section upon the sculptures of the Romanesque churches.

* * * * *

It is the author's view—and one with which it is easy to concur—that Christian art in Ireland is the continuation of the pagan art which came before it, and that it absorbed its borrowings from many sources without slavish copying, weaving them always into a unified and genuinely native art. In it the same spirit pervades the decoration whatever the material worked upon may be. To paraphrase one of the most striking passages, the Kingdoms, animal and vegetable blend, men and beasts, spirals and ribbons associate and lend character one to another in a world without closed compartments.

She shows that the numerous borrowings were from many and diverse foreign sources, now Germanic, later—in the seventh and eighth centuries—from the Orient, Syria, Armenia and from the Copts. In the following century Carolingian art had its effect, and, finally, under Scandinavian influences, Irish art came again into contact with another of Germanic character. Throughout the unbroken development the Celtic spirit remains. Only with the coming of the Cistercians and their severe ideals is the chain severed. For a short period—witness the east end of Jerpoint Abbey and the newly discovered column bases at Baltinglass — the Celtic craftsman struggled to carry on his tradition, but the break was final and remarkable in its suddenness.

With Dr. Henry's conclusions on the crosses and their ornaments, so cogently argued and so admirably illustrated, it is hardly possible to disagree, and only lack of space forbids an examination of them here. In regard to the datings given to some of the Romanesque buildings, however, agreement is not so easy. This is a thorny subject. Irish writers, from Petrie onwards, were inclined to claim a very high antiquity even for the decorated buildings of this country. English writers would have it that none such could have been erected here before the twelfth century. They would derive all such work from the Romanesque of Normandy, through England. Very lengthy controversies have taken place between protagonists much less well equipped than is our author, who exhibits clearly the divergencies between Irish architecture and that of Northern France and its derivatives, disposing successfully of all parts of the question but that of date.

* * * * *

Professor Baldwin Brown has stated categorically that the chevron—the most pervasive ornament of the Northern Romanesque style—is not used in the buildings of Western Europe before the year 1100, but Dr. Henry's examples of its use in minor arts at much earlier periods—decorating an arch on the Frank-casket (c. 700), for instance—suggest that his view requires reconsideration. Its appearance in these works in a decorative architectural context points to the probability of its use in the minor buildings of early times on the Continent, now displaced by the grandiose erections of later times. It is this very disappearance of early buildings abroad which gives such importance to the many remaining early churches of Ireland, where such clearances were less common. It may be that our chevrons antedate those still existing in Normandy. It is conceivable, though the author suggests other origins, that it is essentially a wooden ornament derived from the angular notching of the edge of a piece of timber—a common decoration even to-day. Its absence from all but the Norman provinces of France, and its over-frequent use in England, Germany and Ireland, suggest that it may be a heritage from the defunct wooden architecture of Northern Europe, the existence of which Strzygowski has laboured to establish. The gable of the north porch of Cormac's Chapel at Cashel is an obvious translation from wood to stone, and the chevron its principal ornament.

* * * * *

The placing of the early parts of Rahan Church so early as the eighth century, and the doorway of Killeshin soon after 1000, while recognising that other works like the grand arch of Tuam belong to the twelfth century, is difficult to accept. It supposes the continuance of a style with little marked change for a period of about 300 years, an unusual thing in architectural history. The book, however, does not profess to be a history of Irish architecture—which is, perhaps, the reason of the misconception of the function of the arch in the vaults of the stone-roofed churches. It is certainly a prop or stay, but is intended to prevent inward sagging of the corbelled roof slopes—evident at Gallerus—not outward bulging. A stone vault is ascribed to the early church at Liathmore, but neither of the original churches there was so roofed, the vaulting of the larger being of the fifteenth century.

In the introduction the author states that her work is primarily an essay in classification. It is that, but it is very much more—a convincing statement of the diverse origins and development of Irish art in stone during twelve centuries. It will endure, probably, as one of the great works in Irish archæology, and certainly one which should be in the hands of every student of this period of rare interest. The county libraries could, and ought to, make it accessible to a wider public.

The plates, 171 in number, are superb—many are from the author's own photographs—and illustrate almost every work of note in the period covered, as well as many foreign examples. The line illustrations in the text, very broadly and boldly drawn, fulfil their purpose perfectly.

The volume—or rather volumes, for the text and plates are separate, a convenient arrangement—is clearly the product of years of patient reading, wide research, close comparisons and much travel; it is no less obviously the product of a labour of love.

MISS BENSON is a master hand at giving her delighted readers a complete surprise. She has done so before, and it is impossible to say anything about her latest book without mentioning the surprise that comes just half-way through it. Discerning readers may be prepared in some degree for it; for, when the first part of a book is called "Masked Ball," the second part, "After Twelve," and when the whole is called "Façade," suspicions ought to be aroused. What really happens is that the excellent story is re-told, chapter by chapter—with this difference, that in the second part the characters have laid aside their masks, and appear as they really are. Then, the attractive race-horse owner is seen to be the unprincipled gambler, who prefers the sophisticated married woman friend to the loyal Philippa; and she, in turn, is seen to be a thoroughly disillusionised person.

Miss Benson notices everything—the starved dog that licks the axle grease from the hubs of stationary wheels is only one of many sights that would appear very trivial to some writers. She has succeeded in writing a tale that bears re-telling immediately. She has proved beyond all doubt that the polite and kindly mask of society is to be preferred any day to the candid and disillusionising revelation of inmost thoughts.

In Mr. Phillpotts's latest novel the story of Avis Bryden is taken a little further, though it will not be finished until the third volume of the trilogy has been written—the trilogy that began with the book called "Bred in the Bone." The author uses his beloved Dartmoor country as a somewhat sombre background for his sombre history of an unprincipled woman, whose ambitions for her son are quite unbounded. Murder is only a word, Avis Bryden said once, and she lived up to this belief. Both Unity Bent, her son's sweetheart, and Warburton, a neighbour, get in the way of this woman's plans, and pay the penalty—though in both cases the jury calls it suicide. As always the writer's descriptions of the country that he loves are beautiful, and his readers will look forward to the third volume of his powerful history.

Mr. Temple Thurston possesses the scarce knack of describing in a few words what would require half a page in the hands of most people. Many of these short stories have a hopeless ending—"But if that night of the anniversary, when the fields were washed in the silver stillness of moonlight, Father John returned, as he apparently did, to Josiah Goodenough, it is conceivable to suppose his heart may have been broken." There is an "if" in all of them; but then Mr. Thurston probably realises that life is made up of "ifs." He has the trick, too, of picturisation: "Mockbeggar Hall was her life. It was England before the War. An England where life had gone back to its Edwardian habits, customs and associations. She bottled gooseberries, her plums and her blackcurrants. Making jam was a yearly ceremony, like maypole dancing." Nothing more need be said about this woman's life.

THERE are few books that do not lose in translation, and "The Singers" is no exception. The English is halting and broken, but, in spite of this fact, the book is well worth reading. It concerns a little group of men living in the small German town of Wurzburg—men who before the War were prosperous citizens, but have fallen on hard times. They form the idea of going around from town to town singing, and so the famous quartet is founded—with the fifth friend as manager. How they procure the dress suits, how every man harbours doubts and suspicions about the results of the adventure, is powerfully portrayed. Thomas Kletterer, son of one of the members of the quartet, is typical of young Germany—steady, ambitious and determined. Unemployment, poverty, murder, jealousy and love are all treated with realism that causes "The Singers" to linger in the memory.

If "The Unenchanted Circle" is Mr. Latimer's first novel, he ought to be encouraged. To many people, doubtless, the familiar family circle is unenchanted; yet the magic of romance is there for those who look. Among the vividly real characters in this book none is more real than Eustace, the nondescript dog—a loveable and philosophic creature. The mother of a normally "difficult" family becomes a dear friend to the reader, though she gnashes her teeth rather a lot. For years she gave up her own interests for those of her family, and her half-hearted revolt is as short-lived as it would have been in real life. The story may be recommended to most readers—especially to lovers of dogs like Eustace.

"The Frightened Lady" is not one of the late Edgar Wallace's best "thrillers," but even the worst of his compositions in this vein has a quality that is lacking in the work of other writers. He has a trick of compression which packs six detective stories into the compass of one. Wallace was not greatly concerned about probability; he was willing to take any licences to turn out something really mystifying. The reader who "spots" the criminal in "The Frightened Lady" can call himself a shrewd man. It is an eminently exciting story, wherein incident piles on incident to the last page. Let us hope that more posthumous works of Edgar Wallace will see the light.

PATRICK PEARSE AND THE 1916 RISING.

The Life of Patrick H. Pearse. Adapted from the French of Louis N. Le Roux, and revised by the author. Translated by Desmond Ryan. Dublin: The Talbot Press. 10/6 net.

THIS is a spirited and faithful rendering into English of the panegyric which M. Le Roux published in French last year. In some respects it is a quite new edition, and, in addition to the corrections of errors that appeared in the original version, it contains new material of some importance. The long historical introduction, which was obviously intended for French readers ill-versed in Irish history, has been omitted, and so, too, but with less reason, have the illustrations which accompanied the French text been omitted.

M. Le Roux evidently has taken great pains to obtain fresh information upon the life of Pearse and upon the events that led up to the insurrection of Easter Week; and to all but a few people many parts of his volume will come as a revelation. The biographical sections clearly are based to a very large extent on Mr. Desmond Ryan's "The Man Called Pearse"; and, if anything, they are even more enthusiastic than that warm, but discerning, appreciation. To many Irish readers, however, the more interesting sections will be those in which M. Le Roux makes an extensive study of Pearse as an educationalist, and as an artist and writer. In these sections are treated qualities of Pearse's which are too often overlooked in the heat of political controversy. Confessing himself a hero-worshipper, M. Le Roux is not less warm in his praise of these aspects of Pearse than of Pearse's militant nationalism. Posterity, indeed, may temper its appreciation with more criticism than M. Le Roux displays in these pages, but even the hostile-minded cannot fail to be stirred by his challenge to a closer examination of Pearse's life-work in all its phases.

* * * * *

In his later chapters M. Le Roux discloses much of what went on behind the scenes in the Irish Republican Brotherhood and in the inner councils of the Irish Volunteers before the actual rising. We can scarcely believe that he would claim that the whole story is told here. Certain portions of the story, as related by him in these pages, will provoke controversy—not least those relating to Professor MacNeill and Mr. Bulmer Hobson. For these portions M. Le Roux has had access to oral and documentary sources of information, not generally accessible and not hitherto drawn upon by other writers. Clearly these are of the first importance, and M. Le Roux handles them skilfully; but it seems equally clear that they require to be supplemented and checked from other sources. In several places M. Le Roux cites, or refers to, a document embodying what may appropriately be termed the MacNeill case, and it is surely high time now that Professor MacNeill, without offence, and simply as a matter of historical importance, should have this document published.

The revisions and excisions, numerous though they are, have not freed M. Le Roux's text from error. It is not in accordance with fact, for example, to state that "in their opposition to conscription" in 1914 the Nationalists and Labour men "were joined by the Catholic clergy." No such junction took place until 1918. It cannot be said either that "in 1912 . . . . Nationalist Ireland sprang to arms." The Irish Volunteers were not founded until 1913, and they were preceded by the Irish Citizen Army. The unpublished appeal of Pearse's, referred to as dating from "late in November or early in December," 1913, must have been earlier in the year than December; for by that time MacNeill's article, which made Pearse's appeal unnecessary, had appeared, and the Volunteers had been formally launched. The very important meeting held at 25 Parnell square after the outbreak of the War took place not on the 1st, but the 9th September. No convention of the Irish Volunteers was held on the 25th of that month; what took place was a meeting of the Volunteers' Executive, minus the Redmondite nominees. It was not after the "split," but from its inception, that the armed body referred to was "officially styled Irish Volunteers." The actual years spent by T. J. Clarke in prison were not 20, but 15 and some months.

* * * * *

M. Le Roux states that after April 6th all trace of Joseph Plunkett was lost. If he inquires, he will find that Plunkett was then interviewing a high German military authority; that this authority said that he could not send less than 50,000 troops, with the necessary artillery, and that the Germans could see no possibility of getting such a force into Ireland. Again, in the matter of the much-discussed Kelly document, M. Le Roux will find that a Dublin evening paper asked the British military authorities what should be said about it; that the authorities requested that the newspaper should make no reference to it, and that, on being told that the Separatist weekly journals would have it, the authorities said that it could be published, with a statement to the effect that it was not genuine.

M. Le Roux says that "no decision appears to have been taken" on Easter Sunday morning. This requires evidence which he does not supply, and, on the contrary, there is some evidence that early on Sunday it was decided to strike on Monday at noon; but it was agreed not to make the final plans until 11 p.m., lest they should be disclosed. If "on Sunday at noon couriers took to the roads on behalf of Pearse," they do not seem to have succeeded in their mission of countering the MacNeill couriers. Did the Pearse couriers not leave early on Monday morning? Moreover, it was not "towards 11 o'clock," but just before noon, that the Provisional Government left Liberty Hall for the General Post Office. Occasionally, statements made by M. Le Roux cannot be reconciled with one another, as when in one place he puts Thomas MacDonagh among "the first members of the secret Military Council of the I.R.B.," and in another states that it was not until early in February, 1916, that "MacDonagh was co-opted a member." It is, however, a mere slip that makes him date An Barr Buadh for 1912 and 1913. All these are errors which, with others, ought to be corrected in future editions.

CONTRACT BRIDGE.

Explanatory Guide to the New Laws of Contract Bridge. By Hubert Phillips. London: Faber and Faber. 3/- net.

Contract Bridge in Ten Minutes. By Ely Culbertson. Faber and Faber. 1/- net.

AT first sight it appears slightly ridiculous that the new laws of bridge should be so complicated as to require an explanatory guide; but, if we pick up any magazine running a bridge column, we find replies to questions on law, ranging from the most elementary to others which really appear to point to ambiguities. Therein lies the usefulness of Mr. Phillips's book. It will be of the greatest assistance in settling some of those disputes which so frequently arise. A work of this description, however, ought to be itself above reproach; and, unfortunately, there are two or three points where the explanation is ambiguous or insufficient. Firstly, in the interpretation of Law 17, it says: "Once the bidding is closed a player may only inquire what the final declaration is." The interpretation ought to read: "Once a card has been led," and so on.

Secondly, in regard to insufficient bids, the explanation suggests that the offending player may only call a sufficient number of tricks in any suit to make good his declaration. Actually, by the law, there is nothing to prevent him from going seven, though three might make the bid sufficient.

In the explanation of Law 47 there seems to be a subtle distinction between: "But the declarer cannot call upon the player in question to make any play that would constitute a revoke"—the phrase used by Mr. Phillips—and the Portland Club's "but no such requirement can override the player's duty to follow suit."

In a work of this nature these small blemishes must be pointed out, but their presence will not interfere with the value of the book to the ordinary player who is lost in the fog of the law.

* * * * *

"Time records" are going by the board at contract bridge, as at everything else. For the last few years one prominent teacher who regards twenty minutes as the period necessary to produce a contract player, has held pride of place, but now Mr. Culbertson has halved this time. It is all very distressing to anyone who has been playing bridge for twenty odd years, has changed to contract since its inception, and yet is still learning something fresh every little while.

Mr. Culbertson's book is very much better value than his "Blue Book," of which it is a prècis, with some stiffening of the no trump requirements previously laid down. The claim that a study of his principles will work miracles in transforming a novice into a trustworthy partner is quite legitimate, but readers will be well advised to remember that they may also become trustworthy opponents.

THE ART OF THE ANGLER.

Wings and Hackle. By Raymond Hill. London: Hutchinson. 10/6 net.

THOUGH Mr. Hill's book was written years ago, its spirit ever must remain young. Methods of technique will alter, and tackle will improve, as the years pass; but the essence of the art of angling will remain fundamentally the same, and it is with the essence that Mr. Hill deals. Mr. Hill has written about all that is fine and lovely in the angler's art. His book is a record of streams, rivers, woods and wide moors, of forest, coppice, glen and spinney. It is a symphony for an angler, with a fine leitmotif of a whirring reel. As a mere record of fish caught, or fished for, it is valuable and instructive. As a real countryman's book it is in the first class. The birds likely to come within the angler's ken are noted and well described, while the photographs with which the book is lavishly supplied are enough to make any angler worthy the name flex his muscles for that long, sweet cast when the fly falls, soft as thistledown, "dead on" the rise.

DESTITUTE.

Down and Out in Paris and London. By George Orwell. London: Gollancz. 8/6 net.

MR. ORWELL'S book is a particularly realistic account of complete destitution. He does not supply any clue to his subject's identity or former history, but from internal evidence he is clearly a man of education, with a plentitude of experience in writing. His descriptions of the Paris underworld, frank to the point of sordidness, reveal an aspect of the city about which most foreigners remain in happy ignorance. For a time he was employed as a plongeur, or scullion, in a large hotel, and there is a good deal of humour in his version of what really takes place behind the scenes. Later he crossed to England, and discovered for himself how the Poor Law regulations operate for the benefit of the homeless man. His experiences have led him to striking conclusions; for, he says, "I shall never again think that all tramps are drunken scoundrels, nor expect a beggar to be grateful when I give him a penny, nor be surprised if men out of work lack energy, nor subscribe to the Salvation Army, nor pawn my clothes, nor refuse a handbill, nor enjoy a meal at a smart restaurant." When the reader begins to look for the reason for these conclusions, he will not put the work down until his curiosity is satisfied.

HOW BANKRUPTCY WAS CAUSED.

MR. JAMES LARKIN'S APPLICATION.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE JOHNSTON.)

An application for a certificate of conformity was made by Mr. James Larkin, of Unity Hall, Marlborough street, and 41 Wellington road, Dublin. Mr. Larkin was adjudicated bankrupt on 21st November, 1924, and in February, 1932, an order was made passing his final examination.

Mr. FitzGibbon, K.C., and Mr. Alec Lynn (instructed by Mr. C. B. W. Boyle) appeared for Mr. Larkin; and Mr. FitzGerald, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. James O'Connor and Co.) for the assignees and the petitioning creditors, who are members of the Transport and General Workers' Union.

In support of the application, Mr. FitzGibbon said that such an application would not be granted unless it was proved to the Court that one of the following conditions had been fulfilled:—(1) That a dividend of not less than 10s. in the £ had been paid out of his property, or (2) that the bankruptcy or the failure to pay 10s. in the £ had arisen from circumstances for which the bankrupt could not justly be held responsible. In the present case they had not paid 10s. in the £, and the final examination had been passed.

Mr. Justice Johnston—What composition was paid?

Mr. FitzGibbon—None. The bankrupt has since the unfortunate occurrences which brought about his bankruptcy been penniless. The only question was whether the failure to pay the 10s. in the £ had arisen from circumstances for which the bankrupt could not justly be held responsible.

Mr. Larkin, counsel continued, had been all his life fighting the corner of the working-men in the City of Dublin. The cause of his bankruptcy had been a sum of £1,093 for costs awarded against him in two consolidated actions arising out of matters connected with the Transport and General Workers' Union, of which he was a member of the Executive Council, and had been for a time General Secretary. A dispute arose in the Union and an action was brought by eight men who claimed to be the governing body. The proceedings out of which the case arose, which resulted in Mr. Larkin's bankruptcy, commenced in 1923, and at that date Mr. Larkin owed no man a penny. The dispute was between different sections about the manner in which the funds of the Union could under the rules be properly employed. One section applied funds for political purposes, and Mr. Larkin considered that that was a breach of trust. The plaintiffs in the action asked for an injunction to prevent Mr. Larkin from preventing them from entering the Union premises. The costs against Mr. Larkin amounted to £1,093, and he satisfied the Court on the occasion of passing his final examination that the payment of 10s. in the £ on such a sum was beyond possibility so far as he was concerned.

TWO AFFIDAVITS.

Mr. Justice Johnston—£500 is not such a terrible sum for a public man like Mr. Larkin.

Mr. FitzGibbon—If there had been any possibility of paying such a sum his final examination would not have been passed.

Counsel referred to an affidavit made by Mr. Larkin, in which he stated that he had given the assignees all the assistance in his power. When he returned from America he had 2,000 dollars and he did not owe money to anyone. The assignee had also made an affidavit, in which it was stated that the bankrupt could not be said not to be justly responsible, and also that he had by unlawful conduct provoked the costs for which he was adjudicated.

Counsel went on to say that Mr. Larkin was not fighting for personal gain, but was performing what he considered to be his duty as trustee for the members of the Union, and the Court would not allow the bankruptcy to hang over his head to be used maliciously in excluding him from activities to which he should be admitted. Mr. FitzGibbon submitted that the case came within the principles laid down by the Court of Appeal in the Davitt case, in which the Court gave a certificate where the bankruptcy was caused by having an election petition where undue influence was alleged and the incurring of costs did not prevent the Court from being of opinion that it was brought about by causes for which the bankrupt could not be held responsible.

Proceeding, counsel asked the Court, in using its discretion, to hold that Mr. Larkin was not now responsible for being without the necessary means to pay 10s. in the £ of this heavy debt, and that he was not justly responsible for the debt which gave rise to his bankruptcy. Mr. Larkin was the founder of the Transport Union and devoted the best years of his life to fighting the battle of the under-dog. One could not be a citizen of Dublin without seeing the big difference between the working-class of to-day and the people of the same class twenty-five years ago. That amelioration was largely due to the efforts of Mr. Larkin.

Mr. FitzGerald, K.C., in opposing the application, said that it was quite contrary to the practice in these cases. He went on to refer to the statements made by the Master of the Rolls in giving his decision, and asked the Court not to treat this case as one in which Mr. Larkin could not be held justly responsible for the position in which he found himself.

Mr. Lynn, who supported the application, said that the litigation which gave rise to this matter was an action in which Mr. Larkin was not the plaintiff, but the defendant. There was an absolute failure on the part of the creditors to differentiate between what Mr. Larkin had done in his personal capacity and as an officer of the Transport Union.

Mr. Justice Johnston stated that, taking into account all the circumstances of Mr. Larkin's bankruptcy, he could not come to the conclusion that he should now grant the certificate applied for, and he accordingly refused the application, with costs.

LOUTH FARMER'S PROPERTY.

WILL SAID TO HAVE BEEN DESTROYED.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE O'BYRNE.)

Mr. Charles S. Campbell (instructed by Messrs. MacMahon, Russell and Co.) applied on behalf of Bernard Duff, of Meekatharra, Western Australia, and now residing at Dundalk, for a grant of letters of administration intestate of his brother, Laurence Duff, of Tullygoan, Co. Louth, who died on 25th September, 1930.

The late Laurence Duff, said Mr. Campbell, made a will in December, 1920, and by it gave pecuniary charitable legacies to clergymen, amounting to £40, and any moneys he had, or debts due to him, to his nephews, Bernard and Patrick. He purported to bequeath his farm at Tullygoan and another at Killanny to the applicant for life, subject to his returning from Australia within twelve months.

The will was given to him by the solicitors who drew it up, and he took it away, but after his death, although search was made, the will could not be found, and the presumption was that it had been revoked. Between the date of the will and his death, Laurence Duff had conversations with his brother Patrick, Mary Duff, Patrick's wife, and also with friends of his, George Gartlan and Peter Kerley, in each of which he stated he had destroyed the will. Notice of the application had been served on the only persons interested under the will other than the clergymen.

Mr. Campbell said that there were six affidavits, in addition to the applicant's, in support of the application.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne granted the application.

INJUNCTION TO STOP SALE.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MEREDITH.)

Mr. P. J. Roe (instructed by Mr. P. A. Mooney) applied, on behalf of James Corrigan, retired merchant, 67 Kenilworth square, Rathgar, Dublin, for an interim injunction restraining Matthew Reilly, Druminbawn, Co. Cavan, from putting up for sale, as advertised, two farms of land—viz., 40 acres at Moate, Moynalty, and 92 acres at Mullaghreagh, or Hermitage, Moynalty.

Counsel said that the applicant was an uncle of two minors, aged ten and eleven years, the owners of the farms. He intervened, as he considered that, in the present time of depression, the farms would be sold below their value. A summons had been issued for the administration of the estate under the Courts.

Mr. Justice Meredith granted the application.

NURSE IN MOTOR ACCIDENT.

DAMAGES CLAIMED FOR DISFIGUREMENT.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE O'BYRNE.)

An application was made by Mr. McGonigal (instructed by Mr. Michael D. White) on behalf of Dr. Patrick O'Callaghan, of the Diamond, Carndonagh, for an order transferring to the Circuit Court for Donegal an action brought against him by Miss Winifred Sheerin, a nurse, of Carndonagh, claiming damages for personal injuries caused through the alleged negligence of his agent in the driving of his motor car between Ballybofey and Carndonagh on 5th November of last year.

It was stated that Miss Sheerin was a passenger in Dr. O'Callaghan's motor car, which was being driven by Dr. O'Callaghan's son, and when the driver was rounding a corner the car went into a ditch. Miss Sheerin was thrown against one of the windows of the car, and was cut in the face by the broken glass.

Mr. McGonigal said that the plaintiff had not suffered any financial loss during the time when she was away from hospital, and her solicitor, in an affidavit, stated that the action was brought to recover damages for the disfigurement of the plaintiff's appearance. Dr. James McCormick stated, in an affidavit, that, in his opinion, the scar on the plaintiff's face would gradually become less apparent. Counsel submitted that the action should be transferred to the Circuit Court.

A photograph of the plaintiff, taken, it was stated, subsequent to the accident, was among the documents in the case.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne, without calling on counsel for the plaintiff, refused the application. The plaintiff, he said, had a rather serious disfigurement, which, Dr. McCormick said, might become less apparent as time went on, but it was not suggested that the Mr. Fergus O'Connor (instructed by Mr. was informed that the lady was a nurse, and it seemed obvious that her personal appearance was a matter of account in her profession. He could not say that a jury, on hearing the case, might not give upwards of £300 damages, and accordingly he refused to transfer it.

Mr. Fergus O'Connor (instructed by Mr. John Tracy) appeared for the plaintiff.

SEDUCTION CASE.

£400 DAMAGES AGAINST FARMER.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE O'BYRNE.)

An action was heard in which Patrick Fogarty (26), farmer, of Kilkillara, Thurles, claimed damages from John Egan (35), also a farmer, and late District Court Clerk for Thurles, living at Kilkillara, for the betrayal of his sister Mary, now aged about seventeen years.

The plaintiff gave evidence that his parents were dead and that he lived with his sister and a brother in a house a short distance from where the defendant lived. He completely trusted the defendant, who was frequently in his house with his sister.

A letter was read from the plaintiffs' solicitor to the defendant refusing an offer made by the defendant to an uncle of the plaintiff of £300 in yearly instalments of £50.

Mary Fogarty gave evidence that when she was 15½ years of age the defendant asked her to marry him and she consented. A date was fixed for the marriage, but the defendant said that he was not ready and it did not take place.

In reply to Mr. Kingsmill Moore, the witness said that she did not know that the reason why the marriage had not taken place was that she had refused to give up innocent familiarity with her cousins and others. The defendant was of a very jealous disposition.

The defendant was not examined, and Mr. Kingsmill Moore addressed the judge on the question of damages.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne gave judgment for the plaintiff for £400 damages, with costs.

Mr. J. J. Walsh (instructed by Mr. John P. Carrigan, Thurles) appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Kingsmill Moore (instructed by Messrs. L. J. Ryan and Son, Thurles) for the defendant.

DUBLIN MATRIMONIAL SUIT.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE O'BYRNE.)

William B. Pollock, of Ranelagh road, Dublin, against whom an order for attachment had been made on the previous Friday, attended in custody and was examined regarding his failure to obey an order of the Court.

The order for attachment was made against Mr. Pollock for disobedience of an order of 30th January, 1931, directing him to pay alimony at the rate of £2 a week to his wife, Mrs. Sarah Ann Pollock, of Dartmouth road, Dublin. It was stated that he had paid alimony until 23rd July last, but since then had paid his wife nothing.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne, having heard the evidence of Mr. Pollock, said that he was not satisfied that the respondent had any means to pay alimony, and accordingly he discharged the committal order and directed his release from custody.

Mr. Russell (instructed by Messrs. Little, O hUadhaigh and Proud) appeared for Mrs. Pollock, the petitioner.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

CASE OF PAGE BOY.

ALLEGED CONFESSION TO DEFRAUDING CHILDREN.

(BEFORE MR. O'SULLIVAN.)

Detective McSweeney said that when charged and cautioned, Roe said: "The charge is right. I got 2s. 2d. from the girl. I didn't know the girl." Roe said that he did not wish to put the detective to any more trouble, and added: "I did a few more round here." He admitted that he also got 2s. 6d. from a small boy by telling him that his mother said he was to get the 2s. 6d. where the boy had gone for bread so that she could pay the insurance man. He met a girl coming from a pawn office with a suit of clothes and told her that her mother had told him to get her to re-pawn the suit for £1 and give him the money. The girl did so.

Roe was remanded in custody until Tuesday next.

£260 RAZOR BLADE CHARGE.

A further remand for a fortnight was ordered in the case against Michael Flaherty, traveller, North King street, and Timothy Wilson, shopkeeper, Upper Church street, who were charged on remand with stealing from the goods premises of the London, Midland and Scottish Railway Ever-ready and Star razor blades to the value of £265 4s., and with illegal possession of the goods.

POSTAL ORDER CASE.

Nicholas Roche, described as a barman, who had been employed in London, was remanded until Wednesday next on a charge of having received postal orders knowing them to have been stolen.

Detective Clarke said that the defendant, whom he took into custody at Dale Street Police Station, Liverpool, admitted having received the postal orders, but said he did not know that they had been stolen.

BALBRIGGAN LIVE STOCK SALE.

Messrs. John P. Cuffe, Ltd., auctioneers, valuers and live-stock salesmen, 31 Manor street, Dublin, held their usual fortnightly sale at their sale mart, at Balbriggan, on Monday last, where the supplies on offer were heavier, consisting principally of store cattle, and, with buyers in a cautious mood, prices were easier, except for cattle showing quality and condition, for which there was keen competition, all others hard to cash and prices uneven. Trade for milch cows was quieter, but those of the right stamp got easily placed.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT (CRIMINAL) COURT

SEVEN YEARS' PENAL SERVITUDE.

(BEFORE JUDGE DAVITT.)

Michael Daly, a man of the tramp class, who was convicted of a series of indecent offences, was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude. Judge Davitt described him as "the most disgusting wretch" who had ever stood in the dock in Green street.

SUSPENSORY SENTENCE.

Thomas Buckley pleaded guilty to sending a letter to Mr. Robert Chambers, manager of the Greenmount and Boyne Linen Co., threatening to kill him and to burn his house, as well as the house of Mr. Charles Hurley.

Judge Davitt imposed a suspensory sentence of three months' imprisonment, with hard labour, and discharged the prisoner on his own recognisance to come up for judgment if called upon. Mr. Gearoid O'Sullivan (instructed by Mr. Herman Good) appeared for the prisoner.

The death has taken place at his home of Mr. Charles Doherty, Ballynahona, Glengad, Malin, a farmer, at the age of ninety-eight years.
